DISSOLVING A MONOPOLY

Chicago Court Divorces C. U. and A. T. & T. Companies.

COURT HOLDS BELL SYSTEM MONOPOLY

Central Union Must Be Operated as Independent Company.

Chicago, July 12.—By a decree of the Cook county superior court the Central Union Telephone company, operating in Illinois, Indiana and Ohio, has been divorced from the American Telephone and Telegraph company and all stock held in the former company by the latter has been ordered sold at public auction.

The decree, which was entered yesterday by Judge W. E. Dever, directs the Central Union company to operate as a separate, independent company. It is said to derive an annual income of nearly $10,000,000 from 370,000 stations. The decree is similar to an opinion given in the case by Judge Dever last January.

The court holds that the Bell system is a monopoly and has been since its establishment and orders that all notes of the Central Union company held by the American Telephone and Telegraph company, amounting to more than $40,000,000, be surrendered and cancelled.

The court further orders an accounting against the A. T. & T. company in favor of the independent company for wrongful diversion of business, for unfair treatment in payment of so-called "originating commission."

MAGNETIC HEALER CLAIMED BY DEATH

Anton C. Lisner, 70, Had Run Sanitarium for Six Years.

Anton C. Lisner, aged 70 years, died Wednesday night at his home, 1906 West Main street. Death was caused by a complication of diseases. The deceased was the well-known magnetic healer. He was born in Saxony in 1847 and came to America twenty-three years ago. He came almost immediately to Fort Wayne. For seventeen years he was employed as a knitter. At the end of that time he established his magnetic healing sanitarium on West Main street and had been in that business ever since. Surviving relatives are the widow, Mrs. Paul Frankenstein, and one daughter, Mrs. J. H. Bosch officiating interment at Lindenwood cemetery.

STEFF.

Louis Steff, age 21 years, died at a local hospital Wednesday afternoon. Death was due to tuberculosis. He was employed as a laborer. He was born in Macedonia and is survived by the parents in the old country. His home was at 1826 Hanna street. Funeral services Friday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock at the Schone & Ankenbruck chapel. Interment at Lindenwood.

JAMES.

Alice Mae James, colored, six months old, died at the home of her grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Lee James, Wednesday morning at 1115 Thayer street. Thursday morning.

FUNERAL NOTICES.

Hibler.—Funeral services for Thomas Verner Hibler will be held Friday morning at 8:30 o'clock at 2033 Lafayette street and at 9 o'clock at the Cathedral; interment at Catholic cemetery.

Rockhill.—Funeral services for Mrs. Henry Rockhill will be held Friday morning at 8:30 o'clock (standard time) at the home, and at 9 o'clock (standard time) at the St. Patrick's Catholic church, of Arcola. Interment in Lindenwood. Auto funeral.

LUDLOW.

Louise Ludlow, aged 68 years, died at a local hospital Thursday morning. The remains were removed to the Schone & Ankenbruck parlors, where funeral services will be held at a time to be announced later.

HAVE YOU GOT YOURS?

Washington, July 12.—There is one automobile for every 290 inhabitants in the United States, according to figures for last year made public by the federal public roads bureau today. Iowa, with one car for every 11 persons, led the country in the number of machines registered in proportion to population. Arkansas, with one automobile for every 116 is at the foot of the list.

The Turner ladies will have a pedro and bunco party in their hall in West Superior street on Friday afternoon.

CITY OFFICERS ARE PREPARING BUDGETS

Figures Will Run Higher for All Departments in 1918.

The annual mathematical exercise is on at the city hall. Making the variable X, which represents the expenditures for the coming year, equal the amount Y, the sum to be had for conducting the city business, is the effort now under way.

City Controller Baade has ordered that budgets from all city departments be in as soon as possible. The action upon the figures made out must be made on August 1. Controller Baade states in his order to city officers. The council will act upon the budget at the first meeting in August.

Figures in all departments will run higher for next year, it is explained in every office. Higher cost of materials is a reason. Demands for more improvements is another contributing factor. Repair of the green houses will add nearly $10,000 to the park board's numbers.

Members of the board of public works began their whittling at the order from the controller was received Thursday. Many calls are being made upon the works department and if all requests were met the entire allotment would be used for that branch alone.

STILL UP IN AIR.

No Action Attempted in Park Board Matter.

Nobody knows what will be the outcome of the small tempest which was stirred up when Carl J. Getz, city forester and park superintendent, announced that he would resign from the city service. The latest movement is to combine the offices of park board secretary and the park superintendent, with Mr. Getz filling both places.

"The work cannot be done by one man," said Charles J. Steiss, secretary to the commission.

"One man could handle both places," stated Mr. Getz Thursday morning.

Abe Ackerman, member of the park board, stated definitely Thursday that no action on the matter had been taken and no new plans will be made until the return of Colonel D. N. Foster, head of the park board, who will be in Indianapolis for several days.

"We had not heard of the plan to combine the two offices until the matter was placed before us by a newspaper man," said Mr. Ackerman.

"We have not thought seriously of the plan."

The following statement, pertaining to the present situation, is given by Carl J. Getz:

"I sincerely regret the great notoriety and hoped the matter would be decided on its merits. The board refused to accept my resignation and asked me to remain at a definite figure and now a compromise, all of which must be ratified by the council to become effective. The members of the board are thorough business gentlemen and I feel the situation very keenly. I do not blame the council for deliberating for an unwise act on their part causes public condemnation. From the applications received it is evident that a competent, experienced new park superintendent cannot be secured for the figure set by the board as fair compensation for the work. I hope that the matter will be speedily disposed of."

GIVE NO DECISION.

Mayor and City Attorney Attend Gas Meeting.

Mayor W. J. Hosey and City Attorney Guy Colerick attended the hearing of the gas companies of the state before the public service commission in Indianapolis, Wednesday. The city officials are opposed to plans of the gas corporation, which they believe will lower the standard of gas heating.

One of the proposals of the gas companies is that meters be tested every five years. Mayor Hosey is battling for the right of the consumer to have his meter tested whenever he desires, by paying a dollar service fee. City officers from several parts of the state were in Indianapolis appearing against the proposed measure. The commission made no decision.

PARK CONCERT.

Program to Be Given Friday by Citizens Band.

The park board concert Friday evening, July 13, will be given at Swinney park by the Citizens band, Paul Rietzsch, director, and the following program will be rendered:

Overture—The Kink Pin.....Taylor
Entr'acte—Bewitching Beauty.....
Selection—'Almo Honey Do You Live?'.....Briquet
Patrol—The Blue and Gray.....Dalbey
Rag—Ole Virginny.....Zamecnik
Selection—So Long Letty.....Carroll
Star Spangled Banner.....Key

Expect to Finish Soon.

State accountants, who are going over the books of the city light department, expect to have their task completed in a few days. The public auditors have been at work at the office of the department for several weeks, following the resignation of John Wessel, Jr., as manager of the plant. No discrepancies have been found in the records. The city auditor, Mr. Wessel, Jr., placed slips in the safe for every bill of the $8,000 he converted to his own use.

Clearing Park Grounds.

Park Superintendent Getz, with a crew of workmen, is clearing the city coliseum grounds, corner of Lewis and Clinton streets, for immediate park use. Wire fencing for the south part of the grounds has been ordered.

by the park board. The city plat will be thrown open to the public in a few days.

Sewer Progressing.

The Brooks Construction company is well under way with work of building the sewer under the Coombs street elevation. When the drain is finished the elevation construction will be completed.

Draft List In.

Lists of the conscriptable men and their numbers have been sent to the adjutant general of Indiana. The duplicated cards were sent out Wednesday night. Fort Wayne was the last city in the state to send in her revised lists. Word was received Wednesday noon that utmost speed was necessary as Fort Wayne was holding up the report of the entire state.

Birth Record.

Born, to Mr. and Mrs. Edward Benning, 2717 South Harrison street—a girl.

To Mr. and Mrs. W. S. Merriman, 1828 Koch street—a girl.

To Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Morehead, 518 Greenwood avenue—a boy.

To Mr. and Mrs. Louis Young, 1323 Green street—a girl.

HARK, PRETTY GIRLS, WE PRESENT A BARON

"I Love the Ladies" Sings Noble Who Urges Fight.

Curly blond locks, bright blue eyes, rosy complexion, sunny disposition and a desire for a title.

baron in the city who wishes a smile from you.

"American girls, mon dieu, I love them," he told a Sentinel reporter, Thursday. "I am ready to marry the right one at any time."

Baron Dr. De Ogler, son of one of the oldest Roumanian families in the subject. Coal black hair, a spry walk, a new cane and a wealth of army experience to relate, is a part of the interesting things about the baron.

He is stopping at the Anthony hotel. He will give a public reception in the parlors of the hotel on Friday morning, from 9 o'clock until 11:30. He will arrange for the proper introduction and would like to meet all of Fort Wayne's pretty girls at that time.

Over in the province of Jaffe, Roumania, the baron did have an estate. He hopes to gain control of the manor farm after the war.

Large villa and many rows of grape arbors, taken by much blood shed by the baron's progenitors. The stern subject of war is the mission of the titled gentleman to the city. He was formerly an officer in the Fourth regiment Austrian Royal Dragoons. He was wounded in the battle of Schabetz, on December 18, 1914. When he recovered from his injuries he came to America.

After the world conflict the baron may become a domestic American citizen. He has taken out his first papers. He is enthusiastic about America's cause in the titanic conflict. He is giving daily recruiting talks at the court house.

But back to the original subject. "I don't care if she doesn't have a dollar. If she is pretty and of just the right sort I will try and make a living for her," says the baron about the matter.

WILL DISCUSS NEED OF NEW CONSTITUTION

Mass Meeting to Be Held at New Haven Saturday Evening.

A mass meeting of all citizens, both men and women, will be held in New Haven Saturday evening at 7:30 o'clock, standard time, at which time Attorney David Hogg, of this city, will speak upon the subject, "The Needs of a New Constitution in Indiana," and Mrs. Augusta Hughton, of New York, will speak upon "Suffrage in Indiana."

There will be three notary publics present to register both men and women free of charge for the election for delegates to new constitutional convention to be held in September.

MARRIED AT HILLSDALE.

Hillsdale, Mich., July 12.—Archie C. Armstrong, of Gas City, Ind., and Miss Nettie H. Baker, of Hartford City, Ind., were married here by Rev. Louis DeLamar at the Methodist parsonage.

TO DEAL WITH CAR SHORTAGE

Division of Car Service is Created by Interstate Commerce Board.

WILL HAVE A WIDE RANGE OF DUTIES

Will Regulate Car Service by Direct Orders to the Carriers.

Washington, July 12.—Creation of a division of car service to deal with the movement, distribution, exchange, interchange and return of freight cars was announced today by the interstate commerce commission. E. H. Degroot has been appointed chief of the division. A. G. Guthrie will have executive charge of the organization and its operation assisted by H. C. Barclay.

Through this division the commission will regulate car service throughout the country through direct orders to the carriers, with the purpose of dealing with car shortage and seeing that the troops, war materials and necessary supplies are moved rapidly.

Federal Supervision. The creation of the new division, which is the first definite government steps for permanent supervision over traffic movements, is in accordance with the car service act approved May 29, amending the act to regulate commerce.

The urgent necessity for regulation in the distribution of cars has been pointed out to the commission many times by both shippers and carriers. Despite the efforts of the railroads certain sections have suffered more than others from shortage.

The carriers have appointed local car service committees at 25 points and the national industrial traffic league has named similar bodies representing shippers at the same points.

NO FURTHER RELIANCE ON BORROWED SCALES

Leo Market Woman Gets Costly Lesson in Neighborly Kindness.

If Mrs. Mary Klingler, Leo farm woman, comes to the city market again she will bring her own set of scales. She stated so definitely in city court Thursday morning. She will not trust to borrowed property in disposing of her produce any more, she says. Mrs. Klingler, a widow, was fined $10 and costs on a charge of giving short weight on the market. Several women testified that she sold them a pound of butter and represented the package to be a pound and a quarter. City Solicitor David Hogg, who had weighed the butter and found it under weight. The defendant argued that she had made use of the scales of the woman who operated the stand next to hers on the market. The fault is in the other woman's scales, Mrs. Klingler attempted to convince the court. The farm woman who ran the stand to the north of the defendant's said that her scales were correct and that Mrs. Klingler had done her own weighing. Mrs. Klingler paid her fine.

"I will get my own scales of my own," she ruefully said.

CHIPPEWA INDIANS BESTOW SUFFRAGE

Benidji, Minn., July 12.—After refusing chiefs of the tribe representation in their council on the ground that modern Indians are democrats and not monarchists, Minnesota Chippewa Indians today gave the vote to women.

The fight revolved about Cora Coffey, a stenographer, 23 years old, employed by the United States government at the Fond du Lac reservation, who is the solitary woman delegate. Older Indians objected to her being seated on the ground that the innovation was dangerous. "Equal rights," however, were championed by the younger element, who are in control. One of the interesting characters at the convention is Captain John Smith, of Cass Lake, who is said to be 123 years old.

WILL AGAIN SHOW HOW TO CAN FRUIT

Another canning demonstration in connection with the food relief work of the city will be held on Wednesday afternoon, July 18, at the Trinity Episcopal church. Several women, who have made a careful study of the science of canning, will be in charge of the exhibit and demonstration.

NEUTRAL CONGRESS POSTPONED.

Buenos Aires, Argentina, July 12.—The congress of neutral South American nations to formulate a common policy in respect to problems arising from the war, has been postponed indefinitely.

HUSBAND, 79, SUES WIFE, 72, FOR DIVORCE

John N. Kress Says His Wife Refuses to Cook His Meals for Him.

John N. Kress, 79 years old, filed suit in superior court Thursday afternoon asking for a divorce from Mary E. Kress, 72 years old. Kress is represented by Somers & Kennerk.

Mr. and Mrs. Kress were married on July 11, 1913, and separated April 26, 1917. The plaintiff is employed as an elevator operator. He sets forth in his complaint that his wife has frequently refused to prepare his meals in the evening when he would come home from work and on divers times he was compelled to cook his own meals. He also alleges that she would go away from home and stay until late in the evening.

On April 26, 1917, he charges that she packed all of the things belonging to her in their home and shipped the same to Newark, N. J., without his consent.

WANT LIEN FORECLOSED.

Bass Company Brings Suit Against Mitchell Mining Company.

Suit has been filed in the circuit court by the Bass Foundry and Machine company against the Mitchell Mining company and others for $1,800 and the foreclosure of a lien. The company claims that on and prior to May 1, 1907 it constructed and manufactured at the request of the defendants a tandem compound engine which the defendants paid for, the title thereby passing to it. Inasmuch as the defendants were not ready to receive it, they asked the plaintiff to care and store same, which it agreed to do upon the understanding that the mining company pay a reasonable compensation for storage. The plaintiff alleges it cared for the engine for 122 months and that a reasonable charge therefor was $5 a month and was compelled to insure the engine at a cost of $562.45. Judgment of $1,600 is asked with the request that same may be added to the cost of the engine and such lien foreclosed and property sold for payment of the amount.

FAILS TO PROVIDE.

Because he failed to make proper provision for her maintenance, Dessole M. Calhoun has brought suit in the superior court asking for divorce from Edwin Calhoun. She is represented by Attorneys Ryan, Ryan & Aldrich. Failure to provide is not all Mrs. Calhoun charges. In addition to being cruel and inhuman, she alleges that on various occasions her husband has conducted himself in a manner unbecoming a married man. She is asking for the custody of their only child, Ada May, one and one-half years old. Mr. and Mrs. Calhoun were married May 26, 1913, and separated on July 10, 1917.

Ditch Established. The county commissioners Thursday established the Ackerman ditch in St. Joe township.

Wanted Receiver Appointed. Charles Clark, through his attorney, Howard Benninghoff, has filed suit in the circuit court against Dan Valos, James Stephens, John Lamprison and John Floras, owners of "The Splendid Restaurant," for collection of $100 alleged to be due on account and the appointment of a receiver.

Twenty-two Calls. The local branch of the state employment bureau at the court house has twenty-two calls on file for farm hands. Farmers of the country are greatly in need of help.

Petition for Drainage. Ten interested property owners have filed a petition in the superior court asking for the establishment of a drainage in Pleasant township. The petition was filed by S. S. Sussman Bros. Co., by Abe Ackerman, vice president; Fred Scherer, Elizabeth Scherer, by F. S. Scherer, attorney; Roy A. Scherer, Clarence Scherer, Mary Mitchell, J. F. Meyers, Frederick D. King, Pearl King and Marshall M. Wellbaum. The petitioners are represented by Macbeth & Hogg.

Two Decrees Granted. Decrees for divorce have been awarded by Judge Carl Yapple in the superior court to Paul Boone from Ollus Boone, and Clarence J. Bricker from Mabel Bricker.

Divorce Case Finished. After a hearing continuing since Wednesday morning the suit for divorce brought by Viola Archibold against John D. Archibold, was finished in the superior court Thursday afternoon. The defendant had filed a cross complaint. Mrs. Archibold is asking for the custody of the two children and $1,500 alimony.

Notes of the Courts. Relatives of Silas Corson, who is under arrest, charged with attempted assault upon a little girl, have engaged Attorney Hans C. Meland to defend him when the case is taken up in the circuit court.

The Citizens Trust company has filed its final report in the matter of the guardianship of Anna Knobel, a person of unsound mind.

Judgment in the sum of $143.75 has been awarded the Tailors' Factory Catalogue company against Leonard V. Likens in superior court.

The Dudlo Manufacturing company has purchased from the receiver the property of the Anytte Electric Regulator company for $1,360. There are claims against the defendant company amounting to $5,597.

A judgment for $58.90 has been awarded the plaintiff in the case of the Standard Oil company against Carl L. Sowers and George W. Sowers. Judgment for $84.92 has been awarded in the superior court to Leo E. Bartman against Charles L. Carmelle.

Attorney David Hogg has been appointed receiver in the superior court of "The Splendid Restaurant."

TRACTION COMPANY BUYS A COAL MINE

Will Furnish Its Employees With Fuel at Greatly Reduced Prices.

The Fort Wayne & Northern Traction company has purchased part interest in a southern Indiana coal mine and as a result will offer to the employees of the company coal at a much cheaper figure than it could be secured elsewhere.

The company has asked that all employees who desire coal notify company officials at once. The coal will then be delivered to the employees at the nearest shipping point and it will be given to them for the exact cost of production, plus the freight.

FIRST BRITISH WOMAN TO WORK AS A DIPLOMAT

London, July 12.—One of the British representatives at the recent Anglo-German conference at The Hague, in reference to war prisoners, was Mrs. Darley Livingston, young American wife of a British officer, and secretary of a government committee concerning the treatment of British prisoners in enemy country. She is the first woman to have been engaged in diplomatic negotiations in behalf of Great Britain.

Summary of the Day's War News

General Brussloff's offensive in Galicia is developing into a battle with little or no let-up at least so far as the part in it played by General Korniloff's armies is concerned.

Yesterday's news of the capture of Halez was followed today by the announcement that General Korniloff's troops had pushed on beyond Lesuvka, southwest of Stanislaw, and reached and occupied Kalusz, a city of 8,000 population, seven miles to the west of the Stoka river. The Austro-German headquarters in this sector was situated here. Kalusz was stubbornly defended, but after a sanguinary battle the Russians pushed into the town and according to advices from Petrograd they are continuing their advance after having taken a large number of prisoners.

The German attack on Monday on the Belgian coast ceased with the capture of the small sector east of the Yser, which the Germans had devastated with their intensive gunfire. Neither last night's or today's British official announcement records any further fighting of moment in this region, although the artillery is continuing active. A German raid near Loni-baertzyde was driven off by the British.

On the Verdun front the German crown prince made a number of attacks on both banks of the Meuse. All these assaults, delivered in the vicinity of Hill 304 on the one side of the stream and north of the Hardaumont work on the other, were repulsed by the French, as were attacks on the Aisne front south of Juvincourt and in the region of the Triangulaire plateau.

ROTARY CLUB TO BE ACTIVE

Organization Will Give Attention to Military Camp Work.

WILL ASSIST THE GOVERNMENT

Boy Scout Movement Will Also Be Helped During Coming Year.

The Fort Wayne Rotarians are planning for a splendid season of work beginning with the opening of the club calendar early in the fall. This will include definite plans to assist the government in purifying conditions about military training camps which includes not only the excluding of immoral influences but the provision in a large way of the means of entertainment, recreation and mental development of the men in the camps. The boy scout movement will also receive attention of the clubs in general and will doubtless claim the earnest consideration of the local organization, backed by the big general movement of the clubs of international Rotary. The club has engaged a number of men of national renown to speak before its members beginning with the opening of the fall season.

Rubin and Rotary Garden. President Robert Koerber, of the Fort Wayne club, is wondering what possible connection there may be between the daily downpour of rain and the plans of the club to go in a body to work in the club's big garden east of the city limits. "Therefore," says Mr. Koerber, "if we have through the newspapers, to announce to the club members that we will no longer try to do our gardening in bunches, but I will urge every member to give his potatoes and beans personal attention at such times as he may be able to get away from his other duties. The garden idea is a splendid one. We found, during the big international convention at Atlanta that the idea of a Rotary garden is not at all original with the Fort Wayne club, but that other clubs in various parts of the country are doing the same thing, many of them on a larger scale than we have undertaken, and the movement is considered one of the finest expressions of service at the present time. We want the Fort Wayne garden to play its part."

WELL KNOWN JURIST DIES. Kingston, N. Y., July 12.—Rufus Hildreth Thayer, of Albany, who was a judge in the United States court for China from 1909 to 1913, and former judge advocate general of the national guard of the District of Columbia, died here today. A few hours after being stricken with apoplexy. He was serving as chairman of the Schoharie-Shandaken condemnation commission under a recent appointment.

ONCE NOTED BOXER DEAD. Middleboro, Mass., July 12.—Michael J. Cavanaugh, known in the sporting world as Mike Glover, a widely known boxer, died at a hospital here last night after a long illness. He was at one time considered by many sporting writers as the welterweight champion of the country. He was born in Lawrence in 1890.

Learn Some French Today

SEVENTH LESSON

PREPARED BY MME. ARCHINARD

I wish to see sergeant—
Je voudrais voir le sergent—
Juh voodray vwar luh savrian—
Will he get better?
Se guerira-t-il?
Suh gayreera-teel?
When have you been wounded?
Quand avez-vous ete blessé?
Kang avay voo zayta blasā?
At what time is the dressing?
A quelle heure le pansement?
A kell uhr luh pansuhman?

In these lessons the English sentence appears in the first line, the French equivalent in the second and the pronunciation in the third line. In the pronunciation key, straight lines over the letters A and U denote the long sound, as in "hâte" and "dûde"; curved lines over these letters denote the short sound, as in "hat" and "but"; two dots over the U indicate a sound somewhat like the German "ue", which Americans may approach by pronouncing long U and long E at the same time. Cut out these lessons and paste them in your note book. The purpose here is merely to give the young men who may serve with the army in France such a knowledge of French as will make simple words known and some sort of friendly intercourse with French people and soldiers possible. No attempt is made to teach the grammar of the language.

Homer By Mathes Closes Last Game Disastrously

Grand Rapids Takes the Series on the Strength of One Hard Blow.

Had Ump Daley called it off on account of rain when the fans and most of the players wanted him to, there would have been another story. But Daley is very much averse to any advice in carrying out his official duties and the more the bugs yelled, the more determined he was to stand out there and get wet just to finish the game. It was finished, score 3 to 2, with Grand Rapids up.

Everything happened in the ninth, after one was down. Kowalski was pitching a hard game with all kinds of hops and breaks in the ball. He had the visitors swinging their arms off trying to get the ball, while all in vain. One was out in the ninth and Carey was walked. He stole second, but might as well have saved himself the trouble, for the hard-hitting Mathes was the next in line. Mathes connected with one and started sailing toward the right field fence. Gleich went up the hill, watched the pill go over the fence and then sat down to think it over. The two runs put Grand Rapids in the lead and the Chiefs could not come through.

Early in the game, while they were in the lead, the Chiefs were breaking their necks to get the game far enough along to claim it when the rain started in earnest. In this way they passed up several chances which might have been worth the game to them. Several times players were around to third and a little head work might have sent them in, but the Chiefs were playing the weather just then and had no time for anything else.

Grand Rapids started the scoring in the second inning. With one down Miller connected for a double, was held on second when Collins popped out; but finished the circuit on Brant's single to Siegfried. In the last half of the inning Gleichson made his debut and if that was a sample of his opening stuff, he can be a debatable all season as far as we are concerned. It was a three-bagger and a bird, between center and left. Mike Kelly, the bald-headed first sacker followed with a double, sending Gleichson home. Brown bunted down the block. Siegfried then hit a single to right, which Brown should have scored, but the shortstop was leading clear off and couldn't get back and start over soon enough. A triple steal was started but Smith in trying to add it, popped out and the golden opportunity was lost.

Right there the battle with the weather started. The Chiefs with Kowalski hurling had little trouble putting the visitors away in quick order, but in the meantime they getting general chances themselves. The chances were received in a half-hearted manner and as a result no scoring was done. Daley was expected to call quits on account of the drizzle at any time, but Daley fooled them and the game went along till the end.

The sad story of the first part of the ninth has already been related. In the last of the ninth it was do or die. We died. Roberts was sent to the bullpen to warm, an impossible job in the midst of the rain, and Vandagriff went in to hit for Kowalski after two were down. Vandy tamped one to the infield and arrived at first several seconds after the ball, thus ending the ball game.

Interest in the Sunset league of the General Electric works is growing keener every day. Games are being played Tuesday and Thursday and the results are being watched closely all through the large plant. The apprentices are leading the league, having played but one game, and won this one. They are followed closely by the Meters, who have lost but one out of four.

One of the hardest games yet played was that between the Warehouse and Toolmakers at Foster park Tuesday night. The game, which was scheduled for seven innings, went nine with the Warehouse winning in the last 8 to 7. At Lawton park Tuesday evening the Meters defeated the Apparatus team 10 to 3.

Managers of the office club announce that Sorum, the University of Wisconsin catcher, who hit 1,000 in the last game, has clinched his position. He was being rushed by M. J. Mison, formerly with the Wheelers, Ind., club. A new pitcher, Cooper, who formerly played on the fast Nordyke and Marmon club of Indianapolis, is expected to report soon with the office outfit.

ALL-WESTERN TACKLE

Enlists in Aviation Corps and Is Training at Ohio State.

Minneapolis, Minn., July 12.—Frank Mayer, for two years all-western tackle on the University of Minnesota football eleven, is doing "his bit." Mayer enlisted as a member of the United States aviation corps and is in training at the Ohio State university station. He graduated from the law department this year. His home is in East Grand Forks, Minn.

Norman Ross Smashes Whole Row of Records

NORMAN ROSS, King of Swimmers.

San Diego, Cal., July 12.—Winning seven races and breaking twelve A. A. U. records, Norman Ross, of San Francisco, was star of the Pacific coast championship swimming events held here on July 4.

The most spectacular achievement made by Ross was shattering of the world's mile record held by Ludy Langer, of Los Angeles. Ross covered the distance in 24 minutes and 10 seconds, which is 43 1-5 seconds faster than the time made by Langer.

Experts who watched Ross declared that his form was such as to have defeated swimmers of all time had he been pressed to his limit. Ross himself, however, has declared that Duke Kahanamoku, the Hawaiian, is his master at the 100-yard distance. Langer did not compete against Ross when the latter made his smashing mile. A race between the two might develop even faster time.

EQUALS MARQUARD'S 19-GAME RECORD—IS AFTER WORLD'S STRAIGHT-WIN MARK

Young Texas Leaguer, Also, is First Right Hander to Reach Nine-teen Consecutive Victory.

Staff Special.
Dallas, Texas, July 12.—Rube Marquard's crown for the consecutive victory record is being disputed and Baxter Sparks' record of twenty-one consecutive games is in danger of being smashed.

And by a right hander, too! Baxter Sparks climbed to the top by his left arm, when he pitched for the Yazoo, Miss., club and won 21 games in a row in 1904. So did Marquard when he rung up the major league record with 19 consecutive victories for the New York Giants in 1912.

But here comes John "Snipe" Conley, of the Dallas club of the Texas league, and brings home a record to equal, if not surpass, that of Richard.

In fact, he claims the record for right handers.

Conley's right hand won him 19 consecutive games this season for the Dallas club, and he is relying on it to hang up a new record for all leagues.

Conley came to the Dallas club from the Baltimore Feds. While pitching in an exhibition game with the Baltimore club, he fell and injured his pitching arm. For a year he was unable to use an overhand delivery.

Last year he used nothing but a side-arm motion. He is rapidly regaining his overhand delivery, which has brought him much of his success. He is also a spit baller, with a deceiving change of pace.

The Dallas management recently had an offer for Conley from the Philadelphia Athletics, but refused it. Dallas is hungry for a pennant and so long as Conley is rushing them toward it at a steady pace, the club doesn't want to lose him.

Nearly all the games won were remarkably close. Four were shut outs.

JOHN CONLEY

and in one he allowed no hits, fanned nine men and only one man reached first. Conley is a young chap and shows signs of remarkable control and intelligence on the mound. He has self confidence, but shows he hasn't an overdose of it.

"ABOLISH SPITBALL" SAYS CLARK GRIFFITH

Sponsor of Wet Delivery Calls It Unnatural and Unfair.

"Let's abolish the spit ball," says Clark Griffith. It is one thing which has crept into baseball in fairly modern times which hasn't bettered the game. It ought to be prohibited for all time to come.

In making this severe charge against the wet delivery I realize that I am in a measure responsible for the spit ball. It is true that I never used it myself as it is used today. But I guess I was the first pitcher to employ the principle which makes the spit ball so effective. This principle in brief is that where one side of the ball is smoother than the other the ball can be released from the pitcher's hand in such a way as to completely alter its proper rotation as it shoots through the air. And the altering of this rotation is what gives the ball its peculiar break as it ducks across the plate.

Now the spit ball pitcher accomplishes this end by wetting one side of the ball so that it slips away from under his fingers with the least possible friction. The same result could be accomplished in a general way by roughening one side of the ball. For the principle would be the same. That is, one side of the ball would be smoother than the other.

This is precisely what I used to do. I had a habit as far back as I can remember, of hitting the ball on the spikes of my bat before I started to pitch. At first I think it was nothing more than a habit, just as some pitchers are always hitching up their belts or shifting their caps. But after a while I noticed that when I had scarred one side of a new ball with my spikes it would break a good deal better when it crossed the plate. And right here is where I made a big mistake. I had a secret all to myself which would have been worth a good deal to me. What I was doing was really pitching an emery ball. It was the same idea that Russell Ford later used, an idea which made him a good many seasons. Ford, however, made an exact study of the thing and reduced it to a science. He made good use of the idea and it was only when he was about through as a pitcher that the secret leaked out, became common property, and was abolished by all the leagues.

I never used the idea in such a thorough way as Ford did. I would hit the ball on my spikes once in a while to get a sharp break on a curve. But I never put enough thought into the thing to figure out just why the ball would break so well. Why didn't I do this? Simple. I didn't have sense enough.

The idea, if I had made the best use of it, would have made me a more successful pitcher than I was, and no doubt would have added a good deal to my reputation and to the amount of money I got out of the game. I had a gold mine and didn't have intelligence enough to work it.

I don't blame a pitcher for using all the tricks that the law allows. When I was a pitcher I did the same and would do the same over again. But that isn't the point. I can see now that such things as the emery ball which I first used and the spit ball which was a logical outcome of the emery ball, are bad for the game. The emery ball has been abolished and everybody agreed that it was rightly abolished. But why discriminate against the emery ball and allow the spit ball which is worked on the same general principle, to remain?

SAFETY LIMIT CAUSE OF HIGH BILLIARD RUNS

Recent records made by cut artists at three-cushion billiards are due chiefly to perfection in billiard manufacture and the limiting of players to one safety.

The safety shot limit, however, even more than the perfected table, is considered by experts to be the cause for such high marks as 18 recently by Alfredo de Oro in a practice game with Charles Otis in New York.

De Oro is practicing for his championship match with Bob Carrfax at St. Louis next fall. The high mark in championship contests is 13, held by De Oro and William Huey.

Others who equalled De Oro at running 18 at three-cushion are Charley Morin and Jess Lease of Chicago, and Fiere Matapome, of Mexico City.

This high mark of 18 even may be surpassed soon, so fast are the three-cushion experts traveling.

SAWYER AND MARKWELL PLAY HARDEST MATCH

Chicago Still Well Represented in Western Golf Tournament.

Chicago, Ill., July 12.—Four Chicagoans, two Bostonians, one New Yorker, and one South American golfer made up the four matches today in the third match round of 36 holes for the western amateur championship at the Midlothian club, the scene yesterday of the longest championship contest in history. Ned Sawyer, of Chicago, champion in 1908, required 42 holes to defeat Robert Markwell, of Chicago, Yale university student, the collegian, with par golf, having been 5 up at the start of the last nine holes and Dormie three. With three pars, Sawyer squared the contest on the home green, and six extra holes, held a large gallery until dark. Then, Markwell by reason of a trapped toe, shot on the 15-yard sixth hole, failed to get a par, and lost, 1 down in 42 holes.

Jesse P. Gullford, champion of Massachusetts, conquered G. Decker French, of Rock Island, 13 up and 23 holes. Donald Edwards, of Midlothian, had almost as easy a match with J. S. Worthington, of Great Britain, the trans-Atlantic player, getting what he termed "a good leathering" 1 down and 8 to play.

Reuben Bush, the only Southern contender in the second round, was eliminated by Kenneth Edwards, 3 and 2, and the winner played Gullford today. Sawyer today contested John G. Anderson, of New York, who yesterday ousted Robert Bowker, of Chicago, 8 and 7, with par golf. Francis Quimer, after defeating J. T. Henry, of Chicago, today had as an opponent another Chicagoan, Pete Burnett, while Jack May, Argentine champion, as a result of defeating E. H. Dunkard, of Chicago, 5 and 5, met Donald Edwards.

SERGEANT GOWDY.
Hank Has Risen From the Ranks Already and Is a Non-Com.

Columbus, Ohio, July 12.—Henry (Hank) Gowdy, famous catcher for the Boston Nationals, has been promoted from a private to a sergeant in the Ohio National Guard. General John C. Speaks has appointed him orderly in the second brigade infantry, with the rank of sergeant. Gowdy, who resigned from the Boston ball club several days ago, was the first major league player to "answer the call to the colors."

When Kilbane opens a billiard parlor in Cleveland, he says he will take Jimmie Dunn in as partner. So Jimmie won't have the pleasure of calling Johnny an "Ingrate."

NORTON IS RELEASED AND WILLIAMS SIGNED

One More Chief to Be Dropped When Shortstop Reports.

One more member of the Chiefs was dropped yesterday. Shorty Norton, the little shortstop being the victim of a cut. He is the third within a week, Richardson and Powers have fallen off a few days ago. Norton looked good in the field, but his hitting was not of the kind needed on the club, and his size was considered as a disadvantage. Brown worked the job at short yesterday, but another man is on his way.

The Detroit Tigers are the owners of Williams, a shortstop of much class, who, however, must have more seasoning before he is ready for the majors. Williams was with Quincy in the Three-Eyes, but when that league busted up he went back to Detroit. The Tigers have promised him to Fort Wayne and he is expected to report in a few days.

The Chiefs are preparing one more player for the block. They are keeping the name under and will not announce it until the deed is done.

Maybe Gleich is worrying about the next cut. Anyway he has been putting more life into his playing in the last few days than he has shown since early in the season. His hitting is picking up again and he should be doing some good work.

Today the Chiefs left for Muskegon, where they will play three days. From there they go to Grand Rapids for a three day session, after which they will come home again.

SPORE CHATTER

It looks as if Zbysko taught Carl Morris to box. He can rattle so well when in the ring.

Dips are pestering the Tigers. They've been stealing the shirts off Hughie Jennings and two of his men, but they haven't been fast enough yet for Ty Cobb.

John L. still has the wonderful arm with which he defeated Jake Kilrain at Richburg, Miss., in a 75-round bout back in 1899 and won the world's heavyweight championship. But it's in pincer.

"Pa" Rourke, of the Omaha club, would give baseball a year's vacation. President Kearney, of the Three-Eyes league, hasn't said so, but has done so.

KENDALLVILLE REDS TO BRING BOOSTERS

Two Hundred Fans Will Accompany Company Club to This City Sunday.

Two hundred fans will accompany the Kendallville Reds to this city Sunday for the big double bill to be staged at League park. An announcement of this was sent to Manager Mart Cleary of the Lincoln Lifes, this morning, together with a letter which told what a cleaning the Reds expect to make. They expect to wallop the Fort Wayne Colored Giants in the first game, and then repeat the operation on the Insurance men in closing.

There is every possibility that the Reds may be fooled in the first game. The Giants are loading up to the brim and will be on their toes to turn every opportunity into the making of a win. However, the Reds are too wise to under estimate them and will use Lefty Bowman, the University of Michigan hurler, against them. They will save Meis for the Lincoln Lifes in case they win the opener.

For the Insurance men in the last game either Ostermeyer and Hines, or Lankonau and Metzendorf will compose the battery. Whichever pitcher is used, the corresponding man will do the backstopping, since both pitchers work better to their own catchers. The second contest will start ten minutes after the close of the first. Both games will be played for the price of one.

AMERICAN LEAGUE.

Boston Takes the Lead.

Detroit, Mich., July 12.—"Babe" Ruth held Detroit to one hit, an infield single by Bush, with one out in the eighth inning yesterday, and Boston shut out the home club 1 to 0, the victory moving the champions to first place. Bush's single was a sharply batted ball straight at Ruth, who knocked it down but could not field it in time for a play. Daus, though found for four singles and three triples, pitched finely in the pinches.

Boston scored the winning run in the ninth. Walker tripled with one out. Scott fanned and Shorten, batting for Agnew, hit to left for three bases. Ruth was wild, walking four men and hitting two, but was invincible with men on the bases. He struck out eight. Score: R.H.E. Detroit ... 0 0 0 0 0 0 0 0-0 1 1 Boston ... 0 0 0 0 0 0 0 1-1 7 1 Batteries—Daus and Stange; Ruth and Agnew and Thomas.

Coveleskie Is Right.

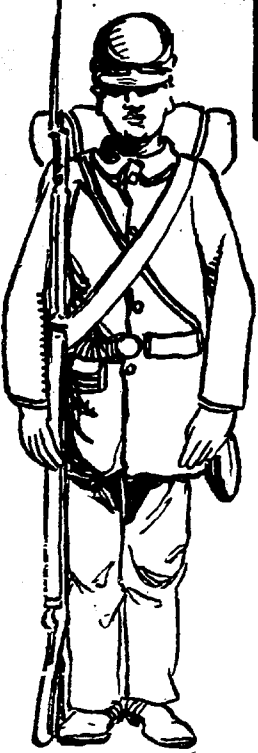

Cleveland, O., July 12.—The Indians cleaned up the Washington Nationals yesterday in the first game of the series here 3 to 0. Stan Coveleskie pitched gilt edged ball. The visitors nipped him for only four hits and they were scattered. Gallia started the mound toil for the Washington crowd, but retired at the beginning of the fourth in favor of Shaw.

The Indians bumped Gallia for two runs and got the third off Shaw. Evans and O'Neill batted in two of the runs, while Wamby stole home in the third. The score: R.H.E. Cleveland ... 0 1 1 1 0 0 0 3-6 2 Washington ... 0 0 0 0 0 0 0 0-4 1 Batteries—Coveleskie and O'Neill; Gallia, Shaw and Almsmith.

Browns Are Walloped.

This Missourian a Fighter for Peace

FRANK W. NORTHERN

FIRST of the civil war veterans in Southern California to offer his services to Uncle Sam, when the break between Germany and the United States came, was Frank W. Northern, who for twenty-six years was an active member of the San Diego Police Department. And scores of enlistments in the city by the Harbor of the Sun are due to his record as a peace officer and his personal popularity with the people with whom he has been intimately associated for more than a quarter of a century.

Northern, a native of Missouri, is essentially of the timber from which heroes are made. He has accomplished many feats which seem impossible of achievement. He has emerged practically unscathed from perils which would have engulfed a less careful and quick-witted man. He has battled with criminals who valued no human life or rights save their own. He has raided forbidding underworld dens with indifference to danger that went far toward suppressing lawlessness.

This hero of a hundred battles in behalf of the public weal came to the Pacific Coast from Missouri, when San Diego was a reckless border town infested with men who backed up their defiance of law and order with knife and six-shooter.

Courage and moral stamina were the chief requisites of men selected to cope with conditions which prevailed in those wild days, when robberies occurred daily and murder was frequent. These attributes were possessed in marked degree by Northern, who left Kansas City for Southern California, not to grow up with the country, but to help the country grow up.

The Missourian's introduction into San Diego would have daunted one less courageous. As he stepped from a Santa Fe train he beheld a Mexican gambler stab a constable to death, then saunter nonchalantly away.

At that time the Santa Fe Railway Company was beginning the construction of a huge wharf on the waterfront, and skill as a bridge carpenter, acquired in the East, enabled Northern to obtain employment at once. Within a short time he was made foreman of a gang.

Criminals among the men engaged in building the wharf were a source of continual trouble to their employers and the authorities. One man, sought all over the West, a pickpocket, was caught by Northern while robbing a fellow-workman and turned over to the police. Shortly after this a thug attempted to murder Northern by plying in Northern's gang. During a desperate duel with knives, the assailant was forced from the wharf into the bay. A carpenter who attempted to rescue him was seriously wounded. The foreman arrived, struck the knife from the desperado's hand, and, after a long struggle, turned him over to the authorities. It was not long after this that Northern was appointed to the police force.

Shooting Up the Town.

At the time the Missourian became a patrolman it was not unusual for bands of Indians, cowboys or vaqueros to "shoot up" towns, regardless of life or property; reckless sailors from the seven seas were a terror to law-abiding citizens; gambling was rampant, and men from the four quarters of the globe chose San Diego as a gathering place. The place, in public square, was the scene of numerous duels over differences which today would be regarded as trivial.

Northern was assigned to the most perilous beat in the town. He engaged in six pitched battles and made seventeen arrests in that first night. Patrol wagons were then unknown south of San Francisco, it being necessary for police men to walk, drag or carry prisoners to jail, frequently attended by a storm of bullets fired by friends of the men under arrest.

During the year in which he was appointed to the police force, San Diego was invaded by a band of safecrackers and thugs from San Francisco. The Terrible Fifteen, as they were known in police circles, terrorized the town for months, working so systematically as to render capture practically impossible. As many as eight safes were blown in a night.

Northern was detailed to lead a campaign against them. Unflinching courage, quick wit and a thorough knowledge of criminals, their methods and their haunts were required for the successful performance of this task. On the night following the patrolman's detail a store in the heart of the town was entered and merchandise valued at $15,000 stolen.

Northern immediately took the trail of two men he suspected of participation in the robbery. He followed them to a reputable rooming house in the residential quarter. Through his acquaintance with the proprietor, he gained access to their apartment. There, concealed beneath a bed, he found part of the stolen goods and laid in wait for the pair. On the third night they returned, bearing fresh plunder. One of them lighted a lamp, which was extinguished the moment he beheld the intruder. Almost simultaneously both men opened fire. Northern, anticipating this, had dropped to the floor.

The officer grappled with the safecrackers, threw them to the floor, and, after a struggle, handcuffed them. They were sentenced to San Quentin. This leader, however, escaped from a deputy sheriff who was taking him to prison.

Safecrackers Play Ruse.

As a result of this capture, Northern was made sergeant of police. But he was a marked man. Members of the band to which he had dealt such a heavy blow were quiet for a time following the downfall of their chief, but the criminal impulse conquered, and a wholesale house was chosen as the scene of fresh depredations. A member of the band sought a secluded spot several blocks from the locality and fired several shots, attracting the attention of the police, a dozen of whom rushed to the scene of the fusillade, leaving the wholesale district, as the crooks thought, practically unguarded.

Cheerfully the safecrackers entered the building and blew the strong box. Northern, who had remained on his beat, which led past the wholesale house, was attracted by the blast and rushed to the rear of the building, where he was confronted by two masked men, one of whom thrust the muzzle of a six-shooter into his face. Another struck the revolver from the officer's hand.

Northern's fist shot out, striking the safecracker between the eyes and felling him. Three other men rounded a corner of the building and attacked the policeman. Drawing a knife, the leader, wearing a "No. 1" shirt, the other two sprang upon the man and bore him to the earth. The knife was sent spinning several yards away. Releasing the knife-user, Northern placed his back to the door and faced the foe, who made a concerted rush, brandishing knives. Northern beat back his assailants, but another bite of the knife apprised him of how narrow had been his escape.

Northern has but a confused idea of what followed. He was conscious of dealing and receiving heavy blows, of seeing men go down before his flying fists, of feeling the sting of a blade more than once, but his strength told him that the wounds were not serious. He had not been dislodged from the doorway.

No firearms had been used, but Northern was apprehensive that at any moment the struggle might be terminated by a shot. It would have been suicidal to have started through the pressing phalanx. He set up an outcry, and was answered by a police whistle. But in that instant of dawning safety the door behind was jerked open, a blow fell upon the officer's head and consciousness fled.

When Northern regained his senses he attempted to raise his hands to his face, but those useful members were bound together. His feet were made fast in like manner. A piece of cloth had been forced into his mouth, effectually gagging him.

That he was in some underground apartment he knew from the damp, moldy odor that assailed his nostrils. A lamp somewhere without sent a yellow gleam through a grating overhead. By this feeble ray the prisoner was enabled to gain a slight view of his surroundings.

He concluded he was in the basement of the warehouse. An array of packing cases and other debris lay about him. The walls were festooned with cobwebs as was the ceiling. Earth comprised the floor.

The officer fought against his bonds, but his efforts served only to tighten them, causing excruciating pain and rendering him faint and dizzy. Exhausted, he abandoned the task and sank into a stupor. How long he lay in this state he never knew. Probably it was not more than ten minutes, but to him it seemed an age.

man. Members of the band to which he had dealt such a heavy blow were quiet for a time following the downfall of their chief, but the criminal impulse conquered, and a wholesale house was chosen as the scene of fresh depredations. A member of the band sought a secluded spot several blocks from the locality and fired several shots, attracting the attention of the police, a dozen of whom rushed to the scene of the fusillade, leaving the wholesale district, as the crooks thought, practically unguarded.

Cheerfully the safecrackers entered the building and blew the strong box. Northern, who had remained on his beat, which led past the wholesale house, was attracted by the blast and rushed to the rear of the building, where he was confronted by two masked men, one of whom thrust the muzzle of a six-shooter into his face. Another struck the revolver from the officer's hand.

Northern's fist shot out, striking the safecracker between the eyes and felling him. Three other men rounded a corner of the building and attacked the policeman. Drawing a knife, the leader, wearing a "No. 1" shirt, the other two sprang upon the man and bore him to the earth. The knife was sent spinning several yards away. Releasing the knife-user, Northern placed his back to the door and faced the foe, who made a concerted rush, brandishing knives. Northern beat back his assailants, but another bite of the knife apprised him of how narrow had been his escape.

Northern has but a confused idea of what followed. He was conscious of dealing and receiving heavy blows, of seeing men go down before his flying fists, of feeling the sting of a blade more than once, but his strength told him that the wounds were not serious. He had not been dislodged from the doorway.

No firearms had been used, but Northern was apprehensive that at any moment the struggle might be terminated by a shot. It would have been suicidal to have started through the pressing phalanx. He set up an outcry, and was answered by a police whistle. But in that instant of dawning safety the door behind was jerked open, a blow fell upon the officer's head and consciousness fled.

When Northern regained his senses he attempted to raise his hands to his face, but those useful members were bound together. His feet were made fast in like manner. A piece of cloth had been forced into his mouth, effectually gagging him.

That he was in some underground apartment he knew from the damp, moldy odor that assailed his nostrils. A lamp somewhere without sent a yellow gleam through a grating overhead. By this feeble ray the prisoner was enabled to gain a slight view of his surroundings.

He concluded he was in the basement of the warehouse. An array of packing cases and other debris lay about him. The walls were festooned with cobwebs as was the ceiling. Earth comprised the floor.

The officer fought against his bonds, but his efforts served only to tighten them, causing excruciating pain and rendering him faint and dizzy. Exhausted, he abandoned the task and sank into a stupor. How long he lay in this state he never knew. Probably it was not more than ten minutes, but to him it seemed an age.

COLLISION AT THE JUNCTION

G. R. & I. Passenger Train Strikes L. E. & W. Gondola Loaded With Stone.

Southbound passenger train, No. 6, on the G. R. & I., crashed into a gondola which was a part of a string of cars being handled by a Lake Erie and Western switch engine on the crossing just west of the city at 12 o'clock Wednesday night. The gondola, which was loaded with stone, was upset and the engine, No. 5, which was pulling the passenger train, was derailed, but did not turn over, and Engineer J. R. Lewis and Fireman E. R. McClellan, who were in the cab, were not in the least injured. The sudden stop of the passenger train, however, threw J. M. Westveld, of Decatur, a passenger, who at that moment had arisen from his seat, down and cut and bruised his head slightly. He was attended by Dr. C. F. Kaadt, and later continued his journey home, apparently suffering no pain. The wreck was caused by the engineer having a full view of the signals and the track ahead over the top of the gondola car, which was unusually low. He did not, therefore, see any obstruction on the track until too near the crossing to stop. The Pennsylvania wreck crew was sent to the scene and cleared the track in short order.

NEW MEN AT SHOPS.

The various departments of the Pennsylvania shops continue to take on new employees and the labor situation there is not quite as serious as it was a short time ago, though it is not yet altogether satisfactory. This morning the erecting shop employed J. E. Cramer, a machinist's helper, and Harry Brown, J. Robinson and W. Sparks, laborers. A. L. Steinbacher, a machine operator, took employment in the machine shop. He was formerly employed in the building trade and helped Wells Brothers to erect the new General Electric works on Wall street.

BIERBAUM IN NEW QUARTERS.

The department known as the "I-14 meter" room of the General Electric works, Walter Bierbaum, foreman, is in full operation now in its new quarters, the fourth floor of building No. 12, on Wall street. He formerly occupied a part of building No. 5. The move to the new quarters commenced Monday night and was continued day and night without stopping until Wednesday morning, when everything was in readiness for complete operations. Mr. Bierbaum has a force of fifty-nine men at present, but this will soon be increased fully a third.

SPECIAL OVERTIME RATE.

Overtime special rates were announced by General Manager F. S. Hunting, of the General Electric works, yesterday. The bulletin states that hereafter employees asked to work overtime will be given the regular piecework wage and 50 per cent of the hourly schedule for the extra work. The plant is overcrowded with orders and it is probable that overtime will be the rule for some weeks.

MUST TRAIN WOMEN.

N. Y. C. Sends Instructions to Local Officials.
 Forecasting the general employment of women in railroad positions as clerks, ticket agents and even as crossing tenders, the superintendents of the local divisions of the New York Central have dispatched the following letter to trainmasters, yardmasters and station agents at all points:
 It has been necessary, commencing at once, to begin the education of employment of women for the various branches of the service in which they can perform, beginning first with the office help, gate tenders, or crossing watchmen, ticket clerks, in fact any branch of the service where they might reasonably fit in.
 With the conflict now in front of us hundreds of thousands of men will be drafted into the army, and their positions will have to be filled for properly performing transportation service, as it has been demonstrated in Canada and abroad, that women are abundantly capable of performing much of our service as men, and are as heroic and patriotic in their desire to serve their country.
 At present we might not possibly be able to do more than work along educational lines where possible to do so, and secure help for vacancies as they occur.
 It is felt that we could use women as tally clerks in our freight offices, and they could also fill a great many of our yard clerical positions, especially on the inside of the office.
 I would like a memorandum the first of each month outlining what you have been able to accomplish in the matter.

WANT THREE COMPANIES.

Capt. W. Howard Miller, of the General Electric guards, has opened recruiting books with a view of getting another company, making three at the plant. He is confident there will be no difficulty in getting the required number of men for the new company. After working hours last night a mass meeting was held in McCulloch's park, which was attended by a number of prospective members.

COLORED LABORER BEREAVED.

L. Warner, a colored laborer at the Pennsylvania machine shop, was the object of much sympathy from the men in the shop this morning. It was announced there that the grandchild of the old man was dead. The little one was his favorite and his face bore evidence of the anguish within his breast over the loss of his pet. Warner is one of the best of the colored men recently employed at the shops.

COMPANY PAYS PART.

Bulletins were posted at the Wayne Knitting mills this afternoon, giving notice that the company would pay fifty cents on each season ticket taken by employees for the chautauqua meetings next week. Tickets will be sold to employees of the works for $2 each. Director Wright, of the Redpath chautauqua, spoke at the Knitting mills at noon today.

GEORGE SUNLEY AT WORK.

George Sunley, Pennsylvania yard conductor, resumed that duty this morning, after a two weeks' vacation. A portion of the time was spent in Detroit with relatives and friends. Mr. Sunley celebrated the silver anniversary of their wedding last week, notes of which was made in The Sentinel at the time.

DR. SCHULZ ON VACATION.

Dr. F. J. Schulz, surgeon at the General Electric works, entered upon a two weeks' vacation yesterday, when he went to his cottage at Wawasee lake. Dr. Raymond J. Berghoff, interne at St. Joseph hospital, is acting surgeon during the absence of Dr. Schulz.

DUNIFON PROMOTED.

Leo Dunifon has been promoted to sub-foreman of the type H connecting and boxing department at the General Electric works. He succeeds Charles Scherer, transferred to the transformer testing department, under Foreman Loren Klingman. The change is an advance for Mr. Dunifon.

DISPATCHERS ON VACATION.

S. M. Taylor and W. I. Richardson, Pennsylvania dispatchers, went out on vacations this week. Mr. Richardson, who is an expert with the hook and line, is at the lakes and Mr. Taylor is spending the time quietly at home.

INDUSTRIAL NOTES.

Pennsylvania Machinist John Manock is out on a vacation.
 A. J. Smith, of the Pennsylvania erecting shop, is sick and off duty.
 E. E. Scott, a laborer, quit his position at the Pennsylvania machine shop this morning to take up other work.
 W. J. Farnan, who resigned a position at the Pennsylvania machine shop yesterday, has taken employment at the General Electric works.
 After an illness of three weeks, Lewis R. Anderson, helper, resumed work in the Pennsylvania boiler shop this morning.
 J. B. Carothers, receiver of the Cincinnati, Findlay and Fort Wayne Railroad, was in the city today on business connected with his office.
 A new transformer connector at the General Electric works is Arch Schee, who was formerly employed in the foundry department.
 The Wayne Knitting mills is also selling chautauqua tickets at reduced prices to its employees. It is expected to dispose of several hundred tickets.
 F. Howard, formerly employed in the power plant of the Pennsylvania, is now operating the crane in the machine shop, having been transferred recently.
 W. F. Dingman and William Murray, the former a laborer and the latter a fitter, were helpers, took employment at the Pennsylvania boiler shop this morning.
 E. D. Monk, of Cincinnati, a transformer specialist, is in the city conferring with E. A. Wagner and others of the transformer department of the local General Electric works.
 J. H. Leonard, formerly employed in Foreman Schlefermacher's department of the General Electric works, is now in the transformer department, under Foreman F. S. Walburn.
 L. S. Trachsel, foreman of the cost department clerical work at the Pennsylvania shops, was called to Pittsburgh last night on business connected with the department.
 Charles Schweitzer, clerk in the receiving department of the General Electric works, is taking a few days off duty to look after some private business.
 A. W. Horstmeier, a carpenter in Foreman Henry Shuster's gang at the Pennsylvania shops, will be off duty several days with an injured finger, the result of an accident yesterday.
 Blacksmith Fred Lenz and Helper J. Trye, of the Pennsylvania shops, are off duty today on account of sickness.

S. Jackson, of the same shop, is off duty to do some work at his home.
 Herbert Daseler, clerk in the office of the Pennsylvania superintendent, contemplates a visit with friends at Richmond and will go there tomorrow.

C. H. Allen, a finisher in the transformer department of the General Electric works, took employment yesterday. He was formerly a resident of Waterville.

Today the transformer department of the General Electric works commenced shipping out machinery from the new factory building on Wall street. It was recently moved into that building.
 L. F. Buehler, agent at Adrian, Mich., for the Wells-Fargo Express company, is taking a vacation, a part of which is being spent in Fort Wayne, where he has relatives and a great number of friends.

Joseph Gruber, formerly of the Bowser shops, and Fred Stauffer, formerly of the Dudlo Manufacturing company's shop, took employment at the Wabash shops this morning. They are machinists.

E. F. Reiter, machinist, who had been off duty on account of the death of a relative, reported for work at the Pennsylvania erecting shop this morning. Wilson Lindsey, a laborer, also reported at that shop for work this morning, after a few days' illness.

A. J. Johnson, Pennsylvania boiler-maker, had the middle finger of his left hand badly injured yesterday when a misdirected blow landed a hammer on the digit. A. C. Gehle, of the machine shop, also smashed a finger yesterday. A steel rod fell on the digit.

Joseph Gruber, a clerk in the transformer office of the General Electric works, will resume his duties Monday. He was taken with diphtheria three weeks ago and was in the isolation hospital two weeks. His recovery has been complete.

Jules Doriot, a Pennsylvania machinist, has been transferred from the machine shop to the airbrake shop to take the place vacated by Al Baker when he succeeded P. J. Hess July 1. The change is a promotion for Mr. Doriot.

F. S. Walburn, foreman of the General Electric works, will enter upon his annual vacation Monday. He will divide the time between a visit with relatives in several cities and an outing at the lakes.

The G. E. Sunset league games tonight will be between the Ice Makers and the Small Motor department teams at Lawton park and the Apparatus and the Office Cost department teams at Foster park. After the games there will be grand rush by players and spectators for the show grounds.

One of the most recent additions to Uncle Sam's army is Nelson Thompson, who enlisted yesterday and will go to Fort Thomas, Ky., Monday. He had been employed at the Bowser works, but resigned when he enlisted. Nelson is a son of P. A. Thompson and is a graduate of the Fort Wayne high school.

The management of the Dudlo Manufacturing company asked Chief of Police Charles Lenz yesterday for police picket at the plant on Wall street, stating that they had been informed that the striking employees contemplated stoning the buildings. One policeman was sent out and remained on duty, but reported that he saw no indications of hostile intentions.

CIRCUS DAY GREATLY HELPS REGISTRATION

Many Take Advantage of Opportunity to Qualify for Delegate Election.

Circus day was the greatest help to the registration for the election of delegates to the constitutional convention of anything that has taken place since the work of registering voters started. Hundreds of citizens of the county who had come to the city to see the circus took advantage of the opportunity to register. Many of them said they didn't know when they would have another chance. The farmers are busy and their crops are of far greater importance to them right now than even a new constitution for Indiana.

ushed to the St. Joseph hospital where he is under the care of two physicians. Haffner was treating a diseased tree at 2508 Florida drive. One of the limbs of the tree upon which Haffner was standing, about thirty feet from the ground, broke. The workman fell to the pavement. For a time it was thought that he was fatally hurt. Police were summoned and he was hurried to the hospital in the patrol. He is expected to recover.

S. C. BOND ACCEPTED FOR OFFICERS' RESERVE

Last Day for Second Training Camp is Monday, July 16.

Among the applicants for the second camp during the past few days was Stephan Charles Bond, assistant superintendent of the Packard Plano company and brother of A. E. Bond, president of that company. He comes from one of the pioneer families of the city. He passed his preliminary physical examination with a good record and without doubt will be one of Fort Wayne's representatives at the second officers' camp.
 Applications for the second officers' reserve corps have been coming in with greater regularity during the past few days, and Chairman E. H. Kilbourne, of the local examining committee, is greatly encouraged by the showing. However, there is still room for more applicants. The time has been extended to Monday, July 16. Approximately 125 men have filed their applications so far but this number should be doubled. About forty-five applicants appeared Wednesday night. The committee is meeting at the Commercial club each noon and each evening.

Chairman E. H. Kilbourne received the following communication from the central department Thursday morning:
 The government has decreed that all the manhood of the country between the ages of 21 and 31 shall be subject to selective draft, and the older men are needed to lead them; men between 31 and 44, who have made good by education, brains and energy are urged to apply before July 16th for admission into the second officers' training camp.

More battles and lives are lost by the mistakes and inefficiencies of higher officers than from any other cause. Errors by their officers lost the Marne and the channel ports for Germany; by our selections of officers we should keep our error column as nearly blank as is humanly possible. Remember also that when our boys go to France the German officers opposed to them will be the very best that Germany could get from just such business and professional men as the government is now seeking.

Military experience is not necessary for admission to these camps. As a matter of fact the country is now stripped of its men of military experience. 40,000 of them went to the first officers' training camps—other thousands are in the national guard and the regular army. It is civilians who are called upon now and they must respond before the 16th of this month and go into training to acquire the military experience.

It is time now for them to make their decision and to make sacrifices that their country has a right to demand of them. The decision must be made immediately. Application blanks may be had at Commercial club, as July 16th is the last date on which these applications will be received.

While applications will be received from persons between 20 years and 9 months and 44 years of age and from men with certain military experience up to 50 years of age, preference will be given to men over 31, other things being equal.

NORTH MANCHESTER MAN IS APPOINTED

Joseph Strickler is Selected Superintendent of South Whitley Schools.

(Special to The Sentinel.)

Columbia City, Ind., July 12.—The South Whitley school board Wednesday announced that it had obtained Joseph Strickler, of North Manchester, to serve as superintendent of the South Whitley school next year, succeeding Prof. Homer L. Humke, who will be principal next year of the high school at Noblesville, Hamilton county. Rollo E. Mosher, son of Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Mosher, of Whitley county, has been retained for another year as principal. Mr. Strickler has been taking work in the University of Chicago, from which he graduated a few weeks ago, and he has had several years' experience as an instructor in Wabash county.

DEATH CLAIMS A. J. MOYNIHAN

Former Fort Wayne Editor
Dies Suddenly in California.

HAD BEEN IN ILL HEALTH FOR YEARS

Deceased Retired from the Newspaper Business
Last August.

Andrew J. Moynihan, 61 years old, former Fort Wayne newspaper man and for years owner and editor of the Journal-Gazette, died at Long Beach, California, the result of a stroke of apoplexy.

A message telling of his death was received from Elizabeth Hedekin Moynihan by Bernard S. O'Connor, the deceased had been in declining health for five years and had been subject to attacks of apoplexy. Local relatives had not been informed, however, that his condition was any worse than when he left here last August, at which time he disposed of his interest in the Journal-Gazette to Lew G. Ellingham and E. G. Hoffman.

Following the sale of his newspaper interests here he leased his residence at 621 West Berry street and moved his household goods to Long Beach, when he again began to decline, making that place his future home and living in quietness and retirement.

In the spring of 1916 the deceased suffered a nervous breakdown and spent several months in Pasadena, Riverside and other points in California. He returned only slightly improved, but had not been here long when he again began to decline, making the sale of his newspaper interests and his retirement imperative.

Mr. Moynihan gave up his newspaper activities reluctantly. He had been engaged in it for years, starting as a printer. He had worked in every department of the newspaper business. At one time he was connected with The Sentinel. Few newspaper men have been more successful.

While owner and editor of the Journal-Gazette, Mr. Moynihan was in close touch and had direct supervision over every department. He was a retentive worker, which in a large measure was responsible for his breakdown.

Born in Ireland.

The deceased was born in County Kerry, Ireland, twelve miles from Killarney, on April 15, 1856, the son of Martin Moynihan. His mother's maiden name was Johanna Moynihan. He came to the United States at the age of eight, embarking at Liverpool, and arriving at New York in the fall of 1864. Two years were spent in Elizabeth City, New Jersey, after which he came to Fort Wayne and had resided here up to the time he left for the west. He secured his early education in the Brothers' school in this city.

He learned the printing trade while a young man and then attended the Rush Medical college with the view of preparing himself to be a physician. He worked as city editor of The Sentinel during vacation periods. Medicine and surgery, however, were not to his liking and he gave up his studies. He then worked for a time as a compositor for the Rush Medical college and decided to make the newspaper business his life's work. After several years on The Sentinel staff, he became associated with H. C. Rockhill and Wright W. Rockhill in the management of The Fort Wayne Journal and News, the two plants being merged, and has continued to be published as the Journal-Gazette. Some years later Mr. and Mrs. Moynihan and brother, Martin H. Moynihan, purchased the interests of the Rockhills and had conducted the business continually up to the time the property was sold last August.

The father of the deceased died here twenty-five years ago and the mother five years ago at the age of ninety. The devotion of the deceased to his mother was most beautiful. Mr. Moynihan was for years prominent in democratic politics and it is said, he has the distinction of being largely responsible in inducing Thomas R. Marshall to run for governor of Indiana, which, in this instance, was a stepping stone to the vice presidency, making Mr. Marshall a national figure.

The deceased was married several years ago to Elizabeth Hedekin, a member of a prominent Fort Wayne family, who survives, together with one daughter, Margaret, a nurse. A brother, Martin H. Moynihan, and a nephew, Andrew J. Moynihan, a member of the Journal-Gazette editorial staff, also survive.

Wayne avenue, and Mrs. Bessie M. Redmon, 1123 Michigan avenue.

Members of the classes in elementary hygiene and home care of the sick, who have taken the work under Miss Frances Ott, authorized Red Cross nurse, No. 802, during the past seven weeks, were given the examination Thursday morning at headquarters by the authorized examiner, Miss Springer. The full examination was given and Miss Springer reported enthusiastic responses and pronounced thoroughness during the demonstrations.

Delegates Meet Friday.

Representatives from all the chapters of northern Indiana will gather at the Commercial club Friday afternoon to hear an address by Mrs. Belmont Tiffany, one of the most prominent Red Cross workers of New York. It is thought that over a hundred Red Cross workers from the various chapters will be present. The meeting is not open to the public, but is for one representative from each chapter. Mrs. Tiffany is touring the country, talking to chapters in different states about Red Cross work. She will remain in this city only a short time and will be the guest of Mrs. A. E. Fauve during her stay.

here. The meeting Friday afternoon will begin at 3 o'clock (eastern time). A large American flag has been presented to the Red Cross girls who took part in the recent membership campaign at Swinney park on July 4. The flag was given by Rev. E. Q. Lauder, man to the organization having the largest representation in the parade. A donation of $2.25 was received at the Red Cross headquarters Wednesday afternoon from the Pan Hellenic society of this city. Calls for teachers and instructors are being received at the headquarters from many of the surrounding chapters and auxiliaries and it is probable that representatives will be sent to all the work of the nearby towns. Mrs. A. E. Fauve, chairman of the membership committee, and Miss Winifred Rohan, formerly secretary at the headquarters, went to Monroeville Thursday afternoon to help in the work there.

Another view is that the election is an irreparable disaster for the Irish nationalist party which, many Irish people complain, held the country for years in the dead hand of rigid machine policy.

The Consequence of Folly.

The Sinn Fein movement is regarded in the same quarter as an expression of discontent and vehemence against the present administrative policy, indicating rather a lack of confidence with present parliamentary methods than a revolutionary tendency, and in this respect, resembling a state of mind which often leads Prussian electors to support socialist candidates at the polls.

The Chronicle says the Sinn Feiners receive enormous sums of money from the United States, much of it doubtless from German sources, which enables them to conduct extensive propaganda.

MEDICAL MAN

was the only new recruit received by the battery Wednesday.

More Cooks Wanted.

"More cooks and bakers," is the cry of the regular army recruiting station. These men are probably as badly needed as those in any branch of the service, and must be enlisted before the summer season closes. It is understood that those who answer the call first will be in direct line for promotion. Recruits are still being taken at the local station in any of the branches still open. General physical requirements call for men 5 feet 1 inch, or taller, and 108 pounds or heavier.

Navy Officer Here.

Lieut. F. M. Wilson, of the reserve service, located at the St. Paul recruiting station, spent a part of Thursday at the navy recruiting station. Lieut. Wilson was called to Fort Wayne by the serious illness of his mother, Mrs. M. S. Wilson, 2310 Highland avenue. He will return to St. Paul Friday.

The lieutenant is at the head of the navy station which ranks second in the United States in the number of recruits obtained. He took a train load of 167 men from Fort Paul to the Great Lakes training station on Monday.

"One of the notable features of this recruiting campaign is the high standard of men offered by the middle west," said Wilson Thursday. "New York was able to put but 16 per cent of her offered men in service, the report shows. St. Paul and Fort Wayne are placing at least 50 per cent of their men on ship board."

Close Departments.

Chief Petit Officer Work has been notified that the navy is temporarily closed to enlistees, hospital apprentices, landsmen for recommissioning, privates, painters and boiler makers. The call per cent of their men on ship board."

Only especially qualified men will be taken for machinists and aviators, the Fort Wayne station is notified.

Newspapers Join in Denial.

Even newspapers most friendly to America, join the chorus of indignant condemnation of the charges. The papers call attention to America's attitude regarding exports and arraign what they term the government's inconsistency. They declare that America repeatedly protested to England against precisely the same policy which Washington now threatens to adopt against Sweden.

The Associated Press received from an authoritative source the following statement:

"It is no secret that we are exporting iron ore. We have been exporting it for more than twenty years. It is our chief article of export. But we export also to England and other countries and the proportions of our exports remain nearly the same as before the war. We exported wood pulp to Germany, but also to America, France, Italy and other countries. We exported ferrosilicates to Germany and also to England and Russia.

"The statement that we are exporting sulphur and zinc to Germany is a ridiculous error. We must import sulphur for our own use and Germany for hers."

How to Get Rid of Corns

People suffering from tired, swollen, aching feet or from stinging, burning corns or calluses will be glad to know that a new, simple, and effective remedy has been discovered. It is a simple, home treatment that will not cause one bit of pain or soreness.

From your druggist get a small jar of Ice-Mint. Rub a little on each painful corn or callus. Instantly the pain will disappear and in a short time the corn or callus will loosen and can be lifted off easily and without any trouble. It costs little and can be obtained here from any of our local druggists—Advertisement.

many produces more zinc than she uses.

Import No Iron Ore.

"Another, misstatement concerns our alleged imports of iron ore from America. We import no iron ore from America. Before the war we used to import a low grade of pig iron from England. These imports have dropped to a third of the normal and we have been importing from America to cover the deficit, but the entire imports are insignificant.

"We export pig iron of a higher grade to both England and Germany. Our exports to England are still nearly normal.

"For our industrial life we must have dyes, coal and medicines from Germany and we have nothing to give in return but iron ore and pulp since the embargo on all provisions. We get some coal from England at the risk of sailors' lives and of their ships, but it is only a small portion of what we require.

"Germany brings us coal in her own ships without risk to us. We do not understand how America, which insisted on our letting her cotton through to Germany and protested so vehemently to England against efforts to interfere with her trade, can take such an attitude toward us."

LEADERS OF

Gore Substitute May Do.

If President Wilson does not object, the leaders were led to believe that the substitute bill drawn by Senator Gore generally embraces ideas for compromise legislation. The Gore bill would limit government control to food and fuel alone, eliminating steel, iron, copper, cotton and many other products.

The prohibition question, it was agreed, probably will have to be settled in conference without further senate action, because of the unanimous consent agreement under which the senate acted last week.

These decisions were reached at conferences between Senator Martin, democratic leader; Chairman Gore, of the agriculture committee; Senator Chamberlain, who has charge of the legislation in the senate; and Senator Simmons, chairman of the finance committee, whose work on the war tax bill is suspended pending final action on prohibition.

Senators Martin and Simmons then decided to ask the president's advice as to a compromise between the general plan of the Gore substitute.

Conferences Were Held.

The conferences were held before the special meeting of the agriculture committee, called to decide whether the committee should take any action on the Gore substitute, which most of them favored as a satisfactory compromise, or to let Senator Gore or someone else offer the substitute without formal committee recommendation.

While the leaders were meeting, senate debate on the pending bill was halted until later in the day. The committee amendment designed to prevent members of the advisory commission of the council of national defense from selling their own products to the government was subjected for the day's consideration.

Kaluse is a city of about 8,000 population, 28 miles southeast of Suoy. Yesterday the Russians had reached the Posiecz-Lesluka-Karmacz line, southward west of Stanislaw.

The central point of this line is Leciucva, four miles west of the river Bystritsa. It is about seven miles east of Kaluse. The Russian line west of Stanislaw and which is situated in a bend of the Stok river.

GERMANS ARE REPULSED.

Paris, July 12.—After a violent bombardment, the Germans tried several surprise attacks during the night on both banks of the Meuse but were repulsed, according to a statement issued by the war office today.

FRENCH MINE SWEEPER SUNK.

Paris, July 12.—The French mine sweeper Jupiter struck a mine in the British channel Tuesday and sank. Eleven lives were lost.

BRITISH CHECK ENEMY.

London, July 12.—"A raid attempted by the enemy last night south of Lombardt was successfully driven off," says today's official communication. "There is nothing further to report."

BRITISH LOSSES AT NEUPORT.

London, July 12.—The total British casualties resulting from the German attack on Newport, Belgium, on Tuesday, were about 1,800, including prisoners. These figures were given by Major General F. B. Maurice, chief director of military operations at the war office today.

The section captured by the Germans, said General Maurice, who made his statement in his weekly talk to the Associated Press, was defended by only two battalions of British. The German claim of 1,250 prisoners he considered probably accurate.

NORWEGIAN SHIP SUNK.

London, July 13.—A Central News dispatch from Christiania reports the sinking near Iceland by a German submarine of the Norwegian bark Florella, 1,188 tons gross. The crew was rescued.

IN THE CHURCHES

PLYMOUTH YOUNG MEN

Hold Annual Reunion at Lake James All Day Saturday.

A group of live fellows known as Plymouth Young Men, a class in the Plymouth Congregational Sunday school, will hold its annual reunion at Lake James on Saturday of this week.

The boys will take the Lake Shore train at 6 o'clock in the morning (eastern time) and make the cottage of Clarence Baughman their headquarters, at which place those who make the trip later in the day will come.

The occasion is especially significant this year, as it will serve as a send-off to the members who are soon to leave for the front in the signal corps.

Church Notes.

The Woman's Home Missionary society of Wayne Street M. E. church will hold its annual picnic Friday afternoon and evening at Swinney park. In case of bad weather it will be held in the church parlors.

The Woman's Missionary society of Bethany Presbyterian church will meet Friday morning with Mrs. H. J. Nease, 2127 Smith street. The discussion of the day on the topic, "National Independence Day," will be led by Mrs. Laura Likens.

Women of the community of the Crescent Avenue Evangelical church will meet in the church parlors Friday afternoon at 1 o'clock to sew for the Red Cross.

The south side division of the Ladies' Aid society of the First M. E. church will meet with Mrs. Thurman Sparkman, 729 West Creighton avenue, Friday afternoon.

ARMY DRAFT

for the draft, it is explained, is not to be taken as a genuine indication of the actual population of cities and communities. In some communities industrial conditions have given a city a population much greater than it normally has and in other cities where industrial activities are at low ebb the registration failed to show actually present the number which the census bureau had given. Moreover, as the object of the estimates is to fix the basis for establishing local quotas, industrial centers, with disproportionately large numbers of young men subject to draft have been given figures probably considerably in excess of the number of people actually within their borders.

Waiting on Local Boards.

As soon as the local organizations are complete, appointment of the district exemption boards will be announced. These boards, one or more in each federal judicial district, will pass upon appeals from the local bodies and have the original jurisdiction over claims for exemption on account of employment in industrial and agricultural or other necessary enterprise. Nominations for the boards proposed from forty-five states already have been sent to the president by the provost marshal general's office.

up the bars against them. The train, it is understood, will be routed from Elsie direct to Tucson and will arrive here late this afternoon.

Sheriff Meyers and home guard and counsel of defense officials at once took steps to keep the I. W. W. members from interfering and it is reported they will be shipped over the Southern Pacific or Mexican railroad to Nogales, on the border, where there is a detachment of United States troops.

APPEAL TO GOVERNOR.

Globe, Ariz., July 12.—Former Governor Hunt, personal representative of President Wilson on the federal strike mediation board, was appealed to today from Bisbee to stop the train upon which miners were being deported.

"Two thousand miners being deported this morning by corporation gun men from Warren district, stop that train," said the message, which was signed by Attorney W. D. Cleary, of Bisbee.

RECEIPTS FALL FLAT

ON THE LOCAL MARKETS

Prices Remain the Same But Business is Almost Suspended.

Thursday was about the smallest day which has been seen on the local markets for some weeks. Receipts fell to almost nothing and there was no change in prices made which might serve to keep away monotony. Dealers and millers reported that they had received practically nothing. Wheat remained at $1.90 to $2.02 during the day, and no change was made in flour prices.

The city weighmaster had as lonely a day as any of them. Seven loads were all that he weighed during the day, the rest of the day being spent, according to his report, in "annual office cleaning." Two loads were hay, which sold at $14.00, two more of corn at $1.71 and $1.74, and the remaining three of oats at 67 and 70 cents. The retail market was more lively than the wholesale.

INFANT GLOBE TROTTER HELPS
MARINE CORPS WIN RECRUITS

Master Earl H. Hornbostel, infant globe trotter of the United States marines, with his parents, Sergeant and Mrs. H. G. Hornbostel. Note the recruiting poster on the baby's go-cart.

San Francisco, Cal., July 12.—Infant globe trotter of the United States marine corps is Master Earl H. Hornbostel, with a travel record of some 20,000 miles in the service of Uncle Sam. He is 18 months old. In that time he has covered by sea and land more than a thousand miles for each month of his age. In addition, he has the honor of being the youngest "recruiting officer" for the marines. On the side of his go-cart is a brilliant poster urging older but not braver boys to join the "First-to-Fight" corps, in which his father is a sergeant.

His parents, Sergeant and Mrs. H. G. Hornbostel, were stationed on the island of Guam, a United States possession in the far Pacific, when he was born. Since then the family itinerary has included Manila, Japan, Honolulu, San Francisco, New York and back to San Francisco again. Sergeant Hornbostel is now on recruiting duty in San Francisco. His young son is adding him with the bright poster on his go-cart. "We certainly are raising our boy to be a soldier," said the proud father. "We entered him in the service of his country the day he was born."

AMERICAN BIRDMEN WILL WIN THE WAR
Governor of Ohio Tells Men at Ft. Harrison Air Holds Fate.

Fort Benjamin Harrison, Ind., July 12.—Belief that "American men of the air" flying in American airplanes will end the war and establish permanent peace, which will be an ample compensation for all sacrifices, was expressed by Gov. James M. Cox, of Ohio, in an address this afternoon to Ohio men trying for commissions in the officers' reserve camp. The men were told of the gratitude and pride felt by the people of Ohio for having offered their services to the country and the civilized world in the interest of democracy. "From the facts possessed," said Governor Cox, "I form the positive belief that American aviators will break into the sky line of Germany like birds in migration—not for the purpose of killing women and children, nor wreaking human slaughter in any form, but the American birdmen will reach Essen and Kiel and destroy not only the navy of Germany but every institution which continues the menace of Prussian imperialism. We are not fighting the German people, but are seeking to strike down the products of dangerous Prussian leadership."

NAME WOMAN TO HEAD EDUCATIONAL GUILD

Portland, Ore., July 12.—Mary C. C. Bradford, state superintendent of public instruction of Colorado, was named today as a candidate for president of the National Education association for 1917-1918 by the nominating committee of the 1917 convention in session here. Mrs. Bradford's friends said her nomination was equivalent to election. Elections will be held tomorrow.

Indianapolis, Ind., July 12.—Congress was urged to hasten action on the food bills by the state council of defense, in session here today. A resolution memorializing congress on the subject was adopted unanimously.

MYSTERY INVOLVES NOBLESVILLE CASE

Old Man Commits Suicide
After Telling of Assault on Wife.

Noblesville, Ind., July 12.—After having aroused neighbors and telling them a story of an assault upon himself and young wife early today, Russell Shugart, 80, a wealthy farmer near here, slipped away from men who were questioning him and committed suicide by drinking poison. When he aroused his nearest neighbor, shortly after midnight, he was covered with blood.

Mrs. Shugart had been beaten, but this afternoon her condition was said to be not serious. For some time the motive of the alleged attack on the Shugarts was supposed to have been robbery. A posse who had been searching for the assassin gave up its hunt after learning of Shugart's suicide. The young woman was Shugart's third wife. Mrs. Shugart received an unsigned letter yesterday threatening her if she did not leave Shugart. The officials here dropped the theory of robbery as a motive for the attack on the old man and his wife.

FIVE MURT IN AUTO CRASH.

South Bend, Ind., July 12.—Five persons were injured when an automobile turned turtle near Laporte this morning. The entire party was taken to a hospital. All will recover. The injured are Mr. and Mrs. Fred Schrupp and daughter, Miss Helen Brandon and Miss Fay Weaver, all of Elkhart.

KENDALLVILLE NEWS.

Kendallville, Ind., July 12.—Miss Hattie Jackson and Lyle Mulholland, both of this city, were united in marriage at the M. E. parsonage at Albion by the Rev. J. C. Graham. The newly weds are spending their honeymoon at Kalamazoo, Mich., and may decide to make their future home in that city.

Miss Cella Tritch and Charles Hogner were united in marriage at the parsonage of St. John's Lutheran church in this city, the Rev. Martin Kretzmann performing the ceremony. The bridegroom is employed at the Specialty Case company. After the ceremony Mr. and Mrs. Hogner went to their newly furnished home on Newman avenue, where they are at home to their friends.

A son, Ned Marston, was born to Mr. and Mrs. Vermont Finley, Tuesday morning. Mr. and Mrs. Charles Levering are the parents of a daughter, born Tuesday at the Lakeside hospital. Miss Mary Buda is visiting relatives and friends in Edgerton, Ohio.

SQUARE AND COMPASS DANCE.

The Square and Compass Dancing club will give its first dance of the season at Robison park, Friday, July 13. These dances have always been popular with the Masons and a large crowd is expected. The committee in charge is composed of Leonard M. Bane, Belmont E. Beman and Raymond D. Keim.

The ladies of St. Peter's church will give a pedro party on Friday afternoon.

MEXICO MAY BE THEIR ONLY HAVEN

Phoenix, Ariz., July 12.—One thousand members of the Industrial Workers of the World were being rounded up at Bisbee today by armed members of the Citizens' Protective League and will be deported.

According to word from Bisbee the work of deportation was being thoroughly and systematically. Greatly outnumbered, members of the Industrial Workers who had not left town were herded in the base ball park. There a guard was maintained and as fast as the men were brought in they were searched for arms and red cards showing their membership in the Industrial Workers organization.

PLOTTERS HAVE BEEN ARRESTED BY THE CHINESE

Tien Tsin, July 12.—Chang Chen Fang and Lei Chen Chun, ministers of finance and war, respectively, under the monarchy, were arrested on a train at Feng Tai, while endeavoring to escape from Peking. Feng Lin Kuo, the Manchurian general, whose intentions were suspected, was unexpectedly arrested in the Tien Tsin railroad station. He was disguised. Tuan Chi-Jui, leader of the republican forces, referring to Wu Ting Fang's telegram that he has installed himself minister of foreign affairs at Shanghai, states Wu has been dismissed from office and that all actions after he had left Peking were irresponsible. Tuan Chi-Jui said the cabinet established at Tien Tsin will be transferred to Peking and that it alone will undertake all diplomatic dealings.

Washington, D. C., July 12.—So far twenty-one states have reported to the provost general's office the completion of their organization. In some of them the names and serial numbers of the men liable to draft already have been posted. The first city to report the completion of that part of her work was Kansas City. Some fear was felt at the war department today that the delays in organization might cause further postponement of the draft. It had been believed that the drawing might take place Saturday of this week. It then became evident that it could not be held before next week and indications today were that it might be the latter part of next week before everything was ready. One of the states where there has been the most confusion in organization is New York. New Estimate Explained. The new estimate of population made by the census bureau as a basis

GOVERNMENT GETS ALL STEEL NEEDED PRICE FIXED LATER

Washington, July 12.—Formal announcement was made by Secretary Baker today that an agreement had been reached with representatives of the American Steel industry in conference here under which the entire product of the industry would be made available for the government's war purposes at a price to be determined on the basis of a cost of production inquiry being conducted by the federal trade commission.

On their side the government representatives assured the steel men that reasonable profits would be included in the price fixed and that provision also would be made to care for the expansion of the industry to meet new demands.

SINN FEINERS GIVE ANXIETY

Success of Irish Revolutionary

National Party Also Views
Situation as Holding Disaster for It.

London, July 12.—The election of Edward De Valera as a member of parliament for East Clare, the third Sinn Feiner to be returned to parliament of late, is treated as an event of great political consequence by the morning papers which devote considerable space to the victory. The tendency of the unionist press, reflecting their anxiety from Belfast and Dublin is to emphasize what it always contended—the folly of the government in liberating Sinn Fein prisoners and refraining to deal with revolutionary talk and acts as such would be dealt with in England. These papers regard the situation as gravely threatening for they see nothing in the Sinn Fein movement but rebellion.

Liberal Press Alarmed. The liberal press also is alarmed but rather for the position of the official nationalist party and for the prospect for the establishment of constitutional home rule. One opinion seems common among all parties, namely, that the prospects of the convention in Ireland to consider home rule is seriously impaired if not entirely doomed.

Word was received Thursday that First Lieutenant George D. Hayworth, of the United States medical corps, would be here Friday to examine the new recruits in Battery B and Company E. He will be here for two days. There are twenty-three recruits awaiting physical examination in Battery B and five in Company E. Both the battery and company are in need of more men to bring them up to war strength.

Two routing meetings in the interest of recruiting are scheduled for Friday. The first will be held at noon at the car shops of the Pennsylvania, at which time Fred Zollars and Captain Harry Clark will speak. In the evening there will be a meeting at New Haven. Members of the local battery will be taken to New Haven by the motor reserves and the Jefferson drum corps in the large truck of the Brown Trucking company. E. V. Harris will deliver the principal address. Music will be furnished by the New Haven band.

SPECULATION IN CORN HAS BEEN STOPPED

Chicago, July 12.—The fixing of a maximum price of $1.28 a bushel for the December (1917) and the May (1918) options for corn, was regarded by members of the Chicago board of trade today as practically putting a stop to speculation in the new crop of that grain. The board of directors, who met after the close of the market yesterday, made no formal announcement of the reasons for the action, but an official of the board said the establishment of a maximum price for December and later options seemed necessary to bring trading conditions into harmony with the government's war policy of preventing speculation and unwarranted high prices to consumers.

The maximum price of $1.65 a bushel for September option, which was fixed by the board some time ago, was not disturbed by the action of yesterday, as the value of old corn for immediate delivery is now much in excess of that limit, ordinarily number 2 white touching $1.94 a bushel, the highest price ever known in Chicago. Despite the favorable crop reports and the reduced price of wheat, traders say that business in the corn pit has been more active during the last month than at any time in the history of the board.

Postponed a Decision.

KAISER ORDERS ELECTORAL REFORMS

Berne, July 12.—(British Admiralty, per Wireless Press.)—The Vossische Zeitung, of Berlin, says the German imperial chancellor, Dr. von Bethmann-Hollweg has resigned. Emperor William, the newspaper adds, has postponed his decision whether to accept the chancellor's resignation.

KAISER ORDERS REFORM.

Paris, July 12.—A dispatch from Basel to the Havas Agency says Emperor William has addressed to Chancellor von Bethmann-Hollweg a rescript under the terms of which the bill to be submitted to the Prussian diet, as a complement to the imperial message of April 7, must be drawn up on the basis of equal voting rights.

KAISER CONSIDERS FUTURE.

New York, July 12.—At least fifty student aviators will be graduated from the aviation school at Garden City on July 15, prepared for European service. According to the announcement the student aviators began their training on May 1, and daily since then, no matter what the weather, have been perfecting themselves for service in the air on the fighting fronts of Europe. The French officers who arrived in this country a short time ago to aid in developing an efficient corps of fliers, expressed themselves as more than pleased not only with the progress of the students, but with the type of machine used in their training. Added facilities will make it possible for the school to increase the number of new students by many each week.

First Army to Colors Move Fast and Fateful Day Is Near.

DRAWING STARTS AS LAST BOARD IS IN

Washington, D. C., July 13.—Preparations for the final act in the organization of the national war army went forward rapidly today, indicating that despite delays, it might be possible to hold early next week the drawing which is to establish the order in which each of the nearly ten million registrants is to appear before the exemption board.

Probably 4,000 of the 4,559 local exemption boards have now completed their organization, given serial numbers to the cards within their districts and filed certified copies of these numerical lists. The office of Provost Marshal General Crowder had received 3,300 lists up to early today and undoubtedly hundreds more are in the mail.

It was stated authoritatively that as soon as the last board had reported to the adjutant general of the state the federal government could begin the drawing. The fact that all numerical lists are either in Washington or in the mail will be sufficient. It will not be necessary for all to reach Washington.

Refuse to Detail Plan.
Officials still declined to give exact details of the plans for the drawing, further than Secretary Baker's announcement that each man of the ten million would know after it was over, his place among the registered men of his district and order of liability for service. It may be necessary to draw approximately 7,000 numbers to accomplish this result. The fact that officials are withholding information as to the actual number necessary to draw, however, indicates that some plan for simplifying the drawing and reducing the mechanical task has been evolved.

It has been estimated that at least 687,000 men will be needed to fill up the regular army, national guard and first increment of the national army. The federal government stops with distribution of the quotas by states, however, leaving to the state authorities the task of dividing the total properly among the counties and making the actual credit to each district for the war volunteers it has already furnished.

To Publish Exemptions.
Another point that came up today was the appeal of various papers for permission to publish the names of men exempted and the reasons for exemption. Officials said this had already been given.

The regulations provide that the records of the exemption boards shall be open to the public, including the affidavits filed by or in behalf of any men and the action taken by the board.

The newspapers of the country have encountered difficulties in their efforts to arrange for publication of the names of men in the order drawn. In some cases papers would have to publish 500,000 names. It has been suggested that the

ONE THOUSAND MACHINE GUNS FOR NEW YORK

New York, July 13.—A thousand machine guns, a majority of them to be mounted on small automobiles, may be added to the defense of New York, if recommendations contained in the reports of a test made to army officials are adopted. The plan calls for 750 small motor cars, each mounting a machine gun, to be subject to call on short notice, the other 250 machine guns to be mounted on the roofs of tall buildings. Tenants of the buildings will form the crews of the guns on their roofs, while the owners of the automobiles will be expected to volunteer their services as drivers and gunners.

Army officials, it was said, at first expressed doubt as to the accuracy of guns so mounted. A test of a machine gun mounted on an automobile near here yesterday is said to have proved the value of the plan.

AUSTRIA IS FOR HOLLWEG

Germany's Main Ally Says

HAD NOT HEARD HE

Centrists in the Reichstag Believe Chancellor Should Go.

Copenhagen, July 13.—The Berlin Lokal Anzeiger says a communication from the Austrian-Hungarian government has been received in Berlin declaring that Dr. von Bethmann-Hollweg's continuance in office as chancellor of importance and his retirement possibly a fatal mistake.

The telegram was obviously dispatched before the decision on the Prussian franchise was taken, which is generally interpreted in Berlin as a sign that Dr. von Bethmann-Hollweg would remain. The Lokal Anzeiger attributes the telegram to Count Czernin, the Austro-Hungarian foreign minister.

Catholics Could Retire Him.

The executive committee of the Catholic center of the Reichstag on the other hand, believes Dr. von Bethmann-Hollweg unsuited to conduct peace negotiations, and says he should be replaced before an ultimate peace conference. The attitude of this great party, which is of quite as much importance as the views of Count Czernin on the same subject, and which have been repeatedly expressed, is somewhat cleared by the announcement of the party organ Germania.

While denying the report that the party had demanded the chancellor's retirement, for which "at present" there is no compelling ground, or that it had an interest in unsuited him, Germania says the party considers the chancellor scarcely fitted to participate in the peace negotiations, particularly considering the fact that war occurred under his regime, but that it is erroneous to consider his further continuance in office as a hindrance to bringing on peace.

Should Have No Hand in Peace.
The distinction drawn indicates that the centrist leaders believed the chancellor may remain for the present, but should resign before the actual peace conference. This corresponds with an-

AMERICAN RED CROSS IS BUSY OVER THE SEAS

Paris, July 13.—The American Red Cross, which has moved into new quarters in the Place de la Concorde, yesterday began the work of establishing canteens, restaurants and dispensaries at railroad stations and junctions, where the American troops will pass going to and returning from the front. Utilizing the experience gained last year when the troops went to the Mexican border, the canteens will supply coffee, bread and sandwiches. Rest stations, meals, beds and dispensaries equipped with beds, nurses and doctors, all will be open to the French troops. Such canteens already exist in Paris and elsewhere for French troops. They are conducted by volunteers, many of them being American women.

MEATLESS DAY EACH WEEK IN PHILADELPHIA

Philadelphia, Pa., July 13.—Philadelphia hotels and restaurants will follow New York's lead in instituting meatless days at least one day a week in the near future.

In addition to this change, there will be no wheat rolls for breakfast, and wheat bread will be baked from flour containing 10 per cent rice, potato, banana or rice flour. Toasting benches will be abolished and rough bread will be done away with because it requires too much butter.

This announcement was made today by Mahlon W. Newton, president of the Philadelphia Hotel Men's Association.

"When the new rules become effective," said Mr. Newton, "it will no longer be possible to obtain calves' liver, brains or sweetbread. Young chickens will no longer be served, nor will spring lamb or suckling pig."

PRESIDENT IS SEEKING WAY

BELIEVE TANGLE

Belief at Capitol is That Satisfactory Plan is Being Found.

Washington, July 13.—President Wilson is today seeking a way to straighten out the tangled legislative situation in the senate that has held up food control legislation there.

The president's conclusions on the subject will be reported to senate leaders before July 21, when a vote is to be taken on the food bill and upon him apparently rests, to a great extent, the form the legislation is to take.

Meantime the president is giving detailed study to the house food bill, as amended and pending in the senate, and the greatly restricted substitute framed by Senator Gore as a compromise.

There seemed to be a growing feeling at the capitol today that legislation finally will be worked out which will command general support in the senate.

GUARDS SOON TO GET CALL

Details for Getting the Regiments in Camps Under Way.

FIRST CALL WILL COME NEXT SUNDAY

None of Guards Will Be Put Into Federal Service Until August 5.

Washington, D. C., July 13.—Major General Bliss, chief of staff of the army today had before him a list of assignments of national guard divisions to training camps. It was announced that the war department's militia bureau following the selection of the last three of the sixteen sites, namely Hattiesburg, Miss.; Alexandria, La.; and Charlotte, N. C. The bureau's recommendations probably will not be made public, pending action by General Bliss.

Sunday is the day set for calling the first guard increment into the federal service, although the draft clause of the national defense act will not be applied to any of the guardsmen until August 5. Within a few days the movement to camps will start as ample supplies already are on hand.

BOY SCOUT COUNCIL HEARS J. P. FREEMAN

Talks on Importance of Movement—May Start Campaign Soon.

At a meeting at the Commercial club Thursday night, the Fort Wayne council of the Boy Scouts of America heard a talk by Judson P. Freeman, national field secretary of the organization. Mr. Freeman is recognized as one of the greatest authorities on the boy scout movement in the country. He explained the character and purpose of the organization and gave local members of the council a new idea of its importance and magnitude.

The three main features of boy scout work as pointed out by Mr. Freeman were that it is non-military, it is non-sectarian and non-commercial, and it aims to teach good fellowship and self-sacrifice. He showed the value of the boy scouts to the community by stating that its members sold $3,000,000 worth of liberty bonds.

The boy scout organization is considering the holding of a fund campaign, but as yet no arrangements have been made, and no definite decision has been reached. Another meeting of the council is to be held Saturday night at the Commercial club, in the form of a luncheon at which speakers will discuss the value of the organization.

TIGER HUNT AT FORT SHERIDAN GETS THE GAME

Fort Sheridan, Ill., July 13.—As the result of a raid here last night twenty-two men working to obtain commissions as officers in the new army were arrested, the men being caught, it is said while playing dice for money. Fourteen of the men are members of the Illinois regiment and eight are of the Michigan-Wisconsin regiment. The raid was made by men under Captain Troyan, of the Ohio Engineers, acting as military police, who suspected that gambling was going on in a little jungle on the lake front near the camp. Last night Captain Troyan hid his men in the underbrush and when the click of the dice was unmistakable closed in and placed under arrest all the participants.

Upon Col. W. J. Nicholson, commandant at the post, will depend whether or not the guilty ones will be summarily dismissed or merely placed under certain limitations.

One man is said to have admitted that he has won as much as $700 at a single sitting.

BRITISH U-BOAT CHASER USED TO GAIN RECRUITS

New York, July 13.—A British submarine chaser today entered the campaign being carried on here for recruits for the British navy by hailing all craft carrying passengers passing the Battery. The speedy little vessel drew up alongside Coney Island boats and ferries alike and asked for volunteers from among the passengers. The chaser formerly did patrol outside the three-mile limit until the United States entered the war. Later the boat will visit towns on Long Island Sound and along the coast to make a special appeal to the public for volunteers.

Victorious Slavs Are at Crucial Point in Big Lemberg Drive.

Northward.

(By Associated Press.)
Gen. Korniloff's aggressive Russian armies, which already have driven a vast wedge into the Teutonic lines in eastern Galicia, appear to be at the crucial point of their campaign for Lemberg.

Having crossed the river Lomnica, behind which the Austro-German forces planted themselves in their retreat from the Halicz region, the Russians have opened up the possibility of turning the whole Teutonic line northward along the Zlota-Lipa. Desperate attempts may be expected on the part of the defenders of eastern Galicia, however, to prevent the continuation of this menacing advance beyond the Lomnica, and the battles now in progress may be vital in determining the fate of Lemberg and all the eastern Galician terrain.

Today's statement from Petrograd shows that in Wednesday's fighting, which resulted in the capture of Kalusz, the Russians took 960 prisoners, chiefly Germans, and five heavy guns, besides ten machine guns.

The reference to German prisoners makes it probable that German reserves were thrown into the hard battle that Phoenix, Ariz., July 13.—Governor Campbell this morning received the following message from President Wilson: "Secretary of war has instructed Gen. Parker to send officers to Arizona at once to report to him conditions there with a view to co-operating in the maintenance of order. 'Meanwhile may I not respectfully urge the great danger of citizens taking the law into their own hands, as your report indicates their having done. I look upon such actions with grave apprehensions. A very serious responsibility is assumed when such precedents are set. (Signed.) 'WOODROW WILSON'."

NO REPORTS RECEIVED.
Washington, July 13.—The war department was without reports today from Arizona, or the headquarters of the southern department, indicating that Major General Parker had used federal troops in the maintenance of order in the region where disturbances have been created by Industrial Workers of the World.

General Parker's orders were to co-operate with the governor of Arizona and to take such measures as he regarded necessary for the protection of life and property. He was cautioned, however, to show no partiality and not to use the troops in the support of any faction, avoiding participation in any controversy.

the expectations of the throng that is certain to be present.

There was the customary street parade this morning, with its caravan of gilt adorned wagons, open cages of wild beasts, elephants, prancing horses, mounted knights and fair ladies and a liberal allotment of clowns in fantastic attire.

The parade was a particularly good one, even for this day of elaborate circus displays. There was a chariot for every nation, with the national flags floating and folks dressed up like the natives of each country, sometimes ten horses drawing it. Russia had a bevy of "Russian" ladies, with fur caps and coats, carrying white linon parasols. Surmounting Egypt was Cleopatra. The parade was led by a phalanx of blondes on cream horses, and interspersed along the huge caravan were blondes and brunettes, with a few Titans by way of variety, escorted by noble cavaliers.

There was a riot of ecstasy when a dozen huge cages, with sides off, rolled by. First came the leopards, then wolves and tigers, and then somebody down the line shouted: "Lions!"

There were panthers and more leopards and another family of lions, and then came the elephants.

Each had a red-coated and white-hatted keeper on his head with a long sharp hook. There were twenty-four of them, and they each hung on to the tail of the one in front of them with their trunks. There was one big fellow with iron chains on his feet hooking him to those in front and behind.

Transported by Four Trains.

The circus is transported this year on four trains, comprising eighty-nine cars, which, when stretched out, are over a mile in length. The big top, the largest the Ringlings have ever used is especially constructed, not only to accommodate the circus with its three rings, stages and hippodrome track, but also arranged for the massive spectacle, "Cinderella," which is presented on a stage five times the size of that found in the largest theaters.

All the cooking of this enormous enterprise is done by steam and in ranges built in a wagon weighing nine tons and drawn by ten horses. As a mere detail of the marketing, the circus consumes daily 4,500 pounds of fresh beef, 300 dozen eggs, 800 pounds of bread, 150 pounds of butter, 150 pounds of coffee, 500 pounds of sugar and other items equally as large. The first order to the cooks in the morning is for 5,200 griddle cakes, and yet, as large a number as this may seem, it is only for the four apiece. For the stock and animal department there are sent daily ten tons of hay, five tons of straw, 300 bushels of oats, while no well behaved elephant would think of starting his day's labor without his morning cereal, a bale of hay. Most of all these purchases are made from local merchants.

It costs $8,000 a day to run this circus, and it represents an investment of nearly $4,000.

The circus will open with the spectacle, "Cinderella." Nothing so richly costumed or so effectively presented has ever been given here before. The opening pageant, the ballet of dancing girls and the dramatic action, are veritable surprises. In the circus performance 400 men and women appear. More novelties than ever before are presented, the Ringlings having brought from Europe the majority of their people.

The afternoon performance was attended by an enormous crowd and every indication points to a record audience at tonight's show, which will begin at 8 o'clock.

APPEALS TO PATRIOTISM

President Exhorts Great Producers and Makers to Deal Fairly.

DOLLAR DEVOTION HOTLY DENOUNCED

Calls on Manufacturers and Mine Owners to Enlist for War.

Washington, D. C., July 12.—President Wilson has appealed to the country's business interests to put aside every selfish consideration and to give their aid to the nation as freely as those who go out to offer their lives on the battlefield.

In a statement addressed to the coal operators and manufacturers he gave assurances that just prices will be paid by the government and the public during the war, but warned that no attempt to extort unusual profits will be tolerated.

"Your patriotism," said the president's appeal, "is of the same self-denying stuff as the patriotism of the men dead and maimed on the fields of France, or it is no patriotism at all. Let us never speak, then, of profits and patriotism in the same sentence."

"I shall expect every man who is not a slacker to be at my side throughout this great enterprise. In it no man can win honor who thinks of himself."

Condemns Ship Owners.

The president declared there must be but one price for the government and for the public. He expressed confidence that business generally would be found loyal to the last degree and that the problem of wartime ocean freight rates which has placed "almost insuperable obstacles in the path of the government."

"The fact is," he asserted, "that those who have fixed war freight rates have taken the most effective means in their power to defeat the armies engaged against Germany."

Coal production and other industries for whose products the government has negotiated price agreements are not taken into detail by the president, his appeal dealing only with the general principles involved in the determination of war prices.

President's Call.

"The government is about to attempt to determine the prices at which it will ask you henceforth to furnish various supplies which are necessary for the prosecution of the war, and various materials which will be needed in the industries by which the war must be sustained. We shall, of course, try to determine them justly and to the best advantage of the nation as a whole; but justice is easier to speak of than to arrive at, and there are some considerations which I hope we shall keep steadily in mind while this particular problem of justice is being worked out."

"Therefore I take the liberty of stating very candidly my own view of the situation and of the principles which should guide both the government and the mine owners and manufacturers of the country in this difficult matter."

"A just price must, of course, be paid for everything the government buys. By a just price I mean a price which will sustain the industries concerned in, a high state of efficiency, provide a living for those who conduct them, enable them to pay good wages, and make possible the expansion of their enterprises. It will from time to time become necessary as the stupendous undertakings of this great war develop."

Must Face the Facts.

"We could not wisely or reasonably do less than pay such prices. They are necessary for the maintenance and development of industry, and the maintenance and development of industry are necessary for the great task we have in hand."

"But I trust that we shall not surround the matter with a mist of sentimentality. Facts are our masters now. We ought not to put the acceptance of such prices on the ground of patriotism."

"Patriotism has nothing to do with profits in a case like this. Patriotism and profits ought never in the present circumstances be mentioned together.

"It is perfectly proper to discuss profits as a matter of business, with a view to maintaining the integrity of capital and the efficiency of labor in these tragical months, when the liberty of free men everywhere and of industry itself trembles in the balance; but it would be absurd to discuss them as a motive for helping to serve and save our country."

Must Give Money.

"Patriotism leaves profits out of the question. In these days of our supreme trial, when we are sending hundreds of thousands of our young men across the seas to serve a great cause, no true man who stays behind to work for them and sustain them by his labor will ask himself what he is personally going to make out of that labor."

"No true patriot will permit himself to take toll of their heroism in money or seek to grow rich by the shedding of their blood. He will give as freely and with as unalloyed self-sacrifice as they. When they are giving their lives, will he not at least give his money?"

"I hear it insisted that more than a just price, more than a price that will sustain our industries, must be paid; that it is necessary to pay very liberal and unusual profits in order to 'stimulate' production; that nothing but pecuniary rewards will do—rewards paid in money, not in the mere liberation of the world."

"I take it for granted that those who argue thus do not stop to think what that means."

"Do they mean that you must be paid, must be bribed, to make your contribution, a contribution that costs you neither a drop of blood nor a tear, when the whole world is in travail and men everywhere depend upon and call to you to bring them out of bondage and make the world a fit place to live in again, amidst peace and justice?"

Appeals to Honor.

"Do they mean that you will exact a price, drive a bargain, with the men who are enduring the agony of this war on the battlefield, in the trenches, amidst the lurking dangers of the sea, or with the bereaved women and pitiful children, before you will come forward to do your duty and give some part of your life, in easy, peaceful fashion, for the things we have pledged our fortunes, our lives, our sacred honor to vindicate and defend—liberty and justice and fair dealing and the peace of nations?"

"Of course you will not. It is inconceivable. Your patriotism is of the same self-denying stuff as the patriotism of the men dead or maimed on the fields of France, or else it is not patriotism at all."

Full Dollar's Worth.

"Let us never speak, then, of profits and of patriotism in the same sentence, but face facts and meet them. Let us do sound business, but not in the midst of a war."

"Many a grievous burden of taxation will be laid on this nation, in this generation and in the next, to pay for this war; let us see to it that for every dollar that is taken from the people's pockets it shall be possible to obtain a dollar's worth of the sound stuff they need."

"Let me turn for a moment to the ship owners of the United States and the other ocean carriers whose example they have followed, and ask them if they realize what obstacles, what almost insuperable obstacles, they have been putting in the way of the successful prosecution of this war by the ocean freight rates they have been exacting."

Making War a Failure.

"They are doing everything that high freight charges can do to make the war a failure, to make it impossible."

"I do not say that they realize this or intend it. The thing has happened naturally enough, because the commercial processes which we are content to see operate in ordinary times have without sufficient thought been continued into a period where they have no proper place."

"I am not questioning motives. I am merely stating a fact and stating it in order that attention may be fixed upon it."

RINGLING BROTHERS' BIG CIRCUS COMES TO TOWN

FOOD SPECIALIST TO LECTURE HERE

Will Discuss Economic Values and How to Get Most for Money.

"I have something practical to offer to meet the high cost of living," says Dr. George L. McNutt, better known as "the dinner pail man," who talks on living costs and living cost problems at the big Fort Wayne Redpath chautauqua which opens next Tuesday afternoon at 3 o'clock on the old golf grounds. Out of more than fifteen thousand experiments, I have developed and made practical a special home process of milling with which any family can make delicious bread at a saving of 20 per cent. of cost. By the same process, any family can make better breakfast food than money can buy, at a saving of from 40 to 100 per cent.

"I have simplified and made available to any family a steam pressure method that cooks any of the vegetables in less than 10 minutes, conserving the mineral salts from lack of which many of us are starving."

"The world is hungry. I have something definite to offer to help relieve the situation."

"I show the low cost and high efficiency of primary foods, taken direct from nature, with everything that nature puts in them conserved. I am trying to do something to restore to families and communities, the independence of our self-reliant, pioneer forefathers in their nearness to nature and nature's bounties."

Dr. McNutt's lecture is one of the strong features of the Redpath program this season. In every city he meets personally, scores of people who want to talk with him about the problems he is working upon. His lecture is made vivid by the fact that he actually does considerable cooking and baking right on the platform and gives to his audience, samples of what he prepares.

Another instance of the patriotic service being rendered by the Redpath chautauquas this year is that Dr. McNutt is preparing at the request of the French and English embassies in this country a plan for meeting food problems to be used in France and England. Dr. McNutt's lecture gives specific instances for solving high living costs and is right along with the patriotic idea of conserving food stuffs, advocated by President Wilson.

This lecture alone is worth several times the price of a season ticket to every person and thousands of dollars to every community.

Tickets are selling fast, if you have not secured yours, do not delay, which may be had at the University club, ticket booth at Wolf & Dessauer's and drug stores.

WHITE MAN ATTACKS YOUNG NEGRO GIRL

Patrolman Godfrey to Scene.

Edward Hurr, 28, made an attack on a colored girl at the Hamilton property, Clinton street, Thursday night, Patrolman Godfrey stated in police court Friday morning. The girl, who had been dragged upon the lawn by her assailant, blew a sharp blast on a whistle. She gasped to the patrolman that she had been assaulted and then fled into the darkness.

Hurr pleaded guilty to the assault charge. He does not know who the girl is, he states. Hurr was fined $25 and costs. He will go to jail.

Registration Trouble.
William Thompson, 22, and Hardin Banks, 23, both colored, have not taken time out to register for conscription, they admitted. They were bound over to Federal Commissioner Logan. They will have a hearing before the federal officer Friday afternoon.

Amil Zeramblow says he is 20 years old and that he gave the age 22, several months ago in order to successfully pass emigrant officers when he came from Glasgow, Scotland. He is held until Saturday. Police will question him further.

Has Many Medals.
Tom Brown, 40, who has seen eight years' service in the national guard, is a crack marksman. In the city court, where he was charged with intoxication Friday morning, he displayed a small flag, having covered by medals won by himself for marksmanship in regimental meets at several points over the United States. He pleaded guilty to the drunk charge and was released.

Other Police Court Cases.
Brisco Holmes, came to town to the circus and visited too many bars. Upon an intoxication charge he was fined $15 and costs. Other cases of intoxication were: Glenn Hooker, $15 and costs and Tony Sandy, $10.

Joe Roselli and Joe Harrow, two lads charged with train climbing, were given time to get out of the city.

"IT CAN'T BE DONE," SAYS AUTO SPEEDER

Was Just Drifting Along
When Officer Halted Him.

F. B. Mills, auto repairman, declares that an automobile with a loose steering gear will not travel forty miles an hour.

"I can't make thirty with her in the shape she is in," he told the police court Friday. "Take her out and try it," he added.

Mills insisted that he was "just drifting along" when Motor Policeman Lantz breezed up beside him on East Washington street Thursday afternoon. The officer said he had trailed Mills, who drove an auto truck, for four squares and that the man was driving at forty miles an hour. The fine was $10 and costs.

That was the same kind of a fine that William Custer paid when he pleaded guilty to driving thirty-four miles an hour Thursday afternoon.

PRISONER IN OHIO ASKS REQUISITION

James Baughman, 45, arrested in Zanesville, Ohio, Thursday, on a charge of non-support, demands requisition. He states that he should not be returned here because he has contributed towards his family's support. A special delivery letter was sent to Columbus, Ohio, Friday, by Prosecutor Frank Emrick asking that Baughman be given over to the custody of Indiana officials. Detective Sergeant Joseph Brennan will go for Baughman if extraditions is granted.

Baughman was divorced from his wife nine months ago. He is now paying $24 a month for the keeping of his family. Since that time he has paid but small amounts.

ST. JOE TOWNSHIP

PIONEER REGISTERS

Hiram Porter, 90, Believes
State Needs a New Constitution.

Another pioneer resident wants to have a part in Indiana's new constitution. Hiram Porter, of St. Joe township, registered Thursday at the court house. He is 90 years old, being born in 1827, and up to the present time is the oldest voter in Allen county qualifying for the election of delegates to the constitutional convention to be held in the fall.

Although within ten years of the century mark, Porter is exceptionally spry and active. He believes that Indiana's constitution needs altering. New conditions have arisen and things have greatly changed since the time the present constitution was written, he says.

Four thousand eight hundred and twenty-five had registered up to noon, Friday, according to records at the county clerk's office. There are doubtless many more registered by notary publics whose names have not been turned in. The question of keeping open one night out of each week until August 20, the last day for registering, has not been determined. The request was made by the attorney general of the state.

BUSY WEEK AT FREE

EMPLOYMENT OFFICE

Farmers, in to Attend Circus, Make Application for Help.

Many farmers of Allen county, who were in Fort Wayne Friday, to attend the Ringling Brothers' circus, visited the Fort Wayne office of the state free employment bureau in search of help. There are thirty applications now on file for farm laborers.

The situation has reached a critical stage with the farmers and unless their cry for help is answered pretty soon the loss of crops will be enormous.

Jobs were secured for 151 applicants at the free employment office during the past week. One hundred and forty-six of these were men and five were women. Employment was given to the men as follows: Drivers, 1; elevator operator, 1; farm hands, 11; firemen, 1; laborers, 128; porter, 1. Women were given jobs as follows: Cook, 1; day worker, 1; dishwasher, 2, and laundress, 1.

SPALDING WILL FIGHT

BROUGHT TO AN END

Contest Closes in Court and Son Will Get the Bulk of Estate.

San Diego, Cal., July 13.—Contest of the will of Albert Spalding, sporting goods manufacturer, who died at Point Loma, Cal., September 9, 1915, is at an end after more than a year of litigation, a compromise having been reached by those interested. The estate has been estimated at $1,200,000. One of the attorneys for Keith Spalding, of Chicago, a contestant, said that he understood his client was to get five-twelfths of the estate and that the widow, Mrs. Elizabeth Churchill Spalding, seven-twelfths by the terms of the agreement. An order of dismissal was entered yesterday and the hearing upon Mrs. Spalding's petition for the admission of the will to probate is set for today.

One of the contestants was Albert G. Spalding, Jr., an adopted son, who was killed last year while fighting in the French army. He left a will which provided that any interest he might have in the estate should go to Keith Spalding. By the terms of the settlement, according to the attorney for Keith Spalding, the latter will have control of the firm known as Spalding Bros., of Chicago, New York and London, with branches in many other cities.

BARON MEETS LINE

OF BEASTLY LUCK

Captain Ryan Misunderstands Him and Pretty Girls Are Slow.

Beastly luck the stately Baron Dr. De Ogler is having. All his blue blood has been aroused by the unexplainable run of misunderstandings which have marked his way in Fort Wayne.

Capt. Thomas Ryan, in charge of the Fort Wayne recruiting station, stated on Thursday that he had not learned of proper credentials being presented by the baron.

"Aren't these credentials enough?" asked the somewhat emotional nobleman, with animated gesturing Friday morning, as he laid before a Sentinel reporter a letter signed by Harry B. Smith, adjutant general of Indiana.

The baron is sincere in his efforts and has worked hard to aid recruiting," the letter ran. "We hope we will make out of him a genuine, dandy-in-the-wool American, as well as an American soldier."

Miss Bryan. She refused to divulge her address to Baron Dr. De Ogler.

Did she have the bright eyes and flaxen locks? "My, my yes," sparkled the nobleman. "She was a beauty. She had an engagement and could not go out to dinner with me tonight."

The Roumanian title bearer will hold another reception on Saturday morning from 9 o'clock until 11 in the hotel parlors.

That will be after he has delivered his stirring lecture in connection with his war pictures at the Strand theater, and after Fort Wayne knows him better. Also he expects to reach an understanding with Captain Ryan before that time.

SENATOR ASHURST INJURED.

Washington, July 13.—Senator Ashurst, of Arizona, received injuries to his right arm and shoulder today when ascending, being lowered over a sidewalk on which he was walking, fell and knocked him unconscious. He was quickly revived and went to his office. The fall finally caused him to go home for medical attention.

LESSON FOR JULY 15,

HEZEKIAH, THE FAITHFUL KING.

LESSON TEXT—II Chron. 30:1.
GOLDEN TEXT—He that cometh to God must believe that he is, and that he is a rewarder of them that diligently seek him.—Heb. 11:6.

The reformation under Hezekiah is one of the bright and attractive spots in the latter history of the kingdom of Israel. It was a most thorough reformation and God set his seal upon it in many wonderful ways. Teachers ought to give their classes a comprehensive view of all that Hezekiah did, as recorded in II Chron., chapters 29-32.

I. Hezekiah's Proclamation. (vv. 1-4). The proper introduction to this lesson would be to return to chapter twenty-nine and note the restoration of the worship of Jehovah. How it began in one man's heart, Hezekiah; how he called the people to be clean (29:15), then called upon a cleansing of the house of God and its restoration (vv. 18, 19). How he called them to renewed sacrifice and worship (vv. 20, 21). The restoration of the sin-offering and of the burnt-offering, and the result of these offerings in the Levitical music and in the worship of the great congregation (29, 28). The sequel of song always follows and accompanies a true revival of religion. Having consecrated themselves unto the Lord, Hezekiah sends out this proclamation. The consecration of the people, as referred in chapter 29, was very complete. (See vv. 31-36.) Hezekiah was a man of deep discernment as well as of true piety. He saw the meaning of the sacrifice of redemption and put the passover forward as the very heart-center of the worship of Jehovah. (See vv. 1, 2.) Whoever understands the passover, understands God's way of salvation. (See Exodus 12:13-23; I Cor. 5:7, 8; Rom. 3:25, 26; John 1:29.) Hezekiah did not confine his call to those of Israel alone, but extended it beyond its borders to those of Ephraim, thus manifesting the true missionary spirit. Hezekiah had ample Scriptural warrant keeping this passover out of its regular order (vv. 9-13). God is not a God of time or place. Wherever obedience is possible, whether it be a matter of time or not, God approves. Hezekiah, however, did not act upon his own initiative, but sought counsel. (See v. 2.) The man who is the most clearly led of God is the man who is most eager and anxious to know how God is leading other men and will listen most patiently to their counsel. The fact that the people had not "gathered themselves together at Jerusalem" for a long time, might have warranted a further delay. Not so with this enthusiastic young king. He was not bound by precedent, but was anxious to please God.

II. Hezekiah's Exhortation (vv. 7-13). Hezekiah began his exhortation by calling attention to the trespasses of their fathers (v. 7). At the same time he reminds them that if God gave them over to desolation because they themselves were stiff-necked (v. 8) and yielded not themselves unto the Lord to enter his sanctuary, which he had sanctified unto them, they would come under the fierceness of God's wrath, for they had turned from the Lord; they had "trespassed against the Lord God of their fathers." Because of that trespass God had "given them up to desolation." Literally he had made them "an astonishment." This astonishment and desolation was well known, "as ye see" (v. 7). Anyone with eyes open can see today the desolation of individuals, of families, communities and nations who trespass against God. For a generation we have had the deity of Christ and the inspiration of his Word called into question and that the individual man is the dictator of his own conscience and life, and it is because men have departed from their faithful allegiance to Jesus Christ and fail to obey his command, that we see the strife and desolation of today.

The first departure caused people to be "stiff-necked" and Jehovah is calling them to repentance, but they would not hear (see Ch. 30:13; Ex. 32:9; Rom. 10:21). In place of this "stiff-neckedness" of their hearts Hezekiah entreats them to turn again to the Lord and not to be stiff-necked as were their fathers (v. 8). That if they will turn again unto the Lord (v. 9) they will find compassion so that they shall again enter his gracious and merciful dealings. Having yielded themselves they were to enter into communion with him and "enter into his sanctuary, which he had sanctified forever." They were also to serve him. Most blessed results were to follow for them and for their brethren and their children, but all of this bright prospect is conditioned upon repentance, surrender, communion and service, which is based upon the fact that Jehovah "is gracious and merciful" (Ex. 34:6, 7; Ps. 86:5; Jonah 4:2; Mark 7:18). Then, even as now, there were those who would not yield themselves to God's gracious invitation. As the priests passed through the country of Ephraim and Manasseh, even unto Zebulun, they were "laughed to scorn and some mocked" (v. 10).

Doing Good.

Few medicines have met with more favor or accomplished more good than Chamberlain's Colic and Diarrhoea Remedy. John F. Jantzen, Delmon, Pa., says of it: "I have used Chamberlain's Colic and Diarrhoea Remedy myself and in my family, and can recommend it as being an exceptionally fine preparation."—Advertisement.

100 per cent. value for your dollar at Sherman's every day in the year. Out of season or in season. The time of the year does not affect our price. Our clothes always measure up to our set high standard value.

You can buy more value for your $10 right now at Sherman's than any regular retail clothing store can offer you with all their artificial reductions of price, which they call, such as "Half-off Sales," or "Selling Below Cost." We never have sales reducing the value of our suits. Your money is not reduced 20 per cent or 50 per cent after you spend your money and wear your suit a week or two, but the value is there today and every day.

We Guarantee You a Saving of $5 to $8

Think over what this means. Think what real clothes values you can buy for your dollars. Every garment in our store possesses every detail of good workmanship equal to the highest standard of tailoring. The wools used are chosen with the greatest of care; put through a chemical process, and are of the very highest quality. The models and styles are the result of artistic designing. Our clothes are thoroughly hand made.

A Sherman's Suit represents the standard of excellence—that of only the best $15 to $18 suits. The only difference is the price. We are satisfied with only a small manufacturer's profit where the retailer has to charge you up with the wholesaler's profit plus his own.

Suits of All Styles---Suits of All Kinds

We will leave the clothes question directly up to you, if you have always purchased a full value for your money. Men who have bought and worn Sherman's Clothes are qualified to hand their opinion to you. Ask them. They come back season after season to buy their new clothes at Sherman's. This is proof of satisfaction.

Mexico City, July 13.—The military expedition under General Manuel Perez Trevino sent to garrison the Island of Guadalupe in the Pacific has reached its destination. The garrison will prevent inroads by so-called pirates who have been looting the pearl shell beds of the island and will also aid in colonizing the island.

Doctor Tells How To Strengthen Eyesight 50 per cent In One Week's Time in Many Instances

A Free Prescription You Can Have Filled and Use at Home

Philadelphia, Pa. Do you wear glasses? Are you a victim of eye strain or other eye weaknesses? If so, you will be glad to know that according to Dr. Lewis there is real hope for you. Many whose eyes were failing say they have had their eyes restored through the principle of this wonderful free prescription. One man says, after trying it: "I was almost blind; could not see to read at all. Now I can read everything without any glasses and my eyes do not water any more. At night they would pain dreadfully; now they feel fine all the time. It was like a miracle to me." A lady who used it says: "The atmosphere seemed hazy with or without glasses, but after using this prescription for fifteen days everything seems clear. I can even read fine print without glasses." It is believed that thousands who wear glasses can now discard them in a reasonable time and that there will be a great saving of money and time in so doing.

and expense of ever getting glasses. Eye troubles of many descriptions may be wonderfully benefited by following the simple rules. Here is the prescription: Go to any active drug store and get a bottle of Bon-Opto tablets. Drop one Bon-Opto tablet in a fourth of a glass of water and allow to dissolve. With this liquid bathe the eye two to four times daily. You should notice your eyes clear up perceptibly right from the start and inflammation will quickly disappear. If your eyes are bothering you, even a little, take steps to save them now before it is too late. Many hopelessly blind might have been saved if they had cared for their eyes in time.

Note: Another prominent physician to whom the above article was submitted, said: "Bon-Opto is a very remarkable remedy. Its constituent ingredients are well known to eminent eye specialists and widely prescribed by them. The manufacturer guarantees it to strengthen or weaken as per cent in one week's time in many instances or refund the money. It can be obtained from any drug store and is one of the very few prescriptions I feel should be kept in hand by everyone who wears glasses."—Advertisement.

Field Marshal von Hindenburg that he was at first taken for the latter. The prisoner, a major of infantry, was observed in the collecting station by an Italian intelligence officer, who exclaimed: "What! Have we got the great Hindenburg?" "No," replied the major, "I am not Hindenburg, nor any relative of his. I am merely a poor wretch who will do no more fighting."

Are You One of Them?

There are a great many people who would be very much benefited by taking Chamberlain's Tablets for a weak or disordered stomach. Are you one of them? Mrs. M. R. Searl, Baldwinville, N. Y., relates her experience in the use of these tablets: "I had a bad spell with my stomach about six months ago, and was troubled for two or three weeks with gas and severe pains in the pit of my stomach. Our druggist advised me to take Chamberlain's Tablets. I took a bottle home and the first dose relieved me wonderfully, and I kept on taking them until I was cured." These tablets do not relieve pain, but after the pain has been relieved may prevent its recurrence.—Advertisement.

MORE NOISE THAN MOVEMENT.

The bit of turmoil in the German reichstag and the rumors of changes in the German imperial government are commonly described in the American press as a "crisis." This seems to be a purely gratuitous tribute to the political energies and democratic strivings of the German people. There has not appeared so far any evidence that the kaiser and his ministers are face to face with any situation even approaching the seriousness of a crisis. The noise in the reichstag is not without precedent; indeed, is not uncommon. The reichstag now and then becomes a pretty noisy place even in normal times. It answers the function of a safety valve for the German empire. Through it a good deal of steam escapes that might otherwise prove a hard strain and give threat to "bust the boiler." But nothing much has ever come of it. It does not seem likely that much can come of it now.

It will be well to keep in mind that the assaults on the imperial chancellor, Dr. von Bethmann-Hollweg, come from the extreme flanks. The spokesmen for democracy find no more serious occasion against him than the junkers. The imperialist extremists, the pan-Germans, profess to be as heatedly antagonistic to him for what they regard as his liberalism in politics and his moderations in the war as the social democrats are hostile to him for his conservatism, reaction and commitment to imperial ambition as well as his part in the policies of rightfulness. The pressure on the government comes from both sides. The agitations for democracy are genuine of course. Considerable doubt involves the character of the antagonisms displayed against the chancellor from the other extremists. It may be genuine, but probably is not. That element has no reason to have lost faith in the militaristic group, or to distrust its policies and conduct. The Prussian war coterie, with the emperor at its head and the chauvinistic crown prince as its ablest exemplar and its future hope, rules Germany. The reichstag can have no power against it except the emperor himself be detached from the whole vast military structure which is imperial Germany. There is no likelihood of that.

Germany will have a real crisis in her politics and government when the body of the people—and that must include the mass of the army—rise against their rulers and revolt against despotism as the people of Russia did last March. How near or how remote that may be, or whether it be a sane possibility at all so long as German arms remain unbeaten, no one may say; but there are now no indications visible from the outside that any such state of feeling broods in the general mind of Germany.

The ferment of democracy in the German empire may be proceeding with rapidity and may disclose itself suddenly in a tremendous upheaval as was the case in Russia. The world gasped when Nicholas was tumbled from the throne and the old despotism of the Romanoffs was puffed out in the short span of a day by the breath of popular wrath. Tyranny nowhere ever has stood nor any where ever can stand against all the people. When the mass in Germany shall come to hold in common the belief that democracy is their right and the divine rights of kingship their most signal and implacable wrong, they will do what all oppressed peoples aspiring to democracy are desirous of their power have done and will ever do. Until that time, be it near or far, shall dawn, there will be no "crisis" in the German empire from which the dynasty and the militarism that is its bulwark cannot easily save themselves.

There may be a true crisis in Germany today, but it frets and fevers and ferments below the surface of things, not in the reichstag, in the chancellory or about the throne. The bubbling that now is heard seems to be a pretty mild matter and gives forth a sound made expressly to be heard. It may fool the German people into belief that events big for them and their liberties are transpiring behind the veils in whose shades despotism and tyranny move and work.

ANDREW J. MOYNIHAN.

In the death of Andrew J. Moynihan there passes a man who in many ways was remarkable. His career reached from a very humble beginning to the eminence of a great success. His personality impressed itself on his community to a degree that is true of only few men anywhere. His influence was effectual within a field that was wider than perhaps some contemporary men were generously ready to concede.

For almost thirty years Mr. Moynihan was editor of the Fort Wayne Journal and its successor, the Fort Wayne Journal-Gazette. He had begun his newspaper career at the very bottom, starting as a printer's devil in the composing rooms of The Fort Wayne Sentinel. He completed his apprenticeship as a printer and for a time worked as a journeyman. He then applied himself to the editorial branch of the business and in that his progress was steadfast. When Mr. Moynihan, associated with the Messrs. W. W. and H. C. Rockhill, took hold of the old Morning Journal, that property consisted mainly of printer's junk and an enterprise of dubious history and dubious prospect. What was wrought in the quarter century that followed had concrete illustration some twelve months ago when Mr. Moynihan sold to Messrs. Lew G. Ellingham and Edward G. Hoffman one of the largest and best equipped as well as most prosperous newspapers in the middle west at a price said to have been a quarter of a million dollars. That says for itself the true thing better than any written words or speech can say it. All of the success achieved for the Journal and the Journal-Gazette was not due to Mr. Moynihan, nor did he claim so much. The Messrs. Rockhill gave it indispensable business direction and attention must capably. As editor Mr. Moynihan put the imprint of his character and personality on the paper and it remained there to the last day that his authority remained over the publication. He put there something else that only stupidity or recklessness will ever be able to efface. That is a character for progress and enterprise conjoined with sane business risk. Happily there is every sign that in this aspect of its career change of ownership has meant no deviation from the policy of advancement. Mr. Moynihan believed that the function of a newspaper was to print the news and to do so he never grudging the labor or counted the expense that made up the price of aggressive enterprise. The newspaper his zeal, energy and genius created says so much for this phase of his labor that it is wanton waste of words to attempt to add to such a conclusive testimony.

The personality of "Andy" Moynihan was unique and interesting. He was not grotesque or "odd," in the usual meanings of those terms, but he was at least unusual, and some have thought that the rather overworked and somewhat stale expression "picturesque character" described him. Perhaps in some measure it did; but Andrew J. Moynihan had principles too positive, views frequently too radical and a quality of expression now and then altogether too original and occasionally too energetic to be comprehended by that sort of term. He was generous to a degree not readily to be exaggerated. His sympathies were quick, strong, genuine and affirmative and seldom failed to find practical expression. He was a man of vast impulsiveness and with him impulse was action. This quality of his mind did not always bring happy consequences, but it was in him and of him and he attempted no mitigations and set up no denials of it. He will be long remembered as a warm-hearted, generous-souled man. He began life almost destitute of every advantage save a good mind and a strong heart and he succeeded in a great way. He was devoted to his city and he gave strong impulse to many of the best civic advancements of his term. Few of the multitude that knew him will not learn of his death without a feeling of genuine sorrow.

WARNING TO BIG SLACKERS.

President Wilson has appealed to certain of the big business interests of the country to forget that the stress of the nation is a season for making hay and to "do their bit." There will be a good response to this importunate cry, for which there ought to have been no need. Some will respond because they will feel that it is the thing to do. Others will respond because between the lines of the president's appeal there may be read certain signs and portents that do not bode well for the slackers in big business. While the clouds of war darken all other prospects for the people, the sunshine of gross opportunity should not be permitted to shine upon the sordid hay-makers that see in the war a great field day for rapacity. What the government needs that cannot be had by mutual arrangement upon decent terms, it should be understood, will be had by the government anyway. That is a good way for the big slackers to look at it, if they can see it in no other light.

PAGAN LONGINGS.

Oh, when again you hear the pipes o' Pan a-down the lane,
Or see, beneath a moonlit sky, the Dryads stroll again—
When through the screen o' laughing leaves, you see the Satyrs play,
Oh, call me soft, and I will be a Pagan for the day!
Could I but catch a furtive glance at some wee woodland faun,
I'd steal away, amid the misty tears o' languid dawn;
For once, in ages long ago, a Pagan's soul had I,
But now the dreaming memory is buried in a sigh!
To hear the lilting melody come rippling from Pan's flute,
To weep with bliss at melting chords from 'Amphion's silver lute—
To feel the frenzied happiness o' Pagans once again—
Hark!—Did I hear a piping call a-down you hawthorn lane?

But I've got to plow the co'n, don't you see?

Oh, thrill to be a Pagan, for a year and for a day;
I'd like to run a race with Pan, and gambol on the way—
Oh, I'd love to snatch a kiss,

Anyhow the waiting room was very quiet and empty save for the presence of S. and the gentleman who does the sweeping symphony. Suddenly, as Spirillum pondered, a huge rat ran across the floor and up the wall. Spirillum was astounded, but the terror of the gentleman who operated the broom was something frightful. "Did you see it, too?" he asked. Spirillum's ready admission alone saved the caretaker.

A NEW CONSTITUTION

By John A. Lapp, Bureau of Legislative Information

Educational Provisions of the Constitution of Indiana and What the New One Should Have

(Copyright 1917 by John A. Lapp.)
Indiana has had important provisions in her constitution from the earliest time relating to education. The territory out of which Indiana was carved was organized with free education as one of its chief cornerstones. The famous ordinances of 1787 which set up a form of government of the Northwest territory declared: "Religion, morality and knowledge, being necessary to good government and the happiness of mankind, schools and the means of education shall forever be encouraged."

The first constitution had the following declaration of the state's purpose in education: "Knowledge and learning generally diffused, through a community, being essential to the conservation of free government, and spreading the opportunities, and advantages of education through the various parts of the country, being highly conducive to this end, the general assembly shall from time to time pass such laws as shall be calculated to encourage intellectual, scientific and agricultural improvements, by allowing rewards and immunities for the promotion and improvement of arts, sciences, commerce, manufactures and natural history; and to countenance and encourage the principles of humanity, honesty, industry, and morality."

Of course in neither case could this ideal be reached in the primitive state but these declarations served as a beacon to inspire thought and endeavor. Little actual attempt was made to put a free system of schools into operation.

The constitution of 1852 announced the purpose of the state in education in these words: "Knowledge, and learning, generally diffused throughout a community, being essential to the preservation of a free government; it shall be the duty of the general assembly to encourage, by all suitable means, moral, intellectual, scientific and agricultural improvement; and to provide, by law, for a general and uniform system of common schools, wherein tuition shall be without charge, and equally open to all."

The first session of the legislature after the new constitution was adopted set up in every part of the state

free common schools and the system thus started has flourished and developed into the present system in which the state takes pride. We are spending in Indiana today $15,625,051 in common schools. There are employed 19,648 teachers and the number of pupils in elementary and high schools in the state in the year 1916 was 562,252.

A comprehensive system has become the most important single part of the state's work both from the point of view of its size as a business proposition and from its effect upon the welfare of the people of the state. It is a matter of deep interest that the best system shall be maintained for the benefit of all the people and that the vast amount of money required shall be spent in return for the greatest amount of public good. The importance of the matter demands that the management of education shall be organized to get the best results. The state over sees and supervises the expenditures of large sums both of its own money and the money of the localities and there is a corresponding responsibility.

At present the school system is organized with the state superintendent of public instruction at the head. The constitution declares that this officer shall be elected by the people for a term of two years. The state legislature has created a state board of education with large powers of control over the schools. The local schools are managed by the school authorities of the cities, towns and townships. The county elects a superintendent of schools who has some powers of control over the township schools and in the licensing of teachers. The township schools are under the township trustees. The city schools are managed by boards of school trustees or commissioners.

There has been much criticism of this plan of educational supervision because there seems to be no clear idea of responsibility. No official is granted distinct authority and no clearly defined duties. The following specific proposals are made by educators and others looking toward a more economical and efficient plan of control:

1. The management of the schools of the township should be taken out from the control of the township trustees and all of the township schools of each county be placed under a county board which would have the same powers in the management of such schools as the city boards now have over city schools. The county superintendent would be the rural schools what the city superintendent is to the city schools. He would be chosen as city superintendents are chosen because of his fitness as an educator. It is argued that this plan would give educational management instead of the political management so often shown by township trustees and county superintendents.

2. The state board of education, it is argued, should become the head of the educational system as it now is only partially and the superintendent of public instruction should become the executive officer of the board. He would be selected by the board and not by the people as at present and he would be kept in the position on the basis of merit. At present the superintendent is elected by political methods and he must engage in politics constantly to keep his place. His term is only for two years and he may be defeated and his inexperienced successor comes into office and spends his time learning the work and in turn passing on as the political fortunes of his party go.

The important task of education should have capable administrators and such cannot be obtained with any degree of certainty by the elective system. Under the plan outlined there would be continuity of expert professional service, permanent tenure, and a system of country schools as capably managed as city schools are today under the system of electing superintendents because of their fitness as educators and not their cleverness as party politicians. The results are important to be ignored and the most searching attention will be given the matter by the convention.

WIDE-AWAKE JAPAN

BY REM A. JOHNSTON.

The first thing to believe about Japan is that she is wide-awake.

But then, Japan has always been wide-awake—read her records. If you cannot take the statement on faith, And then write to your western friends and ask them to tell you something about that wide-awakeness.

Observation will show any one who uses the brain-end of his anatomy to think and look with that Japan is now "modern to the last minute, and full of enterprise."

War gave the world an opportunity while she was giving it a black eye. We, the people in the front boat, slept on our oars. Not so with the Nippon folk. Japan, the fourth race people, began to use the picked Aryan noodle.

Long before the hook-nosed U-planes, the sea-ranched holes in the shipping of the world Japan used almost human intelligence and instituted ship-building in such comprehensive measures that all the nations now are aware that the Nippon vision foresaw what an enormous demand for merchant vessels would arise.

The Kawasaki Ship Building company entered upon a campaign of ship construction, thus placing the Nipponese far in the world's lead, so far as mercantile marine could go.

Did this big fox company turn out to be a dud? Did they put to sea in sleeker No. one on the shade of Paul Jones? No wooden row boats for the keen little slant-eyed gents from Nippon. They made standard steamers of a tonnage varying from 3,000 to 10,000. And today those little steamers are quoted in London at $100 per ton, and are finding ready purchasers.

Every device calculated to increase speed and to promote security has been employed in these vessels. Rights were purchased enabling the company to install turbo-electric machinery, and new electric super-heaters for coal economy. Everything calculated to make merchant-marine a pleasure and profitable enterprise seems to have been manifested by these little people and applied to the construction of their boats. The result is that Japan has forged to the front with a proposition that the world needs very badly—forged to the front at the psychological moment, naturally.

Since the beginning of the war the Japanese have added 500,000 tons to their merchant marine. They have been able, in addition to this, to spare a large number of ships to the dwindling marine of the British and French. On the whole they have manifested a lively little interest in the falling shipping facilities of their allies; but they have done nothing that would show their great pleasure in being able to help—they have done nothing to jeopardize their own interests, you may be sure, no matter how commendable or otherwise their intentions.

Japanese eagerness to get forward in this matter offers a sharp contrast to America's complacent attitude and culpable neglect. The achievements of the Japs offer a large object lesson—one that is far more important than the matter of far front cost can readily realize. Perhaps the time will come when our ship builders will shed tears of blood over their strange lethargy.

It would always be possible to doubt Japan's good faith—she is a fourth race nation, and would probably, in an emergency, hold no higher ideals than fourth race ideals. Nevertheless, that is another story—in fact, two stories!

FREE SPEECH AT YALE.

(New Haven, Conn., Register.)

There has been much comment on the attitude of Yale in allowing the preaching of many sorts of doctrine concerning the war, and none more than that which greeted the action of the university in allowing the foremost pacifist of the country to deliver an address here but a few days before war was declared. The university officials were reticent at the time, but this morning President Hadley told the "Yale family" gathered together at the alumni meeting, the real policy decided upon and carried to a successful conclusion.

"The past year has furnished unusual opportunities for the active and open-minded discussion of public affairs. Never within my remembrance have the students been so interested in questions of national and international politics. Such interest can be manifested in two ways; either in the form of organized emotion, or in the form of examination and judgment of evidence. The tendency of our country often has been to prefer the former to the latter, to let passion take the place of reasoning, or recrimination take the place of argument. We have had to combat this tendency. During the two months that elapsed between the breaking off of diplomatic relations and the actual declaration of war Yale stood for free speech. She has not been blamed for it within the college walls as well as without. She was gravely criticized for allowing Dr. Jordan to make a place speech a few days before war was actually declared. But we held that it was irrational to prepare for a war in behalf of freedom by suppressing freedom of speech; that man's convictions would in the end be firmer as well as wiser if they had heard the arguments on both sides squarely presented. I was proud of our students the night Dr. Jordan spoke. They gave him a fair chance to say what he wanted to; and the very fact that he was interrupted made the weakness of his case more apparent."

parent than any thing else could have done. When we actually came the peace men in the college, having had their say at a proper time, did not continue to say the same things at an improper time, as has been done in so many other places. Not having sat on the safety valve, we had no untimely explosions.

MUSHY SENTIMENTALISM.

(New York World.)

Through a convict on Blackwell's island in correspondence with an innocent little country girl away off in West Virginia and unknown to him, it has been found that there exists a society with headquarters at Washington whose purpose it is to supply inmates of penitentiaries with the names of women and girls in the idea of promoting a correspondence between them.

We do not suppose there is anything in this intentionally wrong or criminal. Doubtless quite the contrary. The manner of the society is known and his name given. He is a "Dr." and may be a doctor of medicine or a doctor of divinity in excellent professional standing. His work is probably identified in all sincerity with the great new uplift work which is pervading the prison management of the country, as well as most other activities of a society craving to do good and not always knowing how to go about it.

We had the other day a sample of precisely this kind of prison uplift work and its consequences through the insurrection in the Joliet penitentiary of Illinois, where the inmates had been so long pampered with the luxuries of a free living, including correspondence with female strangers, that they came to feel a proprietary interest in the institution and tried to make it good.

Apply our own department of correction does not intend to let such matters proceed quite so far. Commissioner Lewis tells this doctor of medicine or of divinity that this work is "nonsense." Less than that certainly cannot be said of it. There are too many elements of other possible farm tragedies or tragedies of girlish innocence in such correspondence. Our penology may need some softening, but the last thing to be admitted is a mushy sentimentalism like this.

IT HAS NO PRECEDENT HERE.

(Philadelphia Record.)

With the 650,000 men to be drafted into the conscript army in a short time the government expects to have no less than 1,580,000 soldiers and sailors under arms by Sept. 1. When it is remembered that this is an eminently peace-loving and unarmist nation, and that war with Germany was only declared a few months ago, it must be conceded that the feat has been accomplished in a very brief period. More might have been done if congress had shown a more helpful disposition, but even with that drawback the progress made is remarkable. There is nothing in the history of the Union that states that in any way compares with it.

THE TEXAS WAY.

As a matter of fact, eating watermelon so as to enjoy it most is not a very graceful proceeding, and personally we would rather take a fifty-pounder out in the back yard and go to it than have swell company present and make a spectacle of oneself gouging into an emaciated slice with a fork.

Louis A. Centville will go to Pittsburg next week and see his horses start in several races. He is now in T. E. Ellison, the attorney, has gone to Omaha, Neb., where he will visit his sister, Mrs. Dr. B. F. Casebeer, formerly of this city.

Miss Rose Irwin, 65 years old, died suddenly last evening of apoplexy at the home of her brother, Dr. J. S. Irwin, on West Main street.

Nick Loring, of New Haven, who received injuries on the Nickel Plate, had one of his fingers amputated at St. Joseph hospital yesterday.

Atlantic King, Centville's five-year-old pacer, starts in the 355 pace at Saginaw, Mich., this afternoon. Mary Centville starts in a race tomorrow.

Dr. George McGoogan has been appointed postmaster at Arcola in place of William Rockhill, who resigned to engage in the shoe business in this city.

Paul Mossman, of this city, is now completing his European trip through Norway, Denmark, Sweden and Russia. He will be home about the middle of September.

Fort Wayne theater-goers were greatly shocked by the news of the death of Kate Castleton. The pretty little actress had delighted several audiences at the Temple and was a great favorite in this city.

At the third annual meeting of the Tri-State Building and Loan association last evening in the offices of the company in the Pixley-Long building all the old officers were re-elected as follows: George W. THE LOUISVILLE CAMP SITE.

It is coming out that the selection of Louisville as the site for the Indiana-Ohio-Kentucky army cantonment was not made on the judgment either of the local board or the military men. Secretary of War Baker appears to have applied arbitrary principle to a solution of the rivalry for the army post and to have given it to Louisville for narrow reasons that, if not of his own, were such as he was willing to embrace.

It is not made to appear in the evidence so far produced that Fort Wayne at any time stood in a favorable position in respect of the choice of locations, so that no opinions that may be held hereabouts can be brought under ascription of jealousy or disappointment. The evidence is that our lively neighbor Huntington, a few miles down the Wabash line, had first call on numerous accounts that bore directly and solely upon the advantages desired in a camp site. Winter climate and geographical situation in respect of the district from which troops are to come were the occasions against Huntington.

It further appears that Evansville, Terre Haute and New Albany, in this state, and Lexington, in Kentucky, all had claims superior to Louisville's claims. When it came to a show-down Congressman Swager Sherley, of the Louisville district, who was in position by reason of his committee chairmanship in the house to exert pressure, went over to the war department and steam-rollered Secretary Baker. The selection of Louisville, with meager and poor recommendations, followed in due order. And that seems to be all there was to the matter. Secretary Baker makes defense of his arbitrary disposition of the matter by alleging the danger of an embarrassing situation contingent upon the failure of Louisville to grab the camp-site. That would have been regrettable, to be sure, but it may also fall out to be equally regrettable to have chosen as the camping place and training ground of some forty or fifty thousand army recruits a place in no respect suitable or fitted to the purpose.

It may be thought not unreasonable if the plant of public opinion is in the direction of some such principle as the welfare of the army first and perhaps also second. It always has been found impossible to keep politics out of our military affairs in time of war. Political strategy cost a heap of treasure, a deal of blood and some unnecessary months of fighting because of its paramountcy to military strategy in the earlier months of the civil war. There was more than a modicum of it in the Spanish war. No one has been altruistic enough to suppose that in even so prodigious a crisis as this there could be entire escape of interventions of the sort, but there has been at least some hope. The selection of Louisville is no fatal or even critical matter, perhaps; but it indicates a start that might have been better.

If one eligible place is better than another for the thousands of men who must submit themselves to the government for service and undergo months of training for war, that is the place to put them. Their claims to the best that the war department can do for them can hardly be thought subordinate to the political interests of any congressman. Secretary Baker ought to reconsider what he has done and do it over again and do it better.

SERVICE AND OPPORTUNITY.

"Every soldier of France," said the great Napoleon, "carries a marshal's baton in his knapsack." Not literally true, was this, but it illustrated a truth. Ability and opportunity made the great marshals of the Napoleonic campaigns. Most of them came from humble origin up through the ranks to high command.

America's own military history affords an amplitude of proof that not all the great captains must be made at West Point. In a few recent instances we find that General Miles, General Wood, our own General Lawton and the late General Funston were not West Pointers. The examples could be multiplied numerously. That is nothing in derogation of West Point. Grant, Sherman, Sheridan, Lee and Pershing came through that way. The point is that war opens the path to high career for those who have in them the making of commanders.

If the war in which we are now engaged shall last the two or three years that it gives promise of lasting, our part in it is going to become almost transcendent. Of us millions of troops will be required. Upon us, when we shall have become prepared to assume it, will fall a heavy burden of the fighting. Officers must be made and when they are made those of them who are best proved will go up. Many a man who has stepped from obscurity into the reserve training camps during the past few weeks will be heard from in very conspicuous ways. The man whose genius is to win the war and write his name in flaming letters on fame's effulgent scroll may today be taking his primary lessons in warfare from some subaltern at Fort Benjamin Harrison. You never can tell.

The government is making a strenuous call for officers. It wants sound and suitable men from the age of 18 to 44 years to enlist in the officers' reserve. In particular there are wanted men in their early maturity who have had training in executive tasks. Men who have had experience and attained success in the handling of men are above all others just now ardently desired in the training camps. Those who can pass the physical examination and under training show aptitude for military discipline and technique and combine with these qualities of the soldier that indefinable something that always distinguishes the leader, the commander, from the body of men, will win commissions. The better the showing made in the training camps the higher the commission will be. From these training camps will go officers commissioned all the way from second lieutenants at $1,700 a year to majors at $3,000 a year.

Those intensively trained officers will see service with the first army, to be drawn next week. Service will open the way to advancement for those who display soldierly qualities and military talents at the front. Good majors make good colonels and many of them that will be in command of regiments before the war has gone far. The drafting of the second army some months hence will make call on the officers of the first army to places of higher command.

Service and opportunity beckon capable men to the reserve officers' training camps. You can enlist right here in Fort Wayne. It is a great chance for the kind of men the government is seeking.

SUGGESTS A BIG FIELD.

Appropriation by the grand lodge of the Benevolent and Protective Order of Elks of $1,000,000 for war relief work not merely vindicates the patriotic and benevolent tenets upon which that great fraternity is founded, but it opens a broad vista of possibility for all other fraternities. Some of them—perhaps not more than a few of them—are prepared to finance their benevolence on a million-dollar scale, but if each of them makes such proportionate use of its means to carry on the work of relief during the war a vast good will be spread over the whole land.

While the fraternity of Elks has always made its practice of benevolence and charity, both within and without the order, a most essential part of its fraternal work, it never has attempted anything on a scale so large or with promise of so much usefulness as this purpose to put a million dollars of its funds into war relief. That means the distribution of a great sum of money by hands much skilled in the work of mercy. It is sure, every dollar of it, to reach the places where it is most needed and will do the most good.

Other fraternities, emulating this example, as many of them no doubt will, can ward off and relieve an untold degree of distress that the war is bound to inflict save for the work of agencies of this character.

The question of fixing a salary for the office of park superintendent and city forester can be the most reasonably determined by defining with some clearness just what quality and degree of service is to be required of that official and vouchsafed to the people. We believe the taxpayers of Fort Wayne want the city parks cared for by some one who knows how and the forestry work of the city superintended by a forester. City Forester Carl J. Getz, who is also park superintendent, is a competent and intelligent man in each branch of his dual office. There are cities much smaller than Fort Wayne where any question of such services being worth $2,000 a year would be thought ridiculous and absurd.

The senate opines that it can talk its congested system free of its glomerate opinions on food control and booze elimination in about ten days. Anyway, the senate is going to vote a week from Saturday.

Talking about slackers, there's the congress of the United States that can offer a few and perhaps more.

And settled on her—"I'll leave it to you—"
(Peek—a—boo!)

On that portion now known as the—ahem!—leg;
(Leg—lmb—leg!)
Now, let us arise, you, and tap us a keg—
(You—can—beg!)

Then the big mowkester arose from his haul;

Sketches from Life :: By Temple

"Hey! Look't Somethin' Comin' Up!"

SIR JOHN BARLEYCORN

(Christian Science Monitor.)

Sir John Barleycorn has for long been known as a dissolute and disreputable character. Now there is no necessity for this, since he comes of an ancient and respected family, with honorable mention in the Bible. From the time, however, that he began to associate with distillers and publicans, tapsters and moonlighters, his morals have been no better than those which his namesake, "the fat knight" flouted, shamelessly, in the kitchen of the Boar's Head, in Eastchepe. And so, though today, after the manner of a certain loose-livered monarch, he is an intolerable time a-dying, unlike that monarch, he has not the grace to apologize. On the contrary, he has himself found apologists innumerable. Presidents and prime ministers have bestowed themselves to obtain for him a new lease of life. Cardinals have raised for him the plea of extenuating circumstances. Whilst he has not the grace to apologize, even the Dutch courage that is in him:

"Inspiring, bold John Barleycorn!
What dangers thou canst mak' us scorn!
We'll tippeny we fear nae evil;
We'll usquabae we'll face the devil!"

Still, in spite of such a galaxy of, possibly a little shamed, defenders, Sir John is in a constant state of moral bankruptcy, and all sorts of charges are perpetually being preferred against him. At one moment it is that he is a keeper of disorderly houses, at another that he is an inciter of crime, and yet again that "he doth much misuse the publick." Today, the principal count is, that he is wasteful and destroying the food of the people, and so far the only defense he has succeeded in putting up, has been, by most unjudicious persons, to be aggravated rather than a mitigation of his offense. The last effort, for instance, of his attorneys in London, as represented by the chancellor of the exchequer, has been to seek and obtain permission for him to manufacture and sell an additional $20,000 of a quarter of an ounce of liquid poison, and this at a time when it is insisted, by that one of the chancellor's colleagues responsible for the safeguarding of the nation's food supplies, that the submarine sinkings constitute "a grim menace," and when the poor of London and other cities are standing for hours in patient queues, before the grocers' shops, in order to obtain a few ounces of sugar or possibly none at all. Let not, however, the hearts of Sir John's patrons faint within them. The domestic sugar bowl may remain as bare as Mother Hubbard's cupboard, the very impetus of the sugar may be forbidden to remove his own hoghead from the bonded warehouses, but a special exception has been made in favor of that friend of the poor man—the brewer. Thus dimly one begins to perceive why Mr. Stevenson was so insistent that no woman should marry a teetotaler.

Charmingly as the ministerial stand for the brewery, or surrender to Mr. Bung, will read in history, the argument put forth in support of it, by the home secretary, in the house of commons, will surely remain one of the principal records of British patriotism during the war. There was, Sir George Cave explained, "a serious deficiency of beer in many parts of the country." Think of the tragedy of it. Along the shell-torn battle front in France and Flanders men are perishing, that is to say, they are dying, and it is not beer that is the cause of it.

Now all this is good no doubt, "very excellent good," but let it be subjected to the calm analysis of reason. There are other poisons than alcohol necessary to the manufacturing plants of the country, but because of this, is the sale of them encouraged, and they are adulterated? In the sale of the poison of whom Lord Byron declared that he, here at home is the noble army of drinkers, disgracefully subjected to a serious deficiency of beer. Certainly the sympathy of the farmers of America should be enlisted to lessen the tragedy. Not that the munition worker is to be suspected of "taking it lying down." Quite the contrary, he has, Sir George assures us, asserted himself like a man. This beer shortage, he tells us, has "caused us to, and even strikes, thus lowering the output of munitions, and interfering with the conduct of the war." There is spirit for you. No beer, no shells! There is patriotism, no beer, no guns! Why does not the army go on strike, and substitute that wonderful Latin drinking song of Walter de Map for "Tippeny," or at any rate that exquisite ditty of the bar parlors, "Beer, beer, glorious beer!"

It is for this reason amongst others that the decision of the senate of the United States to deprive John Barleycorn, after his sentence by the house, is so particularly to be regretted, and is in its power to light a beacon in the darkness of compromise on matters of opinion is at once statesmanlike and desirable, but compromise on a question of principle can lead to nothing but difficulty. The present moment is a moment of testing for the peoples of the world. The United States had it in its power to light a beacon in Washington for the deliverance of the people from the sin of Noah, the story of which the early Venetians carved, on one of the great angles of the palace of the Doges, as a warning to the men of all nations, who landed on their wharves. Even now it is not too late. Let the people of the United States take as an example not those British munition workers threatening to go out on strike in support of John Barleycorn, but the old Roman republic in which "none were for a party, but all were for the state," and let them assure the president that the vote of the house of representatives reflected the conscience of the people, and not the intolerance of a majority, and that if he will only lead, they will not fail to follow.

The president is justly entitled to this assurance, for the president represents not a party but all parties. To convince him that the country's very safety is dependent on the manufacture of alcohol much literature is being printed and distributed, and not a little of it comes the way of this paper. The arguments are all of a similar nature, but here is one of them taken haphazard from the mass. "Alcohol is absolutely indispensable to the manufacture of the only kind of powder that can be used by the United States army and navy," argal, in the words of the clown of Elsinore, "Could an enemy of our country, therefore, accomplish more for his cause than by bringing about the enactment of 'dry laws'? Are sinister influences now at work in that direction?" We, too, wonder! The gentleman who thought out this wonderful argument is so carried away by it, that he has even levied contribution upon the Bible, and is guilty of following in the footsteps of the poet of whom Lord Byron declared that he,

"Undisturbed by conscientious qualms, Perverts the prophets and purloins the psalms."

Now all this is good no doubt, "very excellent good," but let it be subjected to the calm analysis of reason. There are other poisons than alcohol necessary to the manufacturing plants of the country, but because of this, is the sale of them encouraged, and they are adulterated? In the sale of the poison of whom Lord Byron declared that he, balanced or criminal people is safeguarded, should not the sale of the worst of all poisons eagerly pursued by millions of selfish people and people of unrestrained appetites be safeguarded? As to the national safety argument that is merely silly. A government which had to maintain plants sufficient for a war output of powder, would naturally include the ingredients of powder in its organization. And then about those sinister influences. They, when you come to think of it, are supposed to have had some connection with beer, in the past. And yet whilst the incorrigible whisky bottle is impounded, the ingenious beer barrel is passed by. Again, we wonder!

The question is one for the people. Will not Demos rise to the occasion, and put away Sir John, and Hop, and Bar, as firmly as Henry of Monmouth put aside his Sir John, and Poin, and "Presume not that I am the thing I was;

For God doth know, so shall the world perceive.
That I have turn'd away my former self;
So will I those that kept me company."

NO REASON TO BE.

Uncle Harry Explains Why Uncle Sam Is America's Biggest Business Man

"Business isn't being transacted the way it used to be, is it?" asked Joe.

"I'm not sure that I understand just what you mean," answered Uncle Harry. "Make your question a little clearer."

"I mean the government at Washington seems to be having more and more to do with business matters, although from what we were studying about the constitution, just before school closed, I can't see that the government has much to do with the business of the country. The constitution says that the government shall make the laws and enforce them, and have charge of the army and things like that."

"Now you're getting warm," said Uncle Harry, smiling.

Joe looked surprised and Helen and Jimmy laughed.

"What do you mean?" asked Joe.

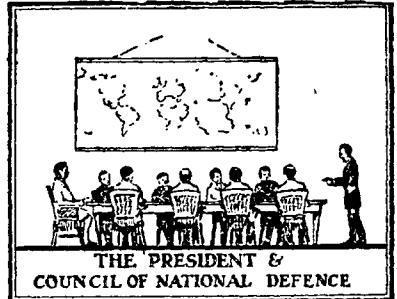

"Just this," added Uncle Harry. "When you begin talking about the government having charge of the army and the navy, you begin to get close to the answer to the question you asked a few moments ago about the government taking a hand in the business affairs of the country."

"I read the other day," said Helen, "that in all the European countries that are taking part in the war the governments have taken charge of most all the big businesses and are running them just the same as they run the navy and manage the army. Is that what you mean, Uncle Harry?"

"Now we're getting to the question, and it is one of the biggest and most important questions facing the United States today," said Uncle Harry. "As I have told you at other meetings, fellows, members, fighting a war in these days is not just a question of training soldiers and arming them with guns and ammunition; that isn't more than half the job—sometimes I think it isn't even half the job. And that is particularly true with the United States in this war."

"Tell us all about it," said Jimmy.

"All right," said Uncle Harry, "but first you'll have to answer a few questions for me. When you've answered mines and factories to the seaport towns, and who would load these things on the steamships and how would they get to Europe?"

"I know what you mean, Uncle Harry, but you go on and explain it, you understand it better than we do," said Helen.

"Well, folks, it's a big, long story—all that's been done already in this country, and will be done, to back up the American soldiers in France, and the troops, and warships and sailors and the peoples of the allies," said Uncle Harry.

"But in brief, it comes to this: The many businesses of this country that are necessary to the success of the war are owned by small groups of people in the different states, and the work on the farms and in the mills and factories and on the railroads is done by the millions of men and women. Altogether, these businesses and these people make up the United States of America. Railroad companies or munition manufacturing companies or the men who work on the cattle ranches or in the great stockyards in Chicago can't fight the war—that is, they can't fight it as individuals or groups of individuals. And the ONE representative of all the people is the United States government, with President Wilson and the congress at the head."

"That's why President Wilson acted at the very beginning of the trouble with Germany and appointed the National Council of Defense."

"What is that?" asked Joe.

"A council of the foremost business men of the country, selected by the president to make whatever arrangements are necessary with the various and numerous businesses of the nation, so that the government, acting for the millions of people who constitute the country, will be able to get all the supplies needed, and do everything else that is considered necessary to the success of the American troops, and the armies of the allies, and at the same time look after the general welfare and safety of the people of this country and the people of the allied countries."

"The government of the United States has become the biggest business concern in the country. President Wilson is the head and his advisers and immediate helpers are the members of his cabinet and the National Council of Defense. Congress has been in session since the day war was declared, considering and making new laws giving the president and other officials the power to regulate any business that is necessary to success in the war, fix prices if necessary and insure big enough productions of the various articles to meet the needs of the soldiers and the people."

"Do you mean that all businesses will be forced to give first consideration to the success of the allies?" asked Jimmy.

"That's it exactly," said Uncle Harry. "And the government is planning to take whatever action is necessary to see that nothing interferes with that program. Uncle Sam is now the biggest business man in America."

Editor's Note—Uncle Harry will be glad to answer inquiries either in this column or by mail, provided letters are signed with the full name and address of the persons writing. The correspondents' names will not appear in the articles. Copyright 1917 by The M. C. Syndicate.

Buy Linens Now

We cannot urge our customers too strongly to take advantage of our splendid stock of linens at present prices. We do not expect to be able to offer such linen values for many years to come. A trade paper says:

LINEN SCARCITY GROWS.

Linens, owing to the flax shortage in Great Britain, are growing scarcer. Russia is the only outside source that can be relied on, but Russian flax is to be had only after it has been transported 1,000 miles or more to the port of Archangel by railroad and then 3,000 miles by sea over an area infested by submarines. Cotton substitutes for linen are being offered the public, some of real merit and others not so meritorious.

CATHOLICS PLAN FOR BIG CELEBRATION

Committees Are Named for Labor Day Observance at Garrett.

(Special to The Sentinel.)

Garrett, Ind., July 13.—The Catholic congregation of this city is planning to hold a big Labor day celebration in the city park. Committees have been appointed and they state that this will be the biggest Labor day celebration ever held in this county. The park will be transformed into a place of amusement and entertainment and many attractions will be booked for that date. John Mager is president of the organization, Miss Gertrude Manion secretary and Father Alliger treasurer.

Garrett Short Notes.
Miss Mary Allen, junior supervisor of the Community Chautauqua which is being held here this week, will be the guest of the Hlawatha and I-Yo-Ki-Hi Campfire Girls tonight at a pot-luck supper. They were to have held it on the high school grounds, but owing to the weather they will meet at the library. Miss Allen has made many friends in the few days she has spent in this city.

Miss Zella Shannon, who submitted to an operation for the removal of two goitres Tuesday morning, is a little better this morning. The operation was very critical and she has been in a serious condition.

The people of this city are putting in every spare moment in caring for the 1,000 gardens which are under cultivation within the city limits. No slackers in Garrett these days.

Mrs. F. A. King and children have returned from a ten days' visit with relatives in Wisconsin.

Mrs. John W. Thomson, who has been going to Fort Wayne twice a week and taking the nurses' training in the home care of the sick, has been appointed by Chairman Judge Link as superintendent of the hospital supplies work department of DeKalb

WILL BE RETURNED TO EASTHAVEN HOSPITAL

Burr Imhoff is Again Taken in Custody—News from Auburn.

(Special to The Sentinel.)

Auburn, Ind., July 13.—Burr Imhoff, a well known young farmer residing near Hamilton, has been brought to the county jail by Sheriff Frank Baltz, and is being held awaiting his admission to the East-haven hospital for the insane. Mr. Imhoff was taken to that institution last spring but after his condition improved he was allowed to return to his home in this county. He has a great desire to wander away when these melancholy spells come on him, following worry. At such times he will wander many miles from his home and cause his family a great deal of trouble. In the last two weeks he has become more violent and unmanageable and consequently will be returned to the hospital.

Auburn Brief Items.
Miss Lucile Buchtel gave a delightful afternoon party yesterday in honor of the Misses Katherine Robbins and Lorna McLean, of Los Angeles, Cal., who are guests of Miss Ruth Eckhart. The spacious Buchtel home on West Seventh street was very artistically decorated in the national colors and beautiful flowers in these colors were banked in every available place. Many parties are being given this week in honor of these two young ladies.

Miss Gladys Grimm will leave this week for Indianapolis, where she has been a nurse in the Methodist hospital, and with the hospital unit they will leave for Allentown, Pa., where they will go into training for duty in France.

The Auburn chautauqua movement is progressing nicely and the tickets are being disposed of very satisfactorily to the local committee. The program this year is made up of practically all headliners, and the people of this city are anxiously awaiting this big treat.

Mrs. C. A. Rose, of Denver, Col., is visiting her mother, Mrs. S. J. Zimmerman, at the home of John Weaver.
Mr. and Mrs. E. W. Atkinson will leave tomorrow for Richland, Iowa, where they will be guests of the former's sister. They will make the trip in their automobile and expect to be gone two weeks.
Mrs. Minerva Evison returned to her home in Butler today after a ten days' visit with Mr. and Mrs. S. G. Stone.

Five years ago the pupils in the Kwangju Girls' Industrial school, Korea, never had seen a crochet needle, yet they have acquired such proficiency in crocheting that they have earned about $400 for the self-help department of the school.

Mrs. Mary C. Keel is going to Indianapolis on Friday to join her daughter, Mrs. Dan Bash, on a trip to Allentown, Pa., where they will visit Sol Bash, who is in training there for an ambulance corps to go to France.

Mrs. Keel and Mrs. Bash will then go on to New York city to visit other relatives.

The auction bridge tournament at the Country club came to a close Wednesday afternoon. Winners of prizes in the four weeks' series of games were Mrs. L. P. Drayer, Mrs. A. E. Bowser and Miss Lucile Vail. Prizes were also given for a contest independent of the tournament at yesterday's game and Mrs. Joe Freiburger won the prize.

There were a number of ladies present who knitted or sewed instead of playing and a number of small affairs in the way of luncheon parties.

Mrs. Geo. Dick and Mrs. A. W. Muir gave a farewell party on Saturday evening in honor of their sister, Miss Hattie Kness, from Chicago, who is about to depart for a trip through the west. Miss Kness will be accompanied by her father, Theo. Kness. At supper covers were laid for twelve, and the dining room and tables were beautifully decorated with roses.

The evening was passed in playing buncos and in dancing. Prizes were won by Miss Marie Hallers and Joe Keller, and also by Miss Irene Miller and William Meyer. The other guests were Miss Catherine Keller, Miss Lucile Hueber, Miss Frieda Stalf, Leonard Stalf, Ben and Clarence Hueber and McDewitt.

Cartwright Family Reunion.

The fourth annual reunion of the Cartwright family will be held in Swinney park next Sunday. All members of the Cartwright family are requested to be present.

Some Simple Rules in Removing Stains

Much expense can be saved in any family by proper care, cleaning and renovation of clothing at home. Though the laundryman, dry cleaner and dyer is provided with equipment which makes the work easier for him, it is quite possible, with care, for the home worker to accomplish the same results.

Before washing cottons and linens, see that stains are treated first, as hot water sets many of them.

In coffee and fruit stains, stretch the fabric over a bowl and pour boiling water from a height through the stain. Pouring from a height causes pressure, which is an aid. This is effective for any fresh fruit stain except peach.

For tea and chocolate stains, soak in glycerine, then wash, first in tepid then in boiling water.

For grass stains, rub in strong ammonia water or in kerosene. Follow with warm water and soap.

For paint or varnish stains, rub with turpentine, then wash in soap and water.

To remove tar, soften with lard and scrape off, then wash to remove the grease.

For iron rust, use a salt and lemon juice paste, and let stand. Another method is to stretch the fabric over a bowl of hot water. Drop a 10 per cent solution of muriatic acid on the spot. When it gets lighter dip the spot in the hot water or the acid may eat a hole. Repeat, if necessary.

For ink stains, use the same methods as for iron rust or soak in sweet milk, let stand until it soaks. Repeat.

If necessary. This also is effective for iodine stains.

For blood stains or egg, wash in warm water with a little ammonia added.

For vaseline stains, soak in kerosene; then wash.

For mildew, use the same method as for ink. In very persistent stains use ink eradicant. This is also effective for peach stain. Ink eradicant is made up of equal parts of Javelle water, made according to the directions on a chloride of lime can and oxalic acid. Use it diluted and in several applications, rather than one long one. Rinse thoroughly, or the acid will eat a hole.

APPETIZING CHEESE FOOD TAKES THE PLACE OF MEAT

Take neat strips of cheese half an inch thick, roll each one carefully in a thin slice of dried beef (without freshening), lay on well-buttered slices of whole wheat toast. Heat the toast over five to eight minutes until bread browns and cheese melts. Garnish with parsley and sweet pickles and serve hot with hot chocolate for Sunday night supper.

In planning menus, remember that a cheese dish takes the place of meat, fish or eggs, and not of starchy foods.

Milk and Cheese Soup—Three cups milk, or part milk and stock, one cup grated cheese, salt and paprika to taste, one and one-half tablespoons flour. Thicken milk with the flour, cooking thoroughly. This is best done in a double boiler, with frequent stirrings. When ready to serve add the cheese and seasonings.

Cheese Gingerbread—One cup molasses, one cup grated cheese, two cups flour, one teaspoon soda, one-half teaspoon salt, two teaspoons ginger, one-half cup water. Heat molasses and cheese in double boiler until the cheese is melted. Add soda and stir vigorously. Mix and sift dry ingredients and add them to the molasses and cheese alternately with the water. Bake fifteen minutes in small buttered tins.

ICE BOX REQUIRES CLEANING ONCE EVERY WEEK AT LEAST

An ice box should be emptied and thoroughly cleaned at least once a week. To be sure, it is too much for a woman to lift out a piece of ice which weighs a hundred or more pounds, but this is never necessary.

Plan to clean your ice box on the morning you are going to have it refilled and when your ice supply has run low. Remove the ice and remove every crack and pan and dish and bottles and eatable. Then with warm water and washing soda go after the inside of the ice box with a vengeance.

Some women have found it an excellent idea to put charcoal in the corners of the box. The charcoal absorbs the odors and keeps the box smelling sweet and pure. The charcoal must of course be changed every seven or eight days.

There are several ways of keeping your ice from melting fast, and these will help to cut down your ice bill in the course of a year. First cover your ice with five or six thicknesses of newspaper. Second, never put hot or warm dishes into the box. And third, never keep your box open for more than the briefest possible moment, and always see that you leave the doors shut fast and tight.

Never put the butter and milk near or in the same compartment with strong smelling vegetables or sauces. If possible keep the butter and milk away from everything else.

GRABILL NEWS.

Grabill, Ind., July 12.—Mr. and Mrs. Ira Fuhrman are entertaining their little niece from Monroe, Ind.

The Misses Hester and Bessie Martz, daughters of Mr. and Mrs. E. Coy Martz, are spending a two weeks' vacation with their grandparents at Decatur, Ind.

Mr. and Mrs. John Yaggy, of Woodburn, Ind., visited with Mr. and Mrs. Eli Conrad and family the fore part of his week.

Joseph Grabill and children spent Tuesday at Fort Wayne.

E. S. Gerig and family motored to St. Joe, Sunday, where they called on Mr. and Mrs. Jay Snyder and family, formerly of this place.

During the electrical storm recently, lightning struck the residence of Peter Antez, on State street, and also the tower of the new Missionary church. Aside from disarranging some of the bricks and plastering, no further damage was done.

Andrew Yaggy and family of Woodburn, visited with Joseph A. Klopfenstein and family Sunday.

A very large and enthusiastic crowd attended the patriotic service and flag raising at this place Saturday afternoon. Battery B of Fort Wayne, participated in the exercises. The flag was saluted with seven shots from a cannon. Howard Klopfenstein received the prize of five dollars for climbing to the top of the new flag pole. The battery officers were successful in securing several enlistments during the afternoon.

The residence being erected by Noah Grabill on State street, is rapidly nearing completion.

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Lantz and family left Tuesday evening for their home in Montana, after six weeks with relatives and friends at this place.

Rev. and Mrs. Aaron Souder entertained David Grosh and family of Brush college, and Daniel Gerig and family at dinner, Sunday.

Miss Elizabeth Yaggy of Woodburn, is visiting with her cousin, Mary Klopfenstein, at this place for a few days.

Mrs. Benjamin Neuschwander called on Mrs. B. S. Gerig Tuesday afternoon.

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Witmer and daughter, Lillian, also Ralph Ashton, visited with relatives at Woodburn Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Coy Martz and Mr. and Mrs. Ira B. Fuhrman spent Sunday with relatives at Monroe, Ind.

Albert P. Smith, who has been very sick, is recovering.

NEW AND PROPER FOOTGEAR.

(By Betty Brown.)

For once the society debutante and the college girl share a common opinion. Both scorn French heels except for dancing, and both just adore the new sports oxford. It is low of heel and broad of toe, modeled after a tennis shoe, and it comes in all kinds of proper shoe materials.

And always above it appears a heavy ribbed and striped silk stocking. Some of these knitted luxuries cost $15 a pair. Thin silk stockings are considered quite out of harmony with this kind of a footgear.

With an attack of pneumonia for two weeks, is improving very nicely. Rev. E. M. Slagle of Pioneer, O., is expected to be at the Mennonite church to hold special services Saturday and Sunday, at which time several new members will be received into the church, including Mr. and Mrs. Snyder and Mr. and Mrs. Ira Fuhrman.

INSPECTION OF DAY NURSERY ON FRIDAY

Work of King's Daughters May Be Examined by the Public.

A public inspection of the day nursery, corner of Fairfield and Berry streets, will be held Friday afternoon, from 3 to 5 o'clock. The doors will be open to all and anyone may visit it.

The nursery, which is operated by Opportunity circle of King's Daughters, was started in June, 1915, and was at that time located in the building of the Fort Wayne Rescue mission. Last fall the Congregational church donated the use of the building at the present site and the College club furnished the interior.

At the present time more than a dozen children are cared for every day. Miss Margaret Vesey is president of Opportunity circle.

The rules of the nursery are as follows: White children, eight years of age and under, may be left at the Day Nursery any day except Sunday, and time after 6:30 a. m., and must be called for before 6:30 p. m. Children are expected to be sent to nursery clean and fully dressed.

Children are under the direct supervision of the matron and are subject to her discipline.

Children are provided with a noon meal.

If babies require special food, the same should be provided by the parent.

Children over six years of age shall attend school during the school term.

Clothes furnished children during the day must not be taken from nursery.

For each child a charge of 15 cents per day, or any part thereof, is made. Special cases will be referred to a committee.

Children suffering from contagious diseases shall be excluded.

Clothes furnished children during the day must not be taken from nursery.

Madrid, the capital of Spain, is to have a subway. The total cost of the work is estimated at about $6,000,000.

Any Girl Can Learn to Swim—All It Takes is a Little Courage—Begin With the Old Reliable Breast Stroke Which is Slow But Sure and Can Be Practiced on the Floor at Home.

(By MISS VALLERY MAHN.)

(Western Aquatic Marvel.)

I am asked by so many girls: "How did you learn to swim? How can I learn? Is it very hard?"

The questions are most numerous at this time of the year. Vacation time and the summer months are here, and the season when one misses so much fun from not knowing how to swim.

I have not time to tell them all what I may know of swimming, as I am going to here. But I do tell them that it is very, very easy.

A little knowledge, courage and an ordinary physique will enable any girl to learn the breast stroke so quickly and easily that she will be ashamed for not having started sooner.

Of the athletic diversions open to girls, swimming probably is the best, particularly out-of-door swimming. It is just the sort of exercise a woman needs, developing elastic, smooth, sinuous muscles.

Good swimmers are notably symmetrical, lithe and flexible. You never see an ungainly swimming champion. Besides being so genuinely enjoyable, swimming is unequalled as a health producer.

Fair Operator Aids Cupid in New Game

MISS ENDS POPPE.

Dan Cupid's agent in San Francisco is Miss End Poppe, telegraph operator in one of the downtown office buildings.

Miss Poppe acts as the God of Love's representative in romantic transactions between girls and men in the office district in which she works.

"This is for Mr. Blank," says a pretty stenographer, handing Miss Poppe a sweetly scented note. "He will call for it."

A little later Mr. Blank steps into the lobby where Miss Poppe is stationed.

"Anything for me today?" he inquires.

She looks over her stock of letters and hands him one. At noon the two "interested parties" meet for lunch and maybe arrange an engagement for the evening.

"It's lots of fun," is Miss Poppe's verdict. "They leave all sorts of things with me—candy, flowers, books, notes. It makes me glad to make other persons happy."

MISS ALMA GARVIN TO DEMONSTRATE CANNING

Purdue Expert Will Give Series of Lectures in City and Vicinity.

Miss Alma Garvin, of Purdue university, will give a series of lectures and demonstrations in Fort Wayne and Allen county in the art of canning and preserving foodstuffs. This is considered of vital importance under present conditions and women of the city will be expected to take advantage of the opportunity of learning the best and most efficient methods of this work.

Miss Garvin will demonstrate the cold pack and other methods of canning beginning July 24. On July 25 she will go to Huntington; July 26, Woodburn; July 27, Grabill, and July 28, Monroeville.

Those in charge of food conservation are urging that everything in the way of surplus food be canned or preserved. They are also urging that only such things that can be saved no other way, be canned, since there is a shortage of containers. Use of every available can, bottle and crock is expected in order to preserve properly everything which can be kept.

MISS DRAIN AT WORK ON AN ART SUBTITLE.

Staff Special.

Los Angeles, Cal., July 12.—Adventure in the field of art gave Miss Lillian Drain the "hunch" that started her on the road to success.

As the creating of artistic subtitles for motion pictures she has an industry all her own—one that is rapidly increasing her bank account.

The explanatory phrasing between scenes in movie plays is known as the subtitle. The art idea evolved by Miss Drain has been used in some of the biggest film productions.

"The idea came to me while I was doing commercial art for newspapers," explained Miss Drain. "When I tried to convince producers of the value I met with discouragement at first. I finally won out after trying experiences with jealous and envious persons."

Much thought is now being put on the subtitles as one of the important features of the movies. The various emotions portrayed by the players in the pictures are subtly conveyed to the audience by the decorations on the subtitles.

CHAMPION MERMAID EXPLAINS WATER STROKES FOR BEGINNERS INCREASE YOUR ENJOYMENT OF LIFE BY LEARNING HOW TO SWIM

Any Girl Can Learn to Swim—All It Takes is a Little Courage—Begin With the Old Reliable Breast Stroke Which is Slow But Sure and Can Be Practiced on the Floor at Home.

Good swimmers are notably symmetrical, lithe and flexible. You never see an ungainly swimming champion. Besides being so genuinely enjoyable, swimming is unequalled as a health producer.

Miss Mahn photographed in the various positions of the breast stroke, the old, reliable swimming form, favorite of beginners.

In this article I will try to demonstrate the old reliable breast stroke. It is modeled for service on the "slow-but-sure" basis, and is not an exhibition or speed stroke. Of these strokes I shall write later.

The accompanying photographs clearly explain themselves. It is a most excellent plan to lie on the floor and practice the stroke until thoroughly familiar with its formula of motion before entering the tank.

Photo number one displays the starting position. As the hands are extended straight out, the legs are brought vigorously together, describing a semi-circular course.

Bring the arms vigorously from the "straight-out" position shown in photo number two, to position in number three.

Take number one and go through again and again this formula until you know it so well that you can do it mechanically.

HOW TO DRY FRUITS OR VEGETABLES AT HOME WITH SIMPLE CONTRIVANCE

How the homemade drier works.

(By BIDDY BYE.)

Patriotic cooks, anxious to help Uncle Sam through a hard year, are "drying" fruits and vegetables instead of canning them.

To encourage their industry, Uncle Sam's kitchen experts have sent out a special bulletin which tells the prudent and provident housewife how she can help herself while also helping him.

Drying offers a means of saving large quantities of surplus products which go to waste each year, says the government pamphlet. Drying also affords a way of conserving portions of food too small for canning.

The drying may be done in the sun, over the kitchen stove, or before an electric fan. Homemade driers are satisfactory.

A good homemade drier should have the following features:

1. It should be light, easy to operate, of simple construction, inexpensive, and, as nearly as possible, non-inflammable.

2. It should permit a free circulation of air, to allow the rapid removal of the air after it has passed over the vegetables and absorbed moisture.

3. It should provide for protection of the food product against dust, insects, etc.

4. It should protect the materials from being moistened by steam, smoke, rain, or dew while drying.

A cheap and satisfactory drier for use over the kitchen stove can be made from small-mesh galvanized wire netting and strips of wood about one-half inch thick and two inches wide.

The screen may be tacked directly on the framework to make the drying shelves, or the framework can be made to support separate trays. By using two laths nailed together the framework can be stiffened and larger trays made if desirable.

This form can be suspended from the ceiling over the stove and will utilize the hot air which rises during the cooking hour. It can be raised out of the way or swung to one side by a crane made of lath when the stove is required for cooking, and lowered or swung back to utilize the heat which otherwise would be wasted when the top of the stove is not in use.

The lath crane is fastened to the wall by a hinge made of a turn of wire with a loop bent around the upright. The looped wire is hung on nails driven into the wall and then bent upward at right angles.

In the use of a free stove the drier would be hung over the stove.

son, Edward, who has enlisted in the cavalry branch of the service, in Detroit, Mich., and who expects to report for duty on July 15.

Mrs. John Ferguson, of West Berry street, with her companion, Mrs. Baum, and a granddaughter, Miss Mabel Vernon, left on Thursday night for Michigan points for a month's absence. Mrs. Ferguson will remain at Fountain Point, but Miss Vernon will visit several places and will meet relatives from Paducah, Ky., during the time.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Drebbels, of Oliver street, entertained a company of friends in honor of their guest, Miss Marie Boelkins, of Lafayette, who is soon to be married to Perry Smith, of Indianapolis. Guests from away also included Mrs. E. Smith, of Lafayette; O. E. Harris, of North Manchester, and Misses Lena Quirk, Georgia Bennett and Messrs. Charles Gibbons and James Jamison, all of Detroit.

Miss Agnes Zehender gave a party at her home in Lake avenue on Tuesday evening. Music and various games were the order of pleasure, and refreshments, served in a dainty manner, served to continue the pleasure of the company, who were Mr. and Mrs. Carl Brunner, Mr. and Mrs. Emmet Winkler, Mr. and Mrs. Lee Brunner, Miss Clara Minich and Messrs. Raymond Freistrotter and Kenneth Thompson.

Mrs. F. Halter, of Wagner street, and Mrs. M. Nahrwald pleasantly surprised Mrs. Halter's mother, Mrs. A. Rippe, in honor of her sixty-sixth birthday anniversary by entertaining a number of her mother's friends on Tuesday. Although Mrs. Rippe is an invalid she enjoyed the anniversary gathering greatly and the time was a pleasant one for all concerned. Toasts were given in affectionate remembrance of the hostess by Mrs. Huck-soil and Mrs. Schoppman and music was rendered by Miss Dorothy Rippe and F. Halter. Roses, carnations and outdoor flowers made a pretty decoration for the rooms. Other friends who were present were Mrs. J. Worden, Mrs. H. Frankstein and daughters, Maxine and Marie, and son, Melvin, from Wabash, and from this city Messames M. Schoppman, M. Nahrwald, A. Hucksoil, W. Schmidt, J. Schultz, C. Codag, H. Pageler, C. Aumann, A. Hudry, E. Reiber, D. Weberus and Mr. and Mrs. H. Rippe and daughter, Dorothy.

Monning—Blons.

The marriage of Mr. Henry Monning, of Fort Wayne, to Miss Gertrude Blons, of Mishawaka, took place in Chicago, on Wednesday. Mr. Monning surprised both his relatives and friends in this city and no one had an inkling of his matrimonial intentions. Mr. Monning is the widely known representative of the Barber Asphalt company in Indiana.

Eating Vegetables Makes for Efficiency

BY DR. EUGENE LYMAN FISK,
(Medical Director Life Extension Institute.)

To counteract the tendency of modern life toward physical inactivity and over-use of concentrated cooked foods is vastly important in eating for efficiency.

Most fruits contain from 75 to 91 per cent. water. The balance is largely woody fiber or cellulose, fruit sugar and minerals. There is no nutriment in cellulose—it affords simply bulk and a mechanical stimulation to the movement of the digestive organs.

Eat fruit every day. Canned fruits are good. Cooked fruit is often better than dubious fresh fruit, but some fresh fruit is essential.

Vegetables are among the most valuable foods we have. As age advances the consumption of flesh foods should be decreased and that of fruits and vegetables, especially those of bulky character and low food value, such as lettuce, tomatoes, carrots, turnips, oyster plant, celery, parsnips, should be increased.

Most Americans eat too much meat and flesh foods, the principal foods furnishing protein (meat is a concentrated form of protein.) According to what are regarded as the best investigations, protein should be generally about 10 per cent. of the total number of calories, or heat units, consumed.

When protein is taken in excess of the body's needs added work is given the liver and kidneys. Furthermore, flesh foods in abundance produce an excess of acids, tend to putrefaction and contain elements which produce uric acid.

Some hard foods are necessary to eating for efficiency. They require chewing, which is good for the teeth and insures the flow of saliva and gastric juice.

Then there are certain small components called vitamins which are diminished in foods in the cooking process. These vitamins are very important to the well being of the body. They are found in the skin of coating of grains, in the yolk of eggs, in raw milk, fresh fruit and vegetables. Other necessary substances, lipoids, are also known to be necessary to growth and health.

Try to have some bulky food, some raw food, some whole cereal, some fruit and some milk in your diet each day and you need not worry about vitamins or lipoids. Let the family be weighed occasionally—twice a month if possible. If they are above average weight for age and height, they need less fuel (sugar, starches, fats); if below, average and losing they need more fuel.

Eat high protein foods (meat, fish, fowl, eggs) only once a day in moderate amount. Have one or two meatless days a week.

"WAKE UP, AMERICA," IS THEIR SLOGAN

Christian Citizenship Institute at Winona July 22-28.

"Wake Up America" is the slogan of the Christian Citizenship Institute which is to be held on the assembly grounds at Winona Lake, Ind., July 23 to 28, under the direction of the National Reform Association of Pittsburgh, Pa., of which James S. Martin is the general superintendent.

The governors of twenty-five states and national patriotic organizations have recently appointed delegates to a conference of speakers at Chautauqua, N. Y., on patriotic subjects. Those who attended the conference and others engaged with them will carry the message of patriotism and loyal service to every state in the union, conducting a campaign for the education of the people concerning the duties of Americans during the war.

The Christian Citizenship Institute will be a factor in this national campaign. It will bring together at Winona picked men and women who are interested in the moral as well as the material welfare of America to confer together and to receive inspiration from speakers of national influence. The main themes to be considered are: "The Perils and Safeguards of America," "Christianity and the World War," "The Road to World Peace," "The New World Order Subsequent to the War," "The Mormon Menace." The Institute is not a delegated body, but is open to all.

Some of the forces, men and movements within our country that are regarded as a menace to our republic will be considered at the institute and means suggested for combating them.

Delegates will also be elected to the Third World's Christian Citizenship Conference, to be held in Pittsburgh, Pa., the first week of July, 1918, under the leadership of the National Reform Association. The last of these conferences was held in Portland, Ore., in 1913, with seventeen countries represented on its program and fifteen thousand people in attendance. It is supposed to double both the representation and attendance at the 1918 conference.

FORT WAYNE MAN IN AUTO ACCIDENT

Car Driven by Herman Jones, of This City, Goes in a Ditch Near Bluffton.

(Special to The Sentinel.)

Bluffton, July 12.—A Saxon touring car driven by Herman Jones, of the Becker Motor Car company, of Fort Wayne, was badly damaged when it went into the ditch near the Al Popeloy farm, east of Bluffton, late Tuesday evening. The driver and two young women who were with him in the car were uninjured. The auto was driven too far to the side of the road in passing another machine and the wheels skidded in the grass sending the car into the ditch. The rear end of the machine struck a telephone pole. An interurban car on the B. & C. Traction company line was used in pulling the car from the ditch.

Ethiopia was described by the Greeks and Romans as the country which lay to the south of Egypt. Shortly before the birth of Jesus a native dynasty of women holding the official title of Candace held sway in Ethiopia and even resisted the advance of Roman arms. One of these is the queen noticed in Acts viii, 27.

Scalp Irritation Stop It Now!

The heat of the sun dries out the natural oils of the scalp. Dandruff increases. Scalp itching becomes not only unpleasant but even dangerous.

Stop this itching now. You can, with very little trouble! Sprinkle, only twice a week, a little Pompeian HAIR Massage on your scalp. Rub it in the Pompeian way (carefully described in booklet enclosed in every package) and soon your scalp itching will stop.

Pompeian HAIR Massage Stops Dandruff—Hair Coming Out

The success of Pompeian HAIR Massage is in the "massage" idea. It is a treatment, not merely a tonic. The massaging (rubbing) of the scalp wakes up the roots of the hair to new life. This massaging also opens the pores of the scalp to the wonderfully stimulating liquids in Pompeian HAIR Massage. Dandruff goes. Your hair will become and stay healthy, vigorous and attractive.

Pompeian HAIR Massage is a clear amber liquid (not a cream). Not oily. Not sticky. Very pleasant to use. 25c, 50c and $1 bottles, at the store. MEN—Have your barber give you a treatment: and prove to yourself how refreshed your scalp feels by one application. Don't hesitate to use Pompeian HAIR Massage. It is made by the old and reliable makers of Pompeian MASSAGE Cream and Pompeian NIGHT Cream.

COUNCIL PROCEEDINGS

The Common Council of the City of Fort Wayne met in the Council Chamber Tuesday evening, July 10, A. D. 1917, in regular session. Present: A. Beyer, in the chair, and Gustav W. Boerger, Clerk, at the desk; present the following members: Agne, Beyer, Deitschel, Hartman, John, Keller, Lepper, Koller, Lepper, Olench, Rogge, Schiebeck, Smith, Welch. Absent, none.

The minutes of the last regular session having been delivered to the Council, were, on motion, approved as published.

MAYOR'S COMMUNICATION.
Fort Wayne, Ind., July 10, 1917. To the Honorable Common Council: Gentlemen: I have approved the following ordinances passed at my regular session of June 29th, 1917:

Appropriation Ordinance No. 606. An ordinance appropriating $2,000 to the sewer repair account.

General Ordinance No. 789. An ordinance amending the street connecting the north and south sides of the city, in Harrison Hill Addition, Radial Lane.

General Ordinance No. 790. An ordinance approving a contract with the General Electric Company.

Yours respectfully,
WAL J. HOSEY, Mayor.

Ordered spread on record.

REPORT OF COMMITTEE ON STREETS.
Members of the Common Council: Gentlemen: Our Committee on Streets and Alleys to which was referred and ordinance ordering sidewalks on both sides of Killea street from Calhoun Street to Hoagland Avenue, recommend that same do not pass.

H. J. KORTE,
P. ORENLOCH.

The report of the committee was not adopted by the Council. Existing therefor that the sidewalks on both sides of Killea street from Calhoun Street to Hoagland Avenue be and the same is hereby ordered improved by the paving of the sidewalks on both sides of the street.

Section 1. Be it ordained by the Common Council of the City of Fort Wayne, Indiana, that the sidewalks on both sides of Killea street from Calhoun Street to Hoagland Avenue be and the same is hereby ordered improved by the paving of the sidewalks on both sides of the street.

Section 2. This ordinance to be in full force and effect from and after its passage and approval by the Council.

FRANK J. SCHIEBECK,
The ordinance was read the first time in full and on motion the ordinance was read the second time by its title and referred to Committee on Streets and Alleys.

PETITION.
To the Board of Public Works of the City of Fort Wayne, Indiana: We, the undersigned, living or owning lots in the neighborhood of South Wayne Avenue, from Organ Avenue to Boerger Street, respectfully petition that you order a pavement put down on said street, from Organ Avenue to Boerger Street.

Our petitioners represent that that section of the city is growing with great rapidity, and that a class of homes are being erected that very materially add to the taxable values of the city; that street car facilities are so badly needed that the Board of Public Works, in order to improve the same, should be authorized and directed to cause said improvement to be made in accordance with the resolutions so adopted by it, as set forth in the preamble hereto, and in accordance with the provision an act entitled "An Act Concerning Municipal Corporations," passed by the general assembly of the State of Indiana at the 64th regular session.

Whereas, On May 17, 1917, a majority of the resident freeholders upon that part of Killea street described, filed with said Board of Public Works a remonstrance, signed by them, against the making of said improvement; now therefore:

Section 1. Be it ordained by the Common Council of the City of Fort Wayne, Indiana, that the sidewalks on both sides of Killea street from Calhoun Street to Hoagland Avenue be and the same is hereby ordered improved by the paving of the sidewalks on both sides of the street.

Publicity—E. W. Peirce.

The features of the program for the day's outing are thus mentioned in detail by the circular:
Every committee will have something doing. But you want to look out particularly for the stunts that will be pulled off by the ball game, the outdoor sports and the entertainment committees. Those are the boys who will keep you busy and "bustle us" that there will be something doing all the time for everybody.

"Spizzierintum" Mogge has especially requested that he be permitted to umpire the ball game. He probably thinks that because we fellows ate out of his hand during the campaign that we will do the same thing at the picnic. We sympathize so sincerely with him in his innocence that we have arranged that he should be encased in a suit of Bowser oil tank armor and carry a Lincoln Life policy in his right hand.

The same spirit of friendly rivalry that existed throughout the campaign will also exist at this picnic. For instance, the ball teams will be made up strictly of division members and there will be many contests between divisions A and B, both as team aggregations and as individuals.

There will be special marks of distinction for the teams having 100 per cent attendance. In fact there will be nothing left undone to make this the greatest get-together, good-time picnic that you have ever heard of.
From time to time necessary details will be given. But the important thing now is that you make up your mind that you will be there and that nothing in the world can prevent your attendance. This will be one of the events that will go down in the lives of those who attend as a pleasant memory that will always remain fresh.

HAD TO GET MORE.

Bowser Company Exhausts Its Supply of Chautauqua Tickets.

S. F. Bowser & Company, who bought 400 tickets to the Chautauqua lectures, has disposed of them to the employees and has ordered 100 more. The company sells the tickets to its employees at less than half price. The General Electric works is doing the same thing and has ordered 500 tickets with prospects of needing a good many more. The Wayne Knitting Mills is also offering them to employees at a reduced price and is selling a great many tickets. Other industries and shops in the city have notices on the bulletin boards calling attention to the attractions of Chautauqua week and telling the men where they can secure tickets in advance. These notices were issued by Wolf & Dessauer.

COMPARISON SALE

"We Expected a Wonderful Business This Month," as we knew the prices at which we are selling our merchandise would appeal to the intelligent buying public of Fort Wayne—
—But we never anticipated such a volume as we have done up to this time—especially in our Shirt and Clothing Sections.

We knew that while we are not running a general cut price sale—"in fact in many instances our prices have not been cut at all"—that our values, "due to our wonderful cash buying organization," when compared with the cut prices in other stores would be so much better that there could be only one result—The Biggest July in Our History.
We've Reached That Goal Already—'Twill Exceed Our Expectations.

eral Electric company in Lynn, Pittsfield, Schenectady, N. Y.; Harrison, N. J.; Erie, Pa., and Fort Wayne, Ind. Walter C. Fish, general manager of the Lynn plant, made this announcement at a farewell reception today to sixty-three men from the local plant who are about to enter the army and navy, the dispatch said.

When the attention of W. F. Melching, the local employment agent, was called to the telegram, he said that it did not accurately state the situation in this city. "We have many girls in the shops and expect to hire many more," he said, "but they will not be required to put on overalls and take up work different in any particular from that women have always performed in our shops. There is plenty of that kind of work--more than we have been able to secure the women to perform in Fort Wayne and we do not anticipate any great change in the general conditions," Mr. Melching said.

JOINT MEMORIAL SERVICES.

B. R. T. and Auxiliaries to Honor Departed Members.

In compiling the roll call of departed members during the past year, Fort Wayne lodge No. 136, B. R. T., developed the startling fact that those who composed the mortality list were the victims of accident to about 75 per cent of the whole. This graphically illustrated the great need of observance and enforcement of the safety first rules in conducting the work on railroads and in the yards. The memorial exercises are to be held in Unity hall next Sunday morning and Rev. A. J. Folsom will deliver the sermon. The ritualistic services of the orders interested will also be carried out in all of their impressiveness, which will include the roll call of deceased mem-

VISITING SALESMEN.

Several of the Oil Tank Hustlers Are Here on Business.

Several of the oil tank and pump salesmen of S. F. Bowser & Company are in the city in connection with the management on matters of business. All report an exceptionally heavy business with prospects bright for the balance of the year. Among the visitors are Harry Christy, office manager at Toronto; J. W. Merckel, H. O. Caddie and W. N. Demming, salesmen in Canada; and J. A. Meyer, a salesman from Memphis, Tenn.

CAR SHORTAGE REDUCED.

The Railway War Board's bulletin announces a reduction of the car shortage of the country fully one-third during the month of May as a result of the campaign for quick loading and unloading. May 1 the shortage was 148,627 and June 1 it was only 105,127 cars. The bulletin says: "This marked reduction in one month following four months of rapid increase, is attributed to the prompt response on the part of both shippers and railroads to the specific suggestion which has been made by the Railroads' War board as to how to secure more effective use of existing freight equipment."

REMEMBERS OLD FRIENDS.

E. F. Kearney, president of the Wabash, whose boyhood days were spent in Logansport, retains a kindly feeling for the people of that city and takes advantage of every opportunity to visit them. With other officials of the Wabash he is out making an inspection trip over the system and the party was scheduled to stop over night in Peru. Instead they made the stop at Logansport and were entertained at dinner by the citizens. They passed through Fort Wayne Wednesday noon.

GORMAN EXPRESSES GRATITUDE.

A letter from Thomas Gorman, the Pennsylvania boilermaker whose double bereavement was mentioned by The Sentinel at the time it occurred, has written a letter expressing his thanks to his shop associates and had it posted upon the bulletin board this morning. The men made up a handsome purse and sent it to Mr. Gorman immediately after his wife and his daughter died. It was a timely and no doubt well appreciated expression of sympathy.

NEIL BEATTIE HURT.

Machinist Neil Beattie, of the Pennsylvania shops, has not been able to work since last Wednesday and may not be able to show up at the shops for several days, as a result of injuries sustained Wednesday. While riding his bicycle to the shop from his home, he was struck at Dawson and Calhoun streets by an automobile and knocked off his wheel. Both legs were cut, bruised and sprained, but the bones were not broken.

GEORGE SCHACK RECOVERING.

A visitor at the Bass machine shop yesterday was George Schack, one of the well-known mechanics at that establishment, who has been sick for two months and will probably be unable to resume work for a week or more. He called to "see the boys," he said. During his illness, Mr. Schack underwent two surgical operations, the latter one, it is believed being successful.

GETTING NEW MACHINERY.

A mammoth piston lathe, the largest of its kind ever brought to Fort Wayne, was taken into the Pennsylvania shops yesterday and is now being made ready to install on the foundation which has already been built. This big machine will be operated by Wallie Connors when it is set up. Other machines have been ordered and will arrive at the shops within a week or two.

FOOT BADLY BRUISED.

Frank Armataut, a machinist's helper at the Pennsylvania erecting shop, will be unable to work for a few days on account of injuries sustained at the shops yesterday. A heavy side-rod fell upon his right foot at 3:30 o'clock in the morning, bruising and spraining the member, but fortunately not breaking the bones.

BIG PARTY TO THE LAKES.

Upwards of fifteen young men, including E. E. Edwards, of the Pennsylvania shops, will compose a boating and fishing party which will leave the city tonight for Angola and tomorrow night go to Crooked Lake to spend Sunday. The "boys" anticipate a jolly time.

NEW NAMES ON PAY ROLLS.

The payrolls at the Pennsylvania machine shop this morning received several additions. Among the men taking employment there were A. J. Ward, Buck C. Wilson, August Dietz, Ray Anderson and Henry A. Ehrman.

INDUSTRIAL NOTES.

A. Watson has taken employment in the Pennsylvania boiler shop, while O. W. Schilling, of the Pennsylvania tool room, has gone to the lakes for a short stay.

W. F. Koehlinger, of the Pennsylvania blacksmith shop, is sick and off duty.

C. Moore quit as rivet heater at the Pennsylvania shops yesterday and will take employment on the farm.

E. B. Hughes, of the Pennsylvania round house, is at Pittsburgh on business for the company.

W. R. Ryhans and H. Thiele, apprentices in the Pennsylvania erecting shop, are off duty today on account of sickness.

after a wedding trip through the Cumberland mountain districts. They were married, as previously stated, at Harrisburg, Ky. Mr. Weber is employed at the General Electric works.

John Littot, an apprentice at the Pennsylvania shops, left for Toledo this morning to spend the week end with relatives and friends.

Archie Castle is sick and Walter Fox is out looking after private business. They are employed in the Pennsylvania tool room.

Miss Garnett Kilbourne is spending a vacation at Rome City. She is employed at the General Electric works, cost department.

V. C. Wilson, a carpenter, and Ellis Frazier, a moving picture operator, have taken employment at the General Electric works.

H. E. Wagner and G. C. Burchard, Pennsylvania passenger engineers, are off duty on account of sickness. Fireman H. Frost is also off duty on account of sickness.

Material Inspector Moran, of the Wabash, headquarters at Decatur, was here today, inspecting a number of castings for the company. He comes here frequently.

TWO KILLED WHEN TROLLEY HITS AUTO

Well Known Bryan Attorney and Proprietor of a Bus Line Are the Victims.

Butler, Ind., July 12.—Attorney R. L. Starr, 60 years old, a prominent attorney of Bryan, Ohio, and former law partner of Judge Bowersox, and John A. Jaymes, proprietor of an automobile bus line, were killed yesterday afternoon at 3:30 o'clock when a T. & E. interurban car hit the automobile in which they were riding. The accident occurred at what is known as stop No. 84 out of Bryan. Another man, an inspector for the interurban company, was seriously hurt.

The party was on its way to Stryker, Ohio, to investigate an accident that occurred there on July the Fourth when three people were killed and many others injured.

The occupants in the automobile saw the approaching interurban car. Jaymes, proprietor of an auto bus line, was driving and was warned by Starr that he did not think he could get across. Jaymes assured him that he could, making no attempt to stop.

Just as they reached the crossing the interurban car struck them. Starr and Jaymes were killed instantly and the third occupant was seriously injured. He was later removed to a hospital at Wauspeon.

Attorney Starr is survived by a widow, son Robert, and daughter, Louise. Jaymes leaves a family.

ARCHDEACON TRANSFERRED

Huntington, Ind., July 12.—Archdeacon J. A. Rayton has been transferred to Ocala, Fla., and will leave Huntington Friday. In his four years in Huntington the archdeacon doubled the membership of the Episcopal church, organized a Sunday school, an auxiliary and a guild.

Wilfred Chopson was accused of burglary last winter, and disappeared from his home in Warren. The authorities heard he was in Ohio. Then came the military registration. Chopson sent his card to the sheriff from Bowling Green, O., where he was employed on a farm. The sheriff bided his time and Monday night arrived in Huntington with Chopson.

JOHN WENDEL DEAD

Huntington, Ind., July 12.—John Wendel, aged 83, died Monday evening at his home in Clear Creek township, where he lived forty-five years. He had been sick since April, when he suffered a broken hip and elbow in a fall. Mr. Wendel was born in Germany, and came to the United States when eight years old. Three children and a brother survive.

REFRIGERATOR MANUFACTURERS MEET

Kendallville, Ind., July 12.—Representatives of the leading manufacturers of refrigerators in America, and identified with the American Refrigerator Manufacturers' association, are here for a two-day midsummer outing. E. E. McCray, president of the association, and president of the McCray Refrigerator company, is the host and is entertaining his guests at his Rome City summer home. PREPARING TO WIN THE WAR IN THE SKY

U. S. Will Build Air Engines as Fast as Jitneys to End Conflict.

(By BASIL M. MANLY.)

Washington, July 13.—In a little more than a month American inventive genius has surmounted the greatest obstacle to winning the war in the air by constructing an airplane engine equal to the superior to any used by English, French or German fliers.

This all-American airplane engine—officially known as the United States aviation motor—which two months ago did not exist even on paper—has literally been sweated out of the thought and toil of the nation's best engineers.

Two, J. G. Vincent, of the Packard company, and E. J. Hall, of the Hall-Scott company, with a corps of the best draftsmen, have been driving through the designs at the bureau of standards days, nights and Sundays in disregard of the eight-hour day.

To secure the utmost speed the parts were built in more than a score of factories, each making the part it could best and most quickly manufacture.

These parts have been assembled from all over the country to make a perfect and complete engine, and are now under guard at the bureau of standards to prevent German spying. Unless tests develop unexpected troubles aviation authorities say America now has an engine, adaptable in different sizes to every airplane from big battle plane to tiny scout, which can be manufactured in such enormous quantities as to overtop anything Germany can do, even if she stops building Zeppelins and motor trucks.

The story of this great feat—equal in military consequences to winning half a dozen battles—is an example of the wonderful resources of brains, specialized training and productive capacity America is mobilizing to overthrow the kaiser.

Ever since we entered the war our military authorities have been convinced the surest way to win quickly was to gain air supremacy. Germany had shown repeatedly she can match the utmost French and English airplane construction. It was up to Uncle Sam, and even he could not turn the trick on time unless airplanes could be produced in quantities never dreamed of.

They knew we had the materials, men and factories, but how to mobilize them. So the aircraft production board, of the responsible army and navy officials and civilians experienced in engineering production, was organized.

This board saw the sticking point in the win-the-war-in-the-air program was the engine. No engine built today in America was light and powerful enough.

Superb English and French aviation engines, they also knew, are not adapted to American manufacturing methods and cannot be produced rapidly in large quantities. Each French and British crack motor is a work of art, not a factory product. So there was nothing to it for Uncle Sam but to do the job his own way—design a satisfactory engine that could be shot through a factory something like Henry Ford grinds out jitneys.

When this decision was reached Howard Coffin, aircraft board engineer, called together the country's best engineers—men who knew gasoline engines better than their own children—locked them in a council room with him and told them:

"Boys, it's up to us to beat the kaiser. The airplane will do it, but not without a top-notch engine lighter and more powerful than anything you ever thought of and that can be turned out in quantities. It's a big order. Now take off your coats, and sweat."

They did. They tore designs and actual examples of the best aviation engines, French, English and German, to pieces and picked the best piece out of each. Then they asked two questions about each piece: "How can we improve it?" and "How can we adapt it to quantity production?"

They took off this piece a flange that would have kept it from being handled with high speed tools. They saw this other piece was almost exactly like a standard American part and made it exactly alike. They saw on this part the ten French machining operations could be cut to four. They consulted the French and British aviation experts with Joffre and Balfour. At last they had a composite of the best foreign engines, adapted to American manufacturing methods, which as one of them says, "Fitted together like a watch."

They rushed its construction by choosing out of the thousands of American factories the best for each separate part and then giving rush orders with priority over everything.

Now—only a little more than a month from the time it was conceived—they have the engine ready for tests so severe that every possible weakness will be disclosed.

No one doubts these tests will bring modifications, but every engineer on the design feels he has had a part in preparing kaiserdom's death-blow.

Mahogany finished folding chairs and folding tables for rent. These chairs and tables have leather seats and leather tops. They will be kept to fill a demand for a better chair and table for party use. The chairs will cost 10 cents each and the tables 20 cents each. Foster's.

IN FORCE CITIZENS GATHER TO DEPORT THE UNDESIRABLES

One Thousand Industrial Workers Are Rounded Up at Bisbee by Armed Members of the League.

MEXICO MAY BE THEIR ONLY HAVEN

Phoenix, Ariz., July 12.—One thousand members of the Industrial Workers of the World were being rounded up at Bisbee today by armed members of the Citizens' Protective league and will be deported.

According to word from Bisbee the work of deportation was being thoroughly and systematically.

Greatly outnumbered, members of the Industrial Workers who had not left town were herded in the base ball park. There a guard was maintained and as fast as the men were brought in they were searched for arms and red cards showing their membership in the Industrial Workers organization.

Twenty-five box and cattle cars also have been sent to deport the I. W. W. members. Railroad officials would not indicate the destination of the train after it leaves Bisbee.

A telegram reported here the deported I. W. W. members would be forced to flee into Mexico, as California, Texas and New Mexico have put Petrograd, July 12.—The Russians have captured Kalusz, the headquarters of the enemy in Galicia, according to a semi-official announcement made today.

According to information received at the ministry of war the Russian troops are continuing their successful advance and have taken a large number of prisoners.

OFFICIALLY CONFIRMED.

Petrograd, July 12.—Official announcement that Kalusz, in Galicia, had been occupied by the Russians was made today, coupled with the statement that the occupation was effected after a sanguinary battle.

PLOTTERS HAVE BEEN ARRESTED BY THE CHINESE

Tien Tsin, July 12.—Chang Chen Fang and Lei Chen Chun, ministers of finance and war, respectively, under the monarchy, were arrested on a train at Feng Tai, while endeavoring to escape from Peking. Feng Lin Ko, the Manchurian general, whose intentions were suspected, was unexpectedly arrested in the Tien Tsin railroad station. He was disguised. Tuan Chi-fu, leader of the republicans forces, referring to Wu Ting Fang's telegram that he has installed himself minister of foreign affairs at Shanghai, states Wu has been dismissed from office and that all actions after he had left Peking were irresponsible. Tuan Chi-fu said the cabinet established at Tien Tsin will be transferred to Peking and that it alone will undertake all diplomatic dealings.

Majority of Them Not Yet Completed, Now York Among Them.

Washington, D. C., July 12.—So far twenty-one states have reported to the provost general's office the completion of their organization. In some of them the names and serial numbers of the men liable to draft already have been posted. The first city to report the completion of that part of her work was Kansas City. Some fear was felt at the war department today that the delays in organization might cause further postponement of the draft. It had been believed that the drawing might take place Saturday of this week. It then became evident that it could not be held before next week and indications today were that it might be the latter part of next week before everything was ready. One of the states where there has been the most confusion in organization is New York. New Estimate Explained.

GOVERNMENT GETS ALL STEEL NEEDED PRICE FIXED LATER

Washington, July 12.—Formal announcement was made by Secretary Baker today that an agreement had been reached with representatives of the American Steel industry in connection here under which the entire production of the industry would be made available for the government's war purposes at a price to be determined on the basis of a cost of production inquiry being conducted by the federal trade commission.

On their side the government representatives assured the steel men that reasonable profits would be included in the price fixed and that production also would be made to care for the expansion of the industry to meet new demands.

The government also assured the steel men that its war orders would be distributed over the entire iron and steel producing capacity of the country, leaving no single producer or group of producers to carry an unfair share of the war burden.

National Party Also Views Situation as Holding Disaster for It.

London, July 12.—The election of Edward De Valera as a member of parliament for East Clare, the third Sinn Feiner to be returned to parliament of late, is treated as an event of great political consequence by the morning papers which devote considerable space to the victory. The tendency of the unionist press, reflecting their advice from Belfast and Dublin is to emphasize what it always contended—the folly of the government in liberating Sinn Fein prisoners and refraining to deal with revolutionary talk and acts as such would be dealt with in England. These papers regard the situation as gravely threatening for they see nothing in the Sinn Fein movement but rebellion.

Liberal Press Alarmed.

The liberal press also is alarmed not rather for the position of the official nationalist party and for the prospect for the establishment of constitutional home rule. One opinion seems common among all parties, namely, that the prospects of the convention in Ireland to consider home rule is seriously impaired if not entirely doomed.

SPECULATION IN CORN HAS BEEN STOPPED

Chicago, July 12.—The fixing of a maximum price of $1.25 a bushel for the December (1917) and the May (1918) options for corn, was regarded by members of the Chicago board of trade today as practically putting a stop to speculation in the new crop of that grain. The board of directors, who met after the close of the market yesterday, made no formal announcement of the reasons for the action, but an official of the board said the establishment of a maximum price for December and later options seemed necessary to bring trading conditions into harmony with the government's war policy of preventing undue speculation and unwarranted high prices to consumers.

The maximum price of $1.65 a bushel for September option, which was fixed by the board some time ago, was not disturbed by the action of yesterday, as the value of old corn for immediate delivery is now much in excess of that limit, ordinarily number 2 white touching $1.94 a bushel, the highest price ever known in Chicago.

Despite the favorable crop reports and the reduced price of wheat, traders say that business in the corn pit has been more active during the last month than at any time in the history of the board.

FIFTY STUDENT AVIATORS SOON TO QUIT SCHOOL

New York, July 12.—At least fifty student aviators will be graduated from the aviation school at Garden City on July 15, prepared for European service. According to the announcement the student aviators began their training on May 1, and daily since then, no matter what the weather, have been perfecting themselves for service in the air on the fighting fronts of Europe. The French officers who arrived in this country a short time ago to aid in developing an efficient corps of fliers, expressed themselves as more than pleased not only with the progress of the students, but with the type of machine used in their training.

Added facilities will make it possible for the school to increase the number of new students to twenty-five or more each week.

APPEALS TO PATRIOTISM

President Exhorts Great

Producers and Makers to Deal Fairly.

DOLLAR DEVOTION

HOTLY DENOUNCED

Calls on Manufacturers and

Mine Owners to Enlist for War.

Washington, D. C., July 12.—President Wilson has appealed to the country's business interests to put aside every selfish consideration and to give their aid to the nation as freely as those who go out to offer their lives on the battlefield.

In a statement addressed to the coal operators and manufacturers he gave assurances that just prices will be paid by the government and the public during the war, but warned that no attempt to extort unusual profits will be tolerated.

"Your patriotism," said the president's appeal, "is of the same self-denying stuff as the patriotism of the men dead and maimed on the fields of France, or it is no patriotism at all. Let us never speak, then, of profits and patriotism in the same sentence."

"I shall expect every man who is not a slacker to be at my side throughout this great enterprise. In it no man can win honor who thinks of himself."

Condemns Ship Owners. The president declared there must be but one price for the government and for the public. He expressed confidence that business generally would be found loyal to the last degree and that the problem of wartime prices, which he declared will "mean victory or defeat," will be solved rightly through patriotic co-operation.

In unqualified terms, however, Mr. Wilson condemned the ship owners of the country for maintaining a schedule of ocean freight rates which has placed "almost insuperable obstacles in the path of the government."

"The fact is," he asserted, "that those who have fixed war freight rates have taken the most effective means in their power to defeat the armies engaged against Germany."

Coal production and other industries for whose products the government has negotiated price agreements are not taken up in detail by the president, his appeal dealing only with the general principles involved in the determination of war prices.

President's Call. The president's statement follows: "The government is about to attempt to determine the prices at which it will ask you henceforth to furnish various supplies which are necessary for the prosecution of the war, and various materials which will be needed in the industries by which the war must be sustained. We shall, of course, try to determine them justly and to the best advantage of the nation as a whole; but justice is easier to speak of than to arrive at, and there are some considerations which I hope we shall keep steadily in mind while this particular problem of justice is being worked out."

Therefore I take the liberty of stating very candidly my own view of the situation and of the principles which should guide both the government and the mine owners and manufacturers of the country in this difficult matter.

At just price must, of course, be paid for everything the government buys. By a just price I mean a price which will sustain the industries concerned in a high state of efficiency, provide a living for those who conduct them, enable them to pay good wages, and make possible the expansions of their enterprises which will from time to time become necessary as the stupendous undertakings of this great war develop.

Must Face the Facts. "We could not wisely or reasonably do less than pay such prices. They are necessary for the maintenance and development of industry, and the maintenance and development of industry are necessary for the great task we have in hand."

"But I trust that we shall not surround the matter with a mist of sentiment. Facts are our masters now. We ought not to put the acceptance of such prices on the ground of patriotism."

"Patriotism has nothing to do with profits in a case like this. Patriotism and profits ought never in the

Will Discuss Economic Values and How to Get Most for Money.

"I have something practical to offer to meet the high cost of living," says Dr. George L. McNutt, better known as "the dinner pail man," who talks on living costs and living cost problems at the big Fort Wayne Redpath chautauqua which opens next Tuesday afternoon at 3 o'clock on the old golf grounds. Out of more than fifteen thousand experiments, I have developed and made practical a special home process of milling with which any family can make delicious bread at a saving of 20 per cent of cost. By the same process, any family can make better breakfast food than money can buy, at a saving of from 40 to 100 per cent.

"I have simplified and made available to any family a steam pressure method that cooks any of the vegetables in less than 10 minutes, conserving the mineral salts from lack of which many of us are starving."

"The world is hungry. I have something definite to offer to help relieve the situation."

"I show the low cost and high efficiency of primary foods, taken direct from nature, with everything that nature puts in them conserved. I am trying to do something to restore to families and communities, the independence of our self-reliant, pioneer fore-fathers in their nearness to nature and nature's bounties."

Dr. McNutt's lecture is one of the strong features of the Redpath program this season. In every city he meets personally, scores of people who want to talk with him about the problems he is working upon. His lecture is made vivid by the fact that he actually does considerable cooking and baking right on the platform and gives to his audience, samples of what he prepares.

Another instance of the patriotic service being rendered by the Redpath chautauquas this year is that Dr. McNutt is preparing at the request of the French and English embassies in this country a plan for meeting food problems to be used in France and England. Dr. McNutt's lecture gives specific instances for solving high living costs and is right along with the patriotic idea of conserving foodstuffs, advocated by President Wilson.

This lecture alone is worth several times the price of a season ticket to every person and thousands of dollars to every community.

Tickets are selling fast. If you have not secured yours, do not delay, which may be had at the University club, ticket booth at Wolf & Dessauer's and drug stores.

Our July sale means an opportunity to save money.

MORE NOISE THAN MOVEMENT.

The bit of turmoil in the German reichstag and the rumors of changes in the German imperial government are commonly described in the American press as a "crisis." This seems to be a purely gratuitous tribute to the political energies and democratic strivings of the German people. There has not appeared so far any evidence that the kaiser and his ministers are face to face with any situation even approaching the seriousness of a crisis. The noise in the reichstag is not without precedent; indeed, is not uncommon. The reichstag now and then becomes a pretty noisy place even in normal times. It answers the function of a safety valve for the German empire. Through it a good deal of steam escapes that might otherwise prove a hard strain and give birth to "bust the boiler." But nothing much has ever come of it. It does not seem likely that much can come of it now.

It will be well to keep in mind that the assaults on the imperial chancellor, Dr. von Bethmann-Hollweg, come from the extreme flanks. The spokesmen for democracy find no more serious occasion against him than the junkers. The imperialist extremists, the pan-Germans, profess to be as heatedly antagonistic to him for what they regard as his liberalism in politics and his moderations in the war as the social democrats are hostile to him for his conservatism, reaction and commitment to imperial ambition as well as his part in the policies of frightfulness. The pressure on the government comes from both sides. The agitations for democracy are genuine of course. Considerable doubt involves the character of the antagonisms displayed against the chancellor from the other extremists. It may be genuine, but probably is not. That element has no reason to have lost faith in the militaristic group, or to distrust its policies and conduct. The Prussian war coterie, with the emperor at its head and the chauvinistic crown prince as its ablest exemplar and its future hope, rules Germany. The reichstag can have no power against it except the emperor himself be detached from the whole vast military structure which is imperial Germany. There is no likelihood of that.

Germany will have a real crisis in her politics and government when the body of the people—and that must include the mass of the army—rise against their rulers and revolt against despotism as the people of Russia did last March. How near or how remote that may be, or whether it be a sane possibility at all so long as German arms remain unbeaten, no one may say; but there are now no indications visible from the outside that any such state of feeling broods in the general mind of Germany.

The ferment of democracy in the German empire may be proceeding with rapidity and may disclose itself suddenly in a tremendous upheaval as was the case in Russia. The world gasped when Nicholas was tumbled from the throne and the old despotism of the Romanoffs was puffed out in the short span of a day by the breath of popular wrath. Tyranny nowhere ever has stood nor anywhere ever can stand against all the people. When the mass in Germany shall come to hold in common the belief that democracy is their right and the divine rights of kingship their most signal and implacable wrong, they will do what all oppressed peoples aspiring to democracy are conscious of their power have done and will ever do. Until that time, be it near or far, shall dawn, there will be no "crisis" in the German empire from which the dynasty and the militarism that is its bulwark cannot easily save themselves.

There may be a true crisis in Germany today, but it frets and fevers and ferments below the surface of things, not in the reichstag, in the chancellory or about the throne. The bubbling that now is heard seems to be a pretty mild matter and gives forth a sound made expressly to be heard. It may fool the German people into belief that events big for them and their liberties are transpiring behind the veils in whose shades despotism and tyranny move and work.

ANDREW J. MOYNIHAN.

In the death of Andrew J. Moynihan there passes a man who in many ways was remarkable. His career reached from a very humble beginning to the eminence of a great success. His personality impressed itself on his community to a degree that is true of only few men anywhere. His influence was effectual within a field that was wider than perhaps some contemporary men were generously ready to concede.

For almost thirty years Mr. Moynihan was editor of the Fort Wayne Journal and its successor, the Fort Wayne Journal-Gazette. He had begun his newspaper career at the very bottom, starting as a printer's devil in the composing rooms of The Fort Wayne Sentinel. He completed his apprenticeship as a printer and for a time worked as a journeyman. He then applied himself to the editorial branch of the business and in that his progress was steadfast. When Mr. Moynihan, associated with the Messrs. W. W. and H. C. Rockhill, took hold of the old Morning Journal, that property consisted mainly of printer's junk and an enterprise of dubious history and dubious prospect. What was wrought in the quarter century that followed had concrete illustration some twelve months ago when Mr. Moynihan sold to Messrs. Lew G. Ellingham and Edward G. Hoffman one of the largest and best equipped as well as most prosperous newspapers in the middle west at a price said to have been a quarter of a million dollars. That says for itself the true thing better than any written words or speech can say it. All of the success achieved for the Journal and the Journal-Gazette was not due to Mr. Moynihan, nor did he claim so much. The Messrs. Rockhill gave it indispensable business direction and attention most capably. As editor Mr. Moynihan put the imprint of his character and personality on the paper and it remained there to the last day that his authority remained over the publication. He put there something else that only stupidity or recklessness will ever be able to efface. That is a character for progress and enterprise conjoined with sane business risk. Happily there is every sign that in this aspect of its career change of ownership has meant no deviation from the policy of advancement. Mr. Moynihan believed that the function of a newspaper was to print the news and to do so he never grudged the labor or counted the expense that made up the price of aggressive enterprise. The newspaper his zeal, energy and genius created says so much for this phase of his labor that it is wanton waste of words to attempt to add to such a conclusive testimony.

The personality of "Andy" Moynihan was unique and interesting. He was not grotesque or "odd," in the usual meanings of those terms, but he was at least unusual, and some have thought that the rather overworked and somewhat stale expression "picturesque character" described him. Perhaps in some measure it did; but Andrew J. Moynihan had principles too positive, views frequently too radical and a quality of expression now and then altogether too original and occasionally too energetic to be comprehended by that sort of term. He was generous to a degree not readily to be exaggerated. His sympathies were quick, strong, genuine and affirmative and seldom failed to find practical expression. He was a man of vast impulsiveness and with him impulse was action. This quality of his mind did not always bring happy consequences, but it was in him and of him and he attempted no mitigations and set up no denials of it. He will be long remembered as a warm-hearted, generous-souled man. He began life almost destitute of every advantage save a good mind and a strong heart and he succeeded in a great way. He was devoted to his city and he gave strong impulse to many of the best civic advancements of his term. Few of the multitude that knew him will not learn of his death without a feeling of genuine sorrow.

WARNING TO BIG SLACKERS.

President Wilson has appealed to certain of the big business interests of the country to forget that the stress of the nation is a season for making hay and to "do their bit." There will be a good response to this importunate cry, for which there ought to have been no need. Some will respond because they will feel that it is the thing to do. Others will respond because between the lines of the president's appeal there may be read certain signs and portents that do not bode well for the slackers in big business. While the clouds of war darken all other prospects for the people, the sunshine of gross opportunity should not be permitted to shine upon the sordid hay-makers that see in the war a great field day for rapacity. What the government needs that cannot be had by mutual arrangement upon decent terms, it should be understood, will be had by the government anyway. That is a good way for the big slackers to look at it, if they can see it in no other light.

PAGAN LONGINGS.

Oh, when again you hear the pipes o' Pan a-down the lane,
Or see, beneath a moonlit sky, the Dryads stroll again—
When through the screen o' laughing leaves, you see the Satyrs play,
Oh, call me soft, and I will be a Pagan for the day!
I'd not catch a furtive glance at some wee woodland faun,
I'd steal away, and amid the misty tears o' languid dawn;
For once, in ages long ago, a Pagan's soul had I,
But now the dreaming memory is buried in a sigh!
To hear the lilting melody come rippling from Pan's flute—
To weep with bliss at melting chords from Amphion's silver lute—
To feel the frenzied happiness o' Pagans once again—
Hark!—Did I hear a piping call a-down yon Hawthorn lane?

But I've got to plow the co'n, don't you see?

Oh, thirst to be a Pagan, for a year and for a day;
I'd like to run a race with Pan, and gambol on the way—
Oh, I'd love to snatch a kiss,
From a nymph, but think of this,
I am fondling in my bliss a load of hay!

What Do You Think, Pal?

Spirillum (heavens, what a gloomy name!) writing from the city says that business occasioned very late hours at the interurban station the other evening—or, perhaps very early hours. Anyhow the waiting room was very quiet and empty save for the presence of S. and the gentleman who does the sweeping symphony. Suddenly, as Spirillum pondered, a huge rat ran across the floor and up the wall. Spirillum was astounded, but the terror of the gentleman who operated the broom was something frightful. "Did you see it, too?" he asked. Spirillum's ready admission alone saved the caretaker.

A NEW CONSTITUTION

By John A. Lapp, Bureau of Legislative Information

Educational Provisions of the Constitution of Indiana and What the New One Should Have

(Copyright 1917 by John A. Lapp.)

Indiana has had important provisions in her constitution from the earliest time relating to education. The territory out of which Indiana was carved was organized with free education as one of its chief cornerstones. The famous ordinance of 1787 which set up a form of government of the Northwest territory declared: "Religion, morality and knowledge, being necessary to good government and the happiness of mankind, schools and the means of education shall forever be encouraged."

The first constitution had the following declaration of the state's purpose in education: "Knowledge and learning generally diffused, through a community, being essential to the preservation of free government, and spreading the opportunities, and advantages of education through the various parts of the country being highly conducive to this end, the general assembly shall from time to time pass such laws as shall be calculated to encourage intellectual, scientific, and agricultural improvements, by allowing rewards and immunities for the promotion and improvement of arts, sciences, commerce, manufactures and natural history; and to countenance and encourage the principles of humanity, honesty, industry, and morality."

Of course in neither case could this ideal be reached in the primitive state but these declarations served as a beacon to inspire thought and endeavor. Little actual attempt was made to put a free system of schools into operation.

The constitution of 1852 announced the purpose of the state in education in these words: "Knowledge, and learning, generally diffused throughout a community, being essential to the preservation of a free government; it shall be the duty of the general assembly to encourage, by all suitable means, moral, intellectual, scientific and agricultural improvement; and to provide, by law, for a general and uniform system of common schools, wherein tuition shall be without charge, and equally open to all."

The first session of the legislature after the new constitution was adopted set up in every part of the state

free common schools and the system thus started has flourished and developed into the present system in which the state takes pride. We are spending in Indiana today $15,625,051 on common schools. There are employed 19,648 teachers and the number of pupils in elementary and high schools in the state in the year 1915 was 562,252.

A comprehensive system has become the most important single part of the state's work both from the point of view of its size as a business proposition and from its effect upon the welfare of the people of the state. It is a matter of deep interest that the best system shall be maintained for the benefit of all the people and that the vast amount of money required shall be spent in return for the greatest amount of public good. The importance of the matter demands that the management of education shall be organized to get the best results. The state over sees and supervises the expenditures of large sums both of its own money and the money of the localities and there is a corresponding responsibility.

At present the school system is organized with the state superintendent of public instruction at the head. The constitution declares that this officer shall be elected by the people for a term of two years. The state legislature has created a state board of education with large powers of control over schools. The local schools are managed by the school authorities of the cities, towns and townships. The county elects a superintendent of schools who has some powers of control over the township schools and in the licensing of teachers. The township schools are under the township trustees and the city and town schools are managed by boards of school trustees or commissioners.

There has been much criticism of this plan of educational supervision because there seems to be no clear idea of responsibility. No official is given distinct authority and work is sadly duplicated. The following specific proposals are made by educators and others looking toward a more economical and efficient plan of control:

1. The management of the schools of the township should be taken out from the control of the township trustees and all of the township schools of each county be placed under a county board which would have the same powers in the management of such schools as the city boards now have over city schools. The county superintendent would be the rural schools what the city superintendent is to the city schools. He would be chosen as city superintendents are chosen because of his fitness as an educator. It is argued that this plan would give educational management instead of the political management so often shown by township trustees and county superintendents.

2. The state board of education, it is argued, should become the head of the educational system as it now is only partially and the superintendent of public instruction should become the executive officer of the board. He would be selected by the board and not by the people as at present and he would be kept in the position on the basis of merit. At present the superintendent is elected by political methods and he must engage in politics constantly to keep his place. His term is only for two years and he may be defeated and his inexperienced successor comes into office and spends his time learning the work and in turn passing on as the political fortunes of his party.

The important task of education should have capable administrators and such cannot be obtained with any degree of certainty by the elective system. Under the plan out-lined here would be unity of head expert professional service, permanent tenure, and a system of county schools as capably managed as city schools are today under the system of electing superintendents because of their fitness as educators and not their cleverness as party politicians. The result is too important to be ignored and the most searching attention will be given the matter by the convention.

WIDE-AWAKE JAPAN

BY RICH A. JOHNSTON.

The first thing to believe about Japan is that she is wide-awake. But then, Japan has always been wide-awake—read her records, if you cannot take the statement on faith. And then write to your western friends and ask them to tell you something about that wide-awakeness.

Observation will show any one who uses the brain-end of his anatomy to think and look with that Japan is now "modern to the last minute, and full of enterprise."

War gave the world an opportunity while she was giving it a black eye. We, the people in the front boat, slept on our oars. Not so with the Nippon folk. Japan, the fourth race people, began to use the picked Aryan noodle. Long before the hook-nosed U-boat pirates of the seas rammed holes in the shipbuilding in such comprehensive measures that all the nations now are aware that the Nippon vessel foresaw what an enormous demand for merchant vessels would arise.

FREE SPEECH AT YALE.

(New Haven, Conn., Register.)

There has been much comment on the attitude of Yale in allowing the preaching of many sorts of doctrine concerning the war, and none more than that which greeted the action of the university in allowing the foremost pacifist of the country to deliver an address here but a few days before war was declared. The university officials were reticent at the time, but this morning President Hadley told at the alumni meeting, the real policy decided upon and carried to a successful conclusion.

"The past year has furnished unusual opportunities for the active and open-minded discussion of public affairs. Never within my remembrance have the students been so interested in questions of national and international politics. Such interest can be manifested in two ways; either in the form of organized emotion, or in the form of examination and judgment of evidence. The tendency of our country often has been to prefer the former to the latter. To let passion take the place of reasoning, or recrimination take the place of argument. We have had to combat this tendency. During the two months that elapsed between the breaking off of diplomatic relations and the actual declaration of war Yale stood for free speech. She has been blamed for it within the college walls as well as without. She was gravely criticized for allowing Dr. Jordan to make a place speech a few days before war was actually declared. But we held that it was irrational to prepare for a war in behalf of freedom by suppressing freedom of speech; that man's convictions would in the end be firmer as well as wiser if they had heard the arguments on both sides squarely presented. I was proud of our students the night Dr. Jordan spoke. They gave him a fair chance to say what he wanted to; and the very fact that he was interrupted made the weakness of his case more apparent than any thing else could have done. When war actually came the peace men in the college, having had their say at a proper time, did not continue to say the same things at an improper time, as has been done in so many other places. Not having said on the safety valve, we had no untimely explosions."

This statement, made to the "stockholders" in the name of Yale, clears up once and for all the attitude of the university.

MUSHY SENTIMENTALISM.

(New York World.)

Through a convict on Blackwell's island in correspondence with an innocent little country girl away off in West Virginia and unknown to him, it has been found that there exists a society with headquarters at Washington whose purpose it is to supply inmates of penitentiaries with the names of women and girls in the idea of promoting a correspondence between them.

We do not suppose there is anything in this intentionally wrong or criminal. Doubtless quite the contrary. The manager of the society is known and his name given. He is a "Dr." and may be a doctor of medicine or a doctor of divinity in excellent professional standing. His work is probably identified in all sincerity with the great new uplift work which is pervading the prison management of the country, as well as most other activities of a society craving to do good and not always knowing how to go about it.

We had the other day a sample of precisely this kind of prison uplift work and its consequences through the insurance in the Joliet penitentiary of Illinois, where the inmates had been so long pampered with the luxuries of a free living, including correspondence with female strangers, that they came to feel a proprietary interest in the institution and tried to make it good.

Happily our own department of correction does not intend to let such matters proceed quite so far. Commissioner Lewis tells this doctor of medicine or of divinity that his work is "nonsense." Less than that certainly cannot be said of it. There are too many elements of other possible farm tragedies or tragedies of girlish innocence in such correspondence. Our penology may need some softening, but the last thing to be admitted is a mushy sentimentalism like this.

IT HAS NO PRECEDENT HERE.

(Philadelphia Record.)

With the 650,000 men to be drafted into the conscript army in a short time the government expects to have no less than 1,500,000 soldiers and sailors under arms by Sept. 1. When it is remembered that this is an eminently peace-loving and unimperial nation, and that war with Germany was only declared three months ago, it must be conceded that wonders have been accomplished in a very brief period. More might have been done if congress had shown a more helpful disposition, but even with that drawback the progress made is remarkable. There is nothing in the history of the United States that in any way compares with it.

THE TEXAS WAY.

(Houston Post.)

As a matter of fact, eating watermelon so as to enjoy it most is not a very graceful proceeding, and personally would rather take a fifty-pounder out in the back yard and go to it than have well company present and make a spectacle of oneself gouging into an emaciated slice with a fork.

FROM THE SENTINEL PAGES 25 YEARS AGO

Louis A. Centlivre will go to Pittsburgh next week and see his horses start in several stake events.

T. E. Ellison, the attorney, has gone to Omaha, Neb., where he will visit his sister, Mrs. Dr. E. F. Casbeer, formerly of this city.

Miss Rose Irwin, 65 years old, died suddenly last evening of apoplexy at the home of her brother, Dr. J. S. Irwin, on West Main street.

Nick Loring, of New Haven, who received injuries on the Nickel Plate, had one of his fingers amputated at St. Joseph hospital yesterday.

Atlantic King, Centlivre's five-year-old pacer, starts in the 2:35 pace at Saginaw, Mich., this afternoon. Mary Centlivre starts in a race tomorrow.

Dr. George McGoogan has been appointed postmaster at Arcola in place of William Rockhill, who resigned to engage in the shoe business in this city.

Paul Mossman, of this city, is now completing his European trip through Norway, Denmark, Sweden and Russia. He will be home about the middle of September.

Fort Wayne theater-goers were greatly shocked by the news of the death of Kate Castleton. The pretty little actress had delighted several audiences at the Temple and was a great favorite in this city.

At the third annual meeting of the Tri-State Building and Loan association last evening in the offices of the company in the Pixley-Long building all the old officers were re-elected as follows: George W. Pixley, president; A. D. Cressler, vice president; C. A. Wilding, secretary; J. W. Bell, treasurer, and W. J. Vesey, attorney.

The Isaac Knapp Dental Coterie met at the residence of Dr. S. B. Brown, 104 West Berry street, and elected for its officers for the ensuing half year Drs. H. C. Sites, president, and J. S. McCurdy, secretary. Dr. H. C. Sites was elected delegate to the American Dental Association convention. Other members who will attend will be Dr. Brown, Shryock, McCurdy and Johnson.

The auction bridge tournament at the Country club came to a close Wednesday afternoon. Winners of prizes in the four weeks' series of games were Mrs. L. P. Drayer, Mrs. A. E. Bowser and Miss Lucile Vail. Prizes were also given for a contest independent of the tournament at yesterday's game and Mrs. Joe Freiburger won the prize. There were a number of ladies present who knitted or sewed instead of playing and a number of small affairs in the way of luncheon parties.

Mrs. Geo. Dick and Mrs. A. W. Muir gave a farewell party on Saturday evening in honor of their sister, Miss Katie Kneiss, from Chicago, who is about to depart for a trip through the west. Miss Kneiss will be accompanied by her father, Theo. Kneiss. At supper covers were laid for twelve, and the dining room and tables were beautifully decorated with roses. The evening was passed in play, raffles and dancing. Prizes were won by Miss Marie Huber and Joe Keller, and also by Miss Irene Miller and William Meyer. The other guests were Miss Catherine Keller, Miss Lucile Hueber, Miss Frieda Staff, Leonard Staff, Ben and Clarence Hueber and McDewitt.

Cartwright Family Reunion.
The fourth annual reunion of the Cartwright family will be held in Swinney park next Sunday. All members of the Cartwright family are requested to be present.

Some Simple Rules in Removing Stains

Much expense can be saved in any family by proper care, cleaning and renovation of clothing at home. Though the laundryman, dry cleaner and dyer is provided with equipment which makes the work easier for him, it is quite possible, with care, for the home worker to accomplish the same results.

Before washing cottons and linens, see that stains are treated first, as hot water sets many of them.

For coffee and fruit stains, stretch the fabric over a bowl and pour boiling water from a height through the stain. Pouring from a height causes pressure, which is an aid. This is effective for any fresh fruit stain except peach.

For tea and chocolate stains, soak in glycerine, then wash, first in tepid then in boiling water.

For grass stains, rub in strong ammonia water or in kerosene. Follow with warm water and soap.

For paint or varnish stains, rub with turpentine, then wash in soap and water.

To remove tar, soften with lard and scrape off, then wash to remove the grease.

For iron rust, use a salt and lemon juice paste, apply and let stand. Another method is to stretch the fabric over a bowl of hot water. Drop a 10 per cent solution of muriatic acid on the spot. When it gets lighter dip the spot in the hot water or the acid may eat a hole. Repeat, if necessary.

For ink stains, use the same methods as for iron rust or soak in sweet milk, let stand until it soaks. Repeat, if necessary.

This also is effective for iodine stain.

For blood stains or egg, wash in warm water with a little ammonia added.

For vasoline stains, soak in kerosene, then wash.

For mildew, use the same method as for ink. In very persistent stains use ink eradiator. This is also effective for peach stain. Ink eradiator is made up of equal parts of Javelle water, made according to the directions on a chloride of lime can and oxalic acid. Use it diluted and in several applications, rather than one long one. Rinse thoroughly, or the acid will eat a hole.

APPETIZING CHEESE FOOD TAKES THE PLACE OF MEAT

Take neat strips of cheese half an inch thick, roll each one carefully in a thin slice of dried beef (without free-heeling), lay on well-buttered slices of whole-wheat bread. Bake in hot oven five to eight minutes until bread browns and cheese melts. Garnish with parsley and sweet pickles and serve hot with hot chocolate for Sunday night supper.

In planning menus, remember that a cheese dish takes the place of meat, fish or eggs, and not of starch foods. Milk and Cheese Soup—Three cups milk, or part milk and stock, one cup grated cheese, salt and paprika, to taste, one and one-half tablespoons flour. Thicken milk with the flour, cooking thoroughly. This is best done in a double boiler, with frequent stirring. When ready to serve add the cheese and seasonings.

Cheese Gingersnaps.—One cup molasses, one cup grated cheese, two cups flour, one teaspoon soda, one-half teaspoon salt, two teaspoons ginger, one-half cup water. Heat molasses and cheese in double boiler until the cheese is melted. Add soda and stir vigorously. Mix and stir dry ingredients and add them to the molasses and cheese alternately with the water. Bake fifteen minutes in small buttered tins.

ICE BOX REQUIRES CLEANING ONCE EVERY WEEK AT LEAST

An ice box should be emptied and thoroughly cleaned at least once a week. To be sure, it is too much for a woman to lift out a piece of ice which weighs a hundred or more pounds, but this is never necessary. Plan to clean your ice box on the morning you are going to have it refilled and when your ice supply has run low. Remove the ice and remove every crock and pan and dish and bottle and eatable. Then with warm water and washing soda go after the inside of the ice box with a vengeance.

Some women have found it an excellent idea to put charcoal in the corners of the box. The charcoal absorbs the odors and keeps the box smelling sweet and pure. The charcoal must of course be changed every seven or eight days.

There are several ways of keeping your ice from melting fast, and these will help to cut down your ice bill in the course of a year. First cover your ice with five or six thicknesses of newspaper. Second, never put hot or warm dishes into the box. And third, never keep your box open for more than the briefest possible moment, and always see that you leave the doors shut fast and tight.

Never put the butter and milk near or in the same compartment with strong smelling vegetables or sauces. If possible keep the butter and milk away from everything else.

For iron rust, use a salt and lemon juice paste, apply and let stand. Another method is to stretch the fabric over a bowl of hot water. Drop a 10 per cent solution of muriatic acid on the spot. When it gets lighter dip the spot in the hot water or the acid may eat a hole. Repeat, if necessary.

For ink stains, use the same methods as for iron rust or soak in sweet milk, let stand until it soaks. Repeat, if necessary.

GRABILL NEWS.

Grabill, Ind., July 12.—Mr. and Mrs. Ira Fuhrman are entertaining their little niece from Monroe, Ind.

The Misses Hester and Bessie Martz, daughters of Mr. and Mrs. E. Coy Martz, are spending a two weeks' vacation with their grandparents at Decatur, Ind.

Mr. and Mrs. John Yaggy, of Woodburn, Ind., visited with Mr. and Mrs. Eli Conrad and family the fore part of his week.

Joseph Grabill and children spent Tuesday at Fort Wayne.

B. S. Gerig and family motored to St. Joe, Sunday, where they called on Mr. and Mrs. Jay Snyder and family, formerly of this place.

During the electrical storm recently, lightning struck the residence of Peter Amstutz on State street, and also the tower of the new Missionary church. Aside from disarranging some of the bricks and plastering, no further damage was done.

Andrew Yaggy and family of Woodburn, visited with Joseph A. Klopfenstein and family, Sunday.

A very large and enthusiastic crowd attended the patriotic service and flag raising at this place Saturday afternoon. Battery B of Fort Wayne participated in the exercises. The flag was saluted with seven shots from a cannon. Howard Klopfenstein received the prize of five dollars for climbing to the top of the new flag pole. The battery officers were successful in securing several enlistments during the afternoon.

The residence being erected by Noah Grabill on State street, is rapidly nearing completion.

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Lantz and family left Tuesday evening for their home in Montana, after six weeks with relatives and friends at this place.

Rev. and Mrs. Aaron Souder entertained David Grosh and family of Brush College, and Daniel Gerig and family at dinner, Sunday.

Miss Elizabeth Yaggy of Woodburn, is visiting with her cousin, Mary Klopfenstein, at this place for a few days.

Mrs. Benjamin Neuenchwander called on Mrs. B. S. Gerig Tuesday afternoon.

NEW AND PROPER FOOTGEAR.

(By Betty Brown.)

For once the society debutante and the college girl share a common opinion. Both scorn French heels except for dancing, and both just adore the new sports oxford. It is low of heel and broad of toe, modeled after a tennis shoe, and it comes in all kinds of proper shoe materials.

And always above it appears a heavy ribbed and striped silk stocking. Some of these knitted luxuries cost $15 a pair. Thin silk stockings are considered quite out of harmony with this kind of a footwear.

With an attack of pneumonia for two weeks, is improving very nicely. Rev. E. M. Stagle of Pioneer, O., is expected to be at the Menomonee church to hold special services Saturday and Sunday, at which time several new members will be received into the church, including Mr. and Mrs. Snyder and Mr. and Mrs. Ira Fuhrman.

INSPECTION OF DAY NURSERY ON FRIDAY

Work of King's Daughters May Be Examined by the Public.

A public inspection of the day nursery, corner of Fairfield and Berry street, will be held Friday afternoon, from 3 to 5 o'clock. The doors will be open to all and anyone may visit it. The nursery, which is operated by Opportunity circle of King's Daughters, was started in June, 1915, and was at that time located in the building of the Fort Wayne Congregational church donated the use of the building at the present site and the College club furnished the interior. At the present time more than a dozen children are cared for every day. Miss Margaret Vesey is president of Opportunity circle. The rules of the nursery are as follows:

White children, eight years of age and under, may be left at the Day Nursery any day except Sunday, and time after 6:30 a. m., and must be called for before 6:30 p. m. Children are expected to be sent to nursery clean and fully dressed.

Children are under the direct supervision of the matron and are subject to her discipline.

Children are provided with a noon meal.

If babies require special food, the same should be provided by the parent.

Children over six years of age shall attend school during the school term, returning to the nursery at noon and at the close of school.

For each child a charge of 15 cents per day, or any part thereof, is made. Special cases will be referred to a committee.

Children suffering from contagious diseases shall be excluded.

Clothes furnished children during the day must not be taken from nursery.

Madrid, the capital of Spain, is to have a subway. The total cost of the work is estimated at about $6,000,000.

CHAMPION MERMAID EXPLAINS WATER STROKES FOR BEGINNERS INCREASE YOUR ENJOYMENT OF LIFE BY LEARNING HOW TO SWIM

Any Girl Can Learn to Swim—All It Takes is a Little Courage—Begin With the Old Reliable Breast Stroke Which is Slow But Sure and Can Be Practiced on the Floor at Home.

(By MISS VALLERY MAHN.)

(Western Aquatic Marvel.)

I am asked by so many girls: "How did you learn to swim? How can I learn? Is it very hard?"

The questions are most numerous at this time of the year. Vacation time and the summer months are here—the season when one misses so much fun from not knowing how to swim.

I have not time to tell them all what I may know of swimming, as I am going to here. But I do tell them that it is very, very easy.

A little knowledge, courage and an ordinary physique will enable any girl to learn the breast stroke so quickly and easily that she will be astonished for not having started sooner.

Of the athletic diversions open to girls, swimming probably is the best, particularly out-of-door swimming. It is just the sort of exercise a woman needs, developing elastic, smooth, sinuous muscles.

Good swimmers are notably symmetrical, lithe and flexible. You never see an ungainly swimming champion. Besides being so genuinely enjoyable, swimming is unequalled as a health producer.

Fair Operator Aids Cupid in New Game

MISS ENID POPPE.

Dan Cupid's agent in San Francisco is Miss Enid Poppe, telegraph operator in one of the downtown office buildings.

Miss Poppe acts as the God of Love's representative in romantic transactions between girls and men in the office district in which she works.

"This is for Mr. Blank," says a pretty stenographer, handing Miss Poppe a sweetly scented note. "He will call for it."

A little later Mr. Blank steps into the lobby where Miss Poppe is stationed.

"Anything for me today?" he inquires. She looks over her stock of letters and hands him one. At noon the two "interested parties" meet for lunch and maybe arrange an engagement for the evening.

"It's lots of fun," is Miss Poppe's verdict. "They leave all sorts of things with me—candy, flowers, books, notes. It makes me glad to make other persons happy."

"WAKE UP, AMERICA," IS THEIR SLOGAN

Christian Citizenship Institute at Winona July 22-28.

"Wake Up America" is the slogan of the Christian Citizenship Institute which is to be held on the assembly grounds at Winona Lake, Ind., July 23 to 28, under the direction of the National Reform Association of Pittsburgh, Pa., of which James S. Martin is the general superintendent.

The governors of twenty-five states and national patriotic organizations have recently appointed delegates to a conference of speakers at Chautauque, N. Y., on patriotic subjects. Those who attended the conference and others engaged with them will carry the message of patriotism and loyal service to every state in the union, conducting a campaign for the education of the people concerning the duties of Americans during the war.

The Christian Citizenship Institute will be a factor in this national campaign. It will bring together at Winona picked men and women who are interested in the moral as well as the material welfare of America to confer together and to receive inspiration from speakers of national influence. The main themes to be considered are: "The Perils and Safeguards of America," "Christianity and the World War," "The Road to World Peace," "The New World Order Subsequent to the War," "The Mormon Menace." The institute is not a delegated body, but is open to all.

Some of the forces, men and movements within our country that are regarded as a menace to our republic will be considered at the institute and means suggested for combating them. Delegates will also be elected to the Third World's Christian Citizenship Conference, to be held in Pittsburgh, Pa., the first week of July, 1918, under the leadership of the National Reform Association. The last of these conferences was held in Portland, Ore., in 1913, with seventeen countries represented on its program and fifteen thousand people in attendance. It is expected to double both the representation and attendance at the 1918 conference.

FORT WAYNE MAN IN AUTO ACCIDENT

Car Driven by Herman Jones, of This City, Goes in a Ditch Near Bluffton.

(Special to The Sentinel.)

Bluffton, July 12.—A Saxon touring car driven by Herman Jones, of the Becker Motor Car company, of Fort Wayne, was badly damaged when it went into the ditch near the Al Popeloy farm, east of Bluffton, late Tuesday evening. The driver and two young women who were with him in the car were uninjured. The auto was driven too far to the side of the road in passing another machine and the wheels skidded in the grass sending the car into the ditch. The rear end of the machine struck a telephone pole. An interurban car on the B. G. & C. Traction company line was seen in pulling the car from the ditch.

Pompeian HAIR Massage
Stops Dandruff—Hair Coming Out

The success of Pompeian HAIR Massage is in the "massage" idea. It is a treatment, not merely a tonic. The massaging (rubbing) of the scalp wakes up the roots of the hair to new life. This massaging also opens the pores of the scalp to the wonderfully stimulating liquids in Pompeian HAIR Massage. Dandruff goes. Your hair will become and stay healthy, vigorous and attractive.

Pompeian HAIR Massage is a clear amber liquid (not a cream). Not oily. Not sticky. Very pleasant to use. 25c, 50c and $1 bottles, at the store.

MEN—Have your barber give you a treatment, and prove to yourself how refreshed your scalp feels by one application.

Don't hesitate to use Pompeian HAIR Massage. It is made by the old and reliable makers of Pompeian MASSAGE Cream and Pompeian NIGHT Cream.

Agne, Bayr, Detschell, Hartman, John, Keller, Kinder, Leppner, Mills, Rogge, Schlebecker, Smith, Welch. Absent, none.

The minutes of the last regular session having been read and approved, on motion, approved as published.

MAYOR'S COMMUNICATION.

Fort Wayne, Ind., July 10, 1917. To the Honorable Common Council: Gentlemen: I have approved the following ordinance passed at my regular session of June 26th, 1917:

Ordinance No. 606. An ordinance appropriating $2,000 to the sewer repair account.

General Ordinance No. 789. An ordinance naming the street connecting Ord and Semler Divides, in Harrison Hill Addition, Radial Lane.

General Ordinance No. 790. An ordinance approving a contract with the General Electric Company.

Yours respectfully,
W. A. J. HOEGER, Mayor.

Ordered spread on record.

REPORT OF COMMITTEE ON STREETS

Members of the Common Council: Gentlemen: Your Committee on Streets and Alleys to which was referred the following resolution, adopted by the Board of Public Works on the 12th day of April, 1917, to improve the sidewalks on both sides of Killea street from Calhoun Street to Hoagland Avenue, according to the plans and specifications therefor on file in the office of the Board of Public Works, the cost thereof to be assessed upon the real estate abutting on said Killea Street above described, and

Whereas, on May 17, 1917, a majority of the resident freeholders upon that part of Killea street described, filed with said Board of Public Works a remonstrance, signed by them, against the making of said improvement; now therefore,

Section 1. Be it ordained by the Common Council of the City of Fort Wayne, Indiana, that the sidewalks on both sides of Killea street from Calhoun Street to Hoagland Avenue be and the same is hereby improved by the paving of the sidewalks thereof according to the plans and specifications on file in the office of the Board of Public Works, and the said Board of Public Works is hereby authorized and directed to cause said improvement to be made in accordance with the provisions of an act entitled "An Act to Consolidate Municipal Corporations," passed by the general assembly of the State of Indiana at the 64th regular session

Section 2. This ordinance to be in full force and effect from and after its passage and approval of the Mayor.

The ordinance was read the third time in full and on motion the ordinance was referred to the Committee on Streets and Alleys.

PETITION.

Fort Wayne, Ind. To the Board of Public Works and Common Council of the City of Fort Wayne, Indiana:

Gentlemen: We, the undersigned, living or owning lots in the neighborhood of South Wayne Avenue, from Organ Avenue south to Boerger Street, respectfully petition that you order a pavement put down on South Wayne Avenue, from Organ Avenue to Rudisill Boulevard.

Your petitioners represent that that section of the city is growing with great rapidity, and the class of homes are being erected that very materially add to the taxable value of the city; that street car lines are so badly needed that the growth of that section will be seriously crippled without them; that the Street Railway Company has agreed to extend its line if South Wayne Avenue is ordered paved; that the water mains have already been laid in preparation for this purpose; that the Board of Public Works, on the petition of a large number of persons living or owning property in that vicinity, recently ordered a pavement put down on South Wayne Avenue, from Organ Avenue to Rudisill Boulevard; that there are but three resident property holders upon that part of the avenue proposed to be paved and, unfortunately, two of these were sufficient to defeat the confirmation of the resolution, thereby depriving the whole neighborhood, including the large institution known as the Bible School, and which improvement, under the promise of the street car company, included the extension of street car facilities.

We respectfully petition that the Common Council shall pass an ordinance for the paving of South Wayne Avenue, notwithstanding the remonstrance of two resident property holders against it.

ROBERT W. NELSON AND OTHERS.

Introduced by J. B. Mills.
Ordered spread on record and referred to Committee on Streets and Alleys.

PETITION.

Fort Wayne, Ind. To the Board of Public Works of the City of Fort Wayne:

Gentlemen: We appreciate the declaration made by the Honorable Board by President Fustel of our city traction company, that if the property owners on South Wayne Avenue desire the paving of that street and the extension of the street car line from Organ Avenue south to the city limits, his company will not stand in the way of the improvement.

That there may be no mistake as to our wishes in the matter, the undersigned property owners desire to do respectfully petition that the improvement of this street, already ordered, be proceeded with at all possible dispatch.

AND TWENTY OTHERS.

Introduced by J. B. Mills.
Ordered spread on record and referred to Committee on Streets and Alleys.

GENERAL ORDINANCE NO.

An Ordinance Ordering the Improvement of South Wayne Avenue, from the South Property Line of Organ Avenue to the North Property Line of Rudisill Boulevard.

Whereas, Heretofore on the 21st day of May, 1917, the Board of Public Works duly adopted a resolution deeming it necessary to improve South Wayne Avenue, from the south property line of Organ Avenue to the north property line of Rudisill Boulevard, as set forth in said resolution so adopted by the Board of Public Works of the City of Fort Wayne above referred to, and

Whereas, on the 28th day of June, 1917, a majority of the resident freeholders upon that part of South Wayne Avenue, from the south property line of Organ Avenue to the north line of Rudisill Boulevard, filed with the Board of Public Works a remonstrance signed by them against the making of said improvement; therefore,

Section 1. Be it ordained by the Common Council of the City of Fort Wayne, Indiana, that a necessity existing there-

GENTRY BROS. CARRY NOTED VETERINARIAN

People who love horses, ponies and dogs—and there are few of us who do not—may be interested in the news that this year Gentry Brothers are carrying with their famous shows a veterinarian, a highly specialized surgeon and practitioner, who explains to visitors interested in animals how Gentry Brothers carry over 200 ponies on the road and never have any ill for any length of time. This is true of the Gentry horses and dogs also, to say nothing of the other animals in the interesting menagerie of the circus.

The veterinary surgeon is Dr. Samuel A. Bradley, who invites stockmen to visit him at the circus grounds at South Calhoun and Parkland avenue, on Monday, July 16, when Gentry Brothers' famous shows come to town.

Not only does Dr. Bradley tell how the Gentry animals are kept in the superb condition for which they are renowned, but he will tell how to keep your horses, ponies and dogs in the same wonderful condition.

TWO KILLED WHEN TROLLEY HITS AUTO

Well Known Bryan Attorney and Proprietor of a Bus Line Are the Victims.

Butler, Ind., July 12.—Attorney R. L. Starr, 60 years old, a prominent attorney of Bryan, Ohio, and former law partner of Judge Bowersox, and John A. Jaymes, proprietor of an automobile bus line, were killed yesterday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock when a T. & I. Interurban car hit the automobile in which they were riding. The accident occurred at what is known as stop No. 84 out of Bryan. Another man, an inspector for the Interurban company, was seriously hurt.

The party was on its way to Stryker, Ohio, to investigate an accident that occurred there on July the Fourth when three people were killed and many other injured.

The occupants in the automobile saw the approaching Interurban car. Jaymes, proprietor of an auto bus line, was driving and was warned by Starr that he did not think he could get across. Jaymes assured him that he could, making no attempt to stop. Just as they reached the crossing the Interurban car struck them. Starr and Jaymes were killed instantly and the third occupant was seriously injured. He was later removed to a hospital at Wauspsen.

Attorney Starr is survived by a widow, son Robert and daughter, Louise. Jaymes leaves a family.

PIONEER VICTIM OF CANCER.

Lagrange, Ind., July 12.—James Oliver, said to be the oldest continuous resident of Lagrange county, is dead at the home of his granddaughter, Mrs. Joseph Spero, the result of cancer of the face. He had been afflicted for many years. The deceased was born in October, 1835, in Stark county, Ohio, and was brought here by his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Oliver, when but two years old.

GOES TO ST. LOUIS.

Decatur, Ind., July 12.—Rev. F. G. Rogers, for two years and eight months pastor of the local Baptist church, will preach his last sermon here next Sunday morning, having tendered his resignation here to take effect at that time, which the board accepted, that he might accept the call to the Calvary Baptist church at St. Louis, Mo., which he has had under consideration for the past eight weeks. He and his family will leave here about July 19.

288 MEN IN DEKALB.

Auburn, Ind., July 12.—That 288 men between the ages of 21 and 30 will be drawn in Dekalb county for military draft within the next ten days is evident from statements given out from Provost Marshal General Crowder's office at Washington that one man in every seven will be drawn. Of these not quite one-half will be called to service, a total of about 135.

DISSOLVING A MONOPOLY

Chicago Court Divorces C. U. and A. T. & T. Companies.

COURT HOLDS BELL SYSTEM MONOPOLY

Central Union Must Be Operated as Independent Company.

Chicago, July 12.—By a decree of the Cook county superior court the Central Union Telephone company, operating in Illinois, Indiana and Ohio, has been divorced from the American Telephone and Telegraph company and all stock held in the former company by the latter has been ordered sold at public auction.

The decree, which was entered yesterday by Judge W. E. Dever, directs the Central Union company to operate as a separate, independent company. It is said to derive an annual income of nearly $10,000,000 from 370,000 stations. The decree is similar to an opinion given in the case by Judge Dever last January.

The court holds that the Bell system is a monopoly and has been since its establishment and orders that all notes of the Central Union Telephone and Telegraph company, amounting to more than $10,000,000, be surrendered and cancelled.

The court further orders an accounting against the A. T. & T. company in favor of the independent company for wrongful diversion of business, for unfair treatment in payment of so-called "originating commission."

MAGNETIC HEALER

CLAIMED BY DEATH

Anton C. Lisner, 70, Had Run Sanitarium for Six Years.

Anton C. Lisner, aged 70 years, died Wednesday night at his home, 1905 West Main street. Death was caused by a complication of diseases. The deceased was the well-known magnetic healer. He was born in Saxony in 1847 and came to America twenty-three years ago. He came almost immediately to Fort Wayne. For seventeen years he was employed as a knitter. At the end of that time he established his magnetic healing sanitarium on West Main street and had been in that business ever since. Surviving relatives are the widow, one son, Adolph, and one daughter, Mrs. Paul Frankenstein.

LUDLOW.

Louise Ludlow, aged 68 years, died at a local hospital Thursday morning. The remains were removed to the Schone & Ankenbruck parlors, where funeral services will be held at a time to be announced later.

HAVE YOU GOT YOURS?

Washington, July 12.—There is one automobile for every 23 inhabitants in the United States, according to figures for last year made public by the federal public roads bureau today. Iowa, with one car for every 11 persons, led the country in the number of machines registered in proportion to population. Arkansas, with one automobile for every 116 is at the foot of the list.

The Turner ladies will have a pedo and bunco party in their hall in West Superior street on Friday afternoon.

CITY OFFICERS ARE PREPARING BUDGETS

Figures Will Run Higher for All Departments in 1918.

The annual mathematical exercise is on at the city hall. Making the variable X, which represents the expenditures for the coming year, equal the amount Y, the sum to be had for conducting the city business, is the effort now under way.

City Controller Baade has ordered that budgets from all city departments be in as soon as possible. The action upon the figures made out must be made on August 1. Controller Baade states in his order to city officers. The council will act upon the budget at the first meeting in August.

Figures in all departments will run higher for next year, it is explained in every office. Higher cost of materials is a reason. Demands for more improvements is another contributing force. Repair of the green houses will add nearly $10,000 to the park board's numerals.

Members of the board of public works began their whittling at the stock of figures at hand soon after the order from the controller was received Thursday. Many cuts are being made upon the works department and if all requests were met the entire allotment would be used for that branch alone.

STILL UP IN AIR.

No Action Attempted in Park Board Matter.

Nobody knows what will be the outcome of the small tempest which was stirred up when Carl J. Gatz, city forester and park superintendent, announced that he would resign from the city service. The latest movement is to combine the offices of park board secretary and the park superintendent, with Mr. Gatz filling both places. "The work cannot be done by one man," says Charles J. Steiss, secretary to the commission.

"One man could handle both places," stated Mr. Gatz Thursday morning.

Abe Ackerman, member of the park board, stated definitely Thursday that no action on the matter had been taken and no new plans will be made until the return of Colonel D. N. Foster, head of the park board, who will be in Indianapolis for several days.

"We had not heard of the plan to combine the two offices until this matter was placed before us by a newspaper man," said Mr. Ackerman. "We have not thought seriously of the plan."

The following statement, pertaining to the present situation, is given by Carl Gatz:

"I sincerely regret the great notoriety and hoped the matter would be decided on its merits. The board refused to accept my resignation and asked me to remain at a definite figure and now a compromise, all of which must be ratified by the council to become effective. The members of the board are thorough business gentlemen and I feel the situation very keenly. I do not blame the council for deliberating, for an advice act on their part causes public condemnation. From the applications received it is evident that a competent, experienced new park superintendent cannot be secured for the figure set by the board as fair compensation for the work. I hope that the matter will be speedily disposed of."

GIVE NO DECISION.

Mayor and City Attorney Attend Gas Meeting.

Mayor W. J. Hosey and City Attorney Guy Colerick attended the hearing of the gas companies of the state before the public service commission in Indianapolis, Wednesday. The city officials are opposed to plans of the gas corporation, which they believe will lower the standard of gas heating.

One of the proposals of the gas companies is that meters be tested every five years. Mayor Hosey is battling for the right of the consumer to have his meter tested whenever he desires, by paying a dollar service fee. City officers from several parts of the state were in Indianapolis appearing against the proposed measures. The commission made no decision.

PARK CONCERT.

Program to Be Given Friday by Citizens Band.

The park board concert Friday evening, July 13, will be given at Swinney park by the Citizens band, Paul Rietsech, director, and the following program will be rendered: March—National Defense.....Lampo Overture—The Kink Pin.....Taylor Extracoe—Bewitching Beauty.....Laurendeau Selection—"Alma Where Do You Live".....Briquet Patrol—The Blue and Gray.....Dalbey Rag—Ole Virginny.....Zamecnik Selection—So Long Letty.....Carroll Star Spangled Banner.....Key

Expect to Finish Soon.

State accountants, who are going over the books of the city light department, expect to have their task completed in a few days. The public auditors have been at work at the office of the department for several weeks, following the resignation of John Wessel, as manager of the plant. No discrepancies have been found in the records as yet, which bears out the statement made by Wessel to the effect that he placed $5,000 in the safe for every bit of the $5,000 he converted to his own use.

Clearing Park Grounds.

Park Superintendent Gatz, with a crew of workmen, is clearing the city college grounds, corner of Lewis and Clinton streets, for immediate use. Wire fencing for the south part of the grounds has been ordered.

by the park board. The city plat will be thrown open to the public in a few days.

Sewer Progressing.
The Brooks Construction company is well under way with work of building the sewer under the Coombs street elevation. When the drain is finished the elevation construction will be completed.

Draft List In.

Lists of the conscriptable men and their numbers have been sent to the adjutant general of Indiana. The duplicated cards were sent out Wednesday night. Fort Wayne was the last city in the state to send in her revised lists. A word was received Wednesday noon that utmost speed was necessary as Fort Wayne was holding up the report of the entire state.

HARK, PRETTY GIRLS, WE PRESENT A BARON

"I Love the Ladies" Sings Noble Who Urges Fight.

Curly blond locks, bright blue eyes, rosy complexion, sunny disposition and a desire for a title.

BARON DR. DE OGLER.

baron in the city who wishes a smile from you.

"American girls, men die, I love them," he told a Sentinel reporter, Thursday. "I am ready to marry the right one at any time!"

Baron Dr. de Ogler, son of one of the oldest Roumanian families is the subject. Coal black hair, a spry walk, a new cane and a wealth of army experiences to relate, is a part of the interesting things about the baron.

He is stopping at the Anthony hotel. He will give a public reception in the parlors of the hotel on Friday morning, from 9 o'clock until 11:30. He will arrange for the proper introduction and would like to meet all of Fort Wayne's pretty girls at that time.

Over in the province of Jaffe, Roumania, the baron did have an estate. He hopes to gain control of the manor farm after the war. There is a large villa and many rows of grape arbors, taken by much blood shed by the baron's progenitors.

The stern subject of war is the mission of the titled gentleman to the city. He was formerly an officer in the Fourth regiment Austrian Royal Dragoons. He was wounded in the battle of Schabatz, on December 18, 1914. When he recovered from his injuries he came to America.

After the world conflict the baron may become a democratic American citizen. He has taken out his first papers. He is enthusiastic about America's cause in the titanic conflict. He is giving daily recruiting talks at the court house.

But back to the original subject. "I don't care if she doesn't have a dollar. If she is pretty and of just the right sort I will try and make a living for her," says the baron about the matter.

WILL DISCUSS NEED OF NEW CONSTITUTION

Mass Meeting to Be Held at New Haven Saturday Evening.

A mass meeting of all citizens, both men and women, will be held in New Haven Saturday evening at 7:30 o'clock, standard time, at which time Attorney David Hogg, of this city, will speak upon the subject, "The Needs of a New Constitution in Indiana," and Mrs. Augusta Hughton, of New York, will speak upon "Suffrage in Indiana."

There will be three notable public present to register—both men and women free of charge for the election of delegates to new constitutional convention to be held in September.

TO DEAL WITH CAR SHORTAGE

Division of Car Service is Created by Interstate Commerce Board.

WILL HAVE A WIDE RANGE OF DUTIES

Will Regulate Car Service by Direct Orders to the Carriers.

Washington, July 12.—Creation of a division of car service to deal with the movement, distribution, exchange, interchange and return of freight cars was announced today by the interstate commerce commission. E. H. Degroot has been appointed chief of the division. A. G. Guthrie will have executive charge of the organization and its operation assisted by H. C. Barlow.

Through this division the commission will regulate car service throughout the country through direct orders to the carriers, with the purpose of dealing with car shortage and seeing that the troops, war materials and necessary supplies are moved rapidly.

Federal Supervision.

The creation of the new division, which is the first definite government steps for permanent supervision over traffic movements, is in accordance with the car service act approved May 29, amending the act to regulate commerce.

The urgent necessity for regulation in the distribution of cars has been pointed out to the commission many times by both shippers and carriers. Despite the efforts of the railroads certain sections have suffered more than others from shortage.

The carriers have appointed local car service committees at 25 points and the national industrial traffic league has named similar bodies representing shippers at the same points.

NO FURTHER RELIANCE ON BORROWED SCALES

Leo Market Woman Gets Costly Lesson in Neighborly Kindness.

If Mrs. Mary Klinger, Leo farm woman, comes to the city market again she will bring her own set of scales. She stated so definitely in city court Thursday morning. She will not trust to borrowed property in disposing of her produce any more, she says.

Mrs. Klinger, a widow, was fined $10 and costs on a charge of giving short weight on the market. Several women testified that she sold them a pound of butter and represented the package to be a pound and a quarter. Saleswoman told that he had weighed the butter and found it under weight.

The defendant argued that she had made use of the scales of the woman who operated the stand next to hers on the market. The fault is in the other woman's scales, Mrs. Klinger attempted to convince the court. The farm woman who ran the stand to the north of the defendant's said that her scales were correct and that Mrs. Klinger paid her own weighing. Mrs. Klinger paid her fine.

"I will get some scales of my own," she ruefully said.

CHIPPEWA INDIANS

BESTOW SUFFRAGE

Beidjidi, Minn., July 12.—After refusing chiefs of the tribe representation in their council on the ground that modern Indians are democrats and not monarchists, Minnesota Chippewa Indians in council here today gave the suffrage to women.

The fight revolved about Cora Coffey, a stenographer, 23 years old, employed by the United States government at the Fond du Lac reservation, who is the solitary woman delegate. Older Indians objected to her being seated on the ground that the innovation was dangerous. "Equal rights," however, were championed by the younger element, who are in control. One of the interesting characters at the convention is Captain John Smith, of Cass Lake, who is said to be 129 years old.

WILL AGAIN SHOW HOW TO CAN FRUIT

Another canning demonstration in connection with the food relief work of the city will be held on Wednesday afternoon, July 18, at the Trinity Episcopal church. Several women, who have made a careful study of the science of canning, will be in charge of the exhibit and demonstration.

NEUTRAL CONGRESS POSTPONED.

Buenos Aires, Argentina, July 12.—The congress of neutral South American nations to formulate a common policy in respect to problems arising from the war, has been postponed indefinitely.

HUSBAND, 79, SUES WIFE, 72, FOR DIVORCE

John N. Kress Says His Wife Refuses to Cook His Meals for Him.

John N. Kress, 79 years old, filed suit in superior court Thursday afternoon asking for a divorce from Mary E. Kress, 72 years old. Kress is represented by Samuel A. Konnerk.

Mr. and Mrs. Kress were married on July 11, 1913, and separated April 26, 1917. The plaintiff is employed as an elevator operator. He sets forth in his complaint that his wife has frequently refused to prepare his meals in the evening when he would come home from work and on divers times he was compelled to cook his own meals. He also alleges that she would go away from home and stay until late in the evening.

On April 26, 1917, he charges that she packed all of the things belonging to her in their home and shipped the same to Newark, N. J., without his consent.

WANT LIEN FORECLOSED.

Bass Company Brings Suit Against Mitchell Mining Company.

Suit has been filed in the circuit court by the Bass Foundry and Machine company against the Mitchell Mining company and others for $1,800 and the foreclosure of a lien. The company claims that on and prior to May 1, 1917 it constructed and manufactured a tandem compound engine which the defendants paid for, the title thereby passing to it. Inasmuch as the defendants were not ready to receive it, they asked the plaintiff to care and store same, which it agreed to do upon the understanding that the mining company pay a reasonable compensation for storage. The plaintiff alleged it cared for the engine for 122 months and that a reasonable charge therefor was $5 a month and was compelled to insure the engine at a cost of $562.45. Judgment of $1,600 is asked with the request that same may be adjudged a lien against the engine and such lien foreclosed and property sold for payment of the amount.

FAILS TO PROVIDE.

Because he failed to make proper provision for her maintenance, Dessolie M. Calhoun has brought suit in the superior court asking for divorce from Edwin Calhoun. She is represented by Attorneys Ryan, Ryan & Adrich. Failure to provide is not all Mrs. Calhoun charges. In addition to being cruel and inhuman, she alleges that on various occasions her husband has conducted himself in a manner unbecoming a married man. She is asking for the custody of their only child, Ada May, one and one-half years old. Mr. and Mrs. Calhoun were married on May 26, 1913, and separated on July 10, 1917.

Ditch Established.
The county commissioners Thursday established the Ackerman ditch in St. Joe township.

Wants Receiver Appointed.
Charles Clark, through his attorney, Howard Benninghoff, has filed suit in the circuit court against Dan Valos, James Stephens, John Lampron and John Floras, owners of "The Splendid Restaurant," for collection of $100 alleged to be due on account and the appointment of a receiver.

Twenty-two Calls.
The local branch of the state employment bureau at the court house has twenty-two calls on file for farm hands. Farmers of the country are greatly in need of help.

Petition for Drainage.
Ten interested property owners have filed a petition in the superior court asking for the establishment of a drainage in Pleasant township. The petition was filed by Straus Bros. & Co., by Abe Ackerman, vice president; Fred Scherer, Elizabeth Scherer, by F. S. Scherer, attorney; Mary Mitchell, J. F. Meyers, Frederick D. King, Pearl King and Marshal M. Wellbaum. The petitioners are represented by Macbeth & Hogg.

Two Decrees Granted.
Decrees for divorce have been awarded by Judge Carl Taple in the superior court to Paul Boone from Otis Boone, and Clarence J. Bricker from Mabel Bricker.

Divorce Case Finished.
After a hearing continuing since Wednesday morning the suit for divorce brought by Viola Archibald against John D. Archibald, was finished in the superior court Thursday afternoon. The defendant had filed a cross complaint. Mrs. Archibald is asking for the custody of the two children and $1,500 alimony.

Notes of the Courts.
Relatives of Silas Corson, who is under arrest, charged with attempted assault upon a little girl, have engaged Attorney Hans C. Meiland to defend him when the case is taken up in the circuit court.

The Citizens' Trust company has filed its final report in the matter of the guardianship of Anna Knobel, a person of unsound mind. Judgment in the sum of $143.75 has been awarded the Citizens' Trust company against Leonard V. Likens in the superior court.

The Audio Manufacturing company has purchased from the receiver the property of the Anylie Electric Regulator company for $1,350. There are claims against the defendant company amounting to $5,597.

A judgment for $53.90 has been awarded the plaintiff in the case of the Standard Oil company against Carl L. Sowers and George W. Sowers.

Judgment for $54.92 has been awarded in the superior court to Leo E. Bartman against Charles L. Carmelle.

TRACTION COMPANY BUYS A COAL MINE

Will Furnish Its Employees With Fuel at Greatly Reduced Prices.

The Fort Wayne & Northern Traction company has purchased part interest in a southern Indiana coal mine and as a result will offer to the employees of the company coal at a much cheaper figure than it could be secured elsewhere.

The company has asked that all employees who desire coal notify company officials at once. The coal will then be delivered to the employees at the nearest shipping point and it will be given to them for the exact cost of production, plus the freight.

FIRST BRITISH WOMAN TO WORK AS A DIPLOMAT

London, July 12.—One of the British representatives at the recent Anglo-German conference at The Hague, in reference to war prisoners, was Mrs. Darley Livingston, younger American wife of a British officer, and secretary of a government committee concerning the treatment of British prisoners in enemy country. She is the first woman to have been engaged in diplomatic negotiations in behalf of Great Britain.

Summary of the Day's War News

General Brussiloff's offensive in Galicia is developing into a drive with little or no let-up, at least so far as the part it played by General Korniloff's armies is concerned.

Yesterday's news of the capture of Halex was followed today by the announcement that General Korniloff's troops had pushed on beyond Lesiuvka, southwest of Stanislaw, and reached and occupied Kalusz, a city of 8,000 population, seven miles to the west of the Stoka river. The Austro-German headquarters in this sector was situated here. Kalusz was stubbornly defended, but after a sanguinary battle the Russians pushed into the town and according to advices from Petrograd they are continuing their advance after having taken a large number of prisoners.

The German attack on Monday on the Belgian coast ceased with the capture of the small sector east of the Yser, which the Germans had devastated with their intensive gunfire. Neither last night's or today's British official announcement records any further fighting of moment in this region, although the artillery is continuing active. A German raid near Lombarzyde was driven off by the British.

On the Verdun front the German crown prince made a number of attacks on both banks of the Meuse. All these assaults, delivered in the vicinity of Hill 304 on the one side of the stream and north of the Harcourt work on the other, were repulsed by the French, as were attacks on the Aisne front south of Juvincourt and in the region of the Tripluon plateau.

ROTARY CLUB TO BE ACTIVE

Organization Will Give Attention to Military Camp Work.

Boy Scout Movement Will Also Be Helped During Coming Year.

The Fort Wayne Rotarians are planning for a splendid season of work beginning with the opening of the club calendar early in the fall. This will include definite plans to assist the government in purifying conditions about military training camps which include not only the excluding of immoral influences but the provision in a large way of the means of entertainment, recreation and mental development of the men in the camps. The boy scout movement will also receive attention of the clubs in general and will doubtless claim the earnest consideration of the local organization, backed by the big general movement of the clubs of international Rotary. The club has engaged a number of men of national renown to speak before its members beginning with the opening of the fall season.

Rain and Rotary Garden.

President Robert Koerber, of the Fort Wayne club, is wondering what possible connection there may be between the daily downpour of rain and the plans of the club to go in a body to work in the club's big garden east of the city limits. "Therefore," says Mr. Koerber, "I wish, through the newspapers, to announce to the club members that we will no longer try to do our gardening in bunches, but I will urge every member to give his potatoes and beans personal attention at such times as he may be able to get away from his other duties. The garden idea is a splendid one. We found, during the big international convention at Atlanta that the idea of a Rotary garden is not at all original with the Fort Wayne club, but that other clubs in various parts of the country are doing the same thing, many of them on a larger scale than we have undertaken, and the movement is considered one of the finest expressions of service at the present time. We want the Fort Wayne garden to play its part."

WELL KNOWN JURIST DIES.

Kingston, N. Y., July 12.—Rufus Hildreth Thayer, of Albany, who was a judge in the United States court for China from 1909 to 1913, and former judge advocate general of the national guard of the District of Columbia, died here today, a few hours after being stricken with apoplexy. He was serving as chairman of the Schoorle-Shandaken condemnation commission under a recent appointment.

ONCE NOTED BOXER DEAD.

Middleboro, Mass., July 12.—Michael J. Cavanaugh, known in the sporting world as Mike Glover, a widely known boxer, died at a hospital here last night after a long illness. He was at one time considered by many sporting writers as the welterweight champion of the country. He was born in Lawrence in 1890.

SEVENTH LESSON

PREPARED BY MME. ARCHINARD

I wish to see Sergeant —
Je voudrais voir le sergent —
Juh voodray vwar luh savrian —

Will he get better? —
Se guerira-t-il? —
Suh gayreera-teel?

When have you been wounded? —
Quand avez-vous été blessé? —
Kang away voo zayta blasā?

At what time is the dressing? —
A quelle heure le pansement? —
Ä kell ühr luh pansuhman?

In these lessons the English sentence appears in the first line, the French equivalent in the second and the pronunciation in the third line. In the pronunciation key, straight lines over the letters A and U denote the long sound, as in "hat" and "blue"; curved lines over these letters denote the short sound, as in "but" and "up"; two dots over the U indicate a sound somewhat like the German "ue", which Americans may approach by pronouncing long U and long E at the same time. Cut out these lessons and paste them in your note book. The purpose here is merely to give the young men who may serve with the army in France such a knowledge of French as will make simple words known and some sort of friendly intercourse with French people and soldiers possible. No attempt is made to teach the grammar of the language.

Homer By Mathes Closes Last Game Disastrously

Grand Rapids Takes the Series on the Strength of One Hard Blow.

Had Ump Daley called it off on account of rain when the fans and most of the players wanted him to, that Daley is very much averse to any advice in carrying out his official duties and the more the bugs yelled, the more determined he was to stand out there and get wet just to finish the game. It was finished, score 3 to 2, with Grand Rapids up.

Everything happened in the ninth, after one was down. Kowalski was pitching a hard game with all kinds of hops and breaks in the ball. He had the visitors swinging their arms off trying to take one poke at the ball, all in vain. One was out in the ninth and Carey was walked. He stole second, but might as well have saved himself the trouble, for the hard-hitting Mathes was the next in line. Mathes connected with one and it started sailing towards the right field fence. Gleich went up the hill, watched the pill go over the fence and then sat down to think it over. The two runs put Grand Rapids in the lead and the Chiefs could not come through.

Early in the game, when they were in the lead, the Chiefs were breaking their necks to get the game far enough along to claim it when the rain started in earnest. In this way they passed up several chances which might have been worth the game to them. Several times players were around to third and a little head work might have sent them in, but the Chiefs were playing the weather just then and had no time for anything else.

Grand Rapids started the scoring in the second inning. With one down Miller connected for a double, was held on second when Cullins popped out, but finished the circuit on Brant's single to Siegfried. In the last half of the inning Gleason made his debut and if that was a sample of his opening stuff, he can be a debutante all season as far as we are concerned. It was a three-bagger and a bird, between center and left. Kelly, the bald-headed first sacker followed with a double, sending Gleason home. Brown bunted down the third base line but a wild leave left him alive at first, while Kelly scored. Brown took second on a passed ball and went to third on Gleason's single. Kowalski blew but Braux received a pass, loading them up with only one down. Siegfried then lined one to right on which Brown should have scored, but the shortstop was leading clear off and couldn't get back and start over enough. A triple steal was started but Smith in trying to aid it, popped out and the golden opportunity was lost.

Right there the battle with the weather started. The Chiefs with Kowalski hurling had little trouble putting the visitors away in quick order, but in the meantime they getting several chances themselves. The chances were received in a half-hearted manner and as a result no scoring was done. Daley was expected to call quits on account of the drizzle at any time, but Daley fooled them and the game went along to the ninth.

The sad story of the first part of the ninth has already been related. In the last of the ninth it was do or die. We died. Roberts was sent to the bullpen to warm, an impossible job in the midst of the rain, and Vandagriff went in to hit for Kowalski after two were down. Vandy tapped one to the infield and arrived at first several seconds after the ball, thus ending the ball game.

Interest in the Sunset league of the General Electric works is growing keener every day. Games are being played Tuesday and Thursday and the results are being watched closely all through the large plant. The apprentices are leading the league, having played but one game, and won this one. They are followed closely by the Meters, who have lost but one out of four.

One of the hardest games yet played was that between the Warehouse and Tool-makers at Foster park Tuesday night. The game, which was scheduled for seven innings, went nine with the Warehouse winning in the last 8 to 6. At Lawton park Tuesday evening the Meters defeated the Apparatus team 10 to 2.

Managers of the office club announced that Scruggs, the University of Wisconsin catcher, who hit 1,000 in the last game, has clinched his position. He was being rushed by M. J. Misner, formerly with the Wheeler, Ind., club. A new pitcher, Cooper, who formerly played on the fast Nordyke and Marnon club of Indianapolis, is expected to report soon with the office outfit.

His home is in East Grand Forks, Minn.

Norman Ross Smashes Whole Row of Records

NORMAN ROSS, King of Swimmers.

San Diego, Cal., July 12.—Winning seven races and breaking twelve A. A. U. records, Norman Ross, of San Francisco, was star of the Pacific coast championship swimming events held here on July 4.

The most spectacular achievement made by Ross was shattering of the world's mile record held by Ludy Langer, of Los Angeles. Ross covered the distance in 24 minutes and 19 seconds, which is 49 1/2 seconds faster than the time made by Langer.

Swimmers who watched Ross declared that his form was such as to have defeated swimmers of all time had he been pressed to his limit. Ross himself, however, has declared that Duke Kahanamoku, the Hawaiian, is his master at the 100-yard distance. Langer did not compete against Ross when the latter made his smashing mile. A race between the two might develop even faster time.

EQUALS MARQUARD'S 19-GAME RECORD—IS AFTER WORLD'S STRAIGHT-WIN MARK

Young Texas Leaguer, Also, Is First Night Hander to Reach Nine-teen Consecutive Victory.

Staff Special.
Dallas, Texas, July 12.—Rube Marquard's crown for the consecutive victory record is being disputed and Baxter Sparks' record of twenty-one consecutive games is in danger of being smashed.

And by a right hander, too! Baxter Sparks climbed to the top by his left arm, when he pitched for the Yazoo, Miss., club and won 21 games in a row in 1904. So did Marquard when he rung up the major league record with 19 consecutive victories for the New York Giants in 1912.

But here comes John "Snipe" Conley, of the Dallas club of the Texas league, and brings home a record to equal, if not surpass, that of Richard. In fact, he claims the record for right handers.

Conley's right hand won him 19 consecutive games this season for the Dallas club, and he is relying on it to hang up a new record for all leagues.

Conley came to the Dallas club from the Baltimore Reds. While pitching in an exhibition game with the Baltimore club, he fell and injured his pitching arm. For a year he was unable to use an overhand delivery.

Last year he used nothing but a side-arm motion. He is rapidly regaining his overhand delivery, which has brought him much of his success. He is also a spit baller, with a deceiving change of pace.

The Dallas management recently had an offer for Conley from the Philadelphia Athletics, but refused it. Dallas is hungry for a pennant and so long as Conley is rushing them to ward it at a steady pace, the club doesn't want to lose him.

Nearly all the games won were remarkably close. Four were shut outs

In one he allowed no hits, fanned nine men and only one man reached first. Conley is a young chap and shows signs of remarkable control and intelligence on the mound. He has self confidence, but shows he hasn't an overdose of it.

"ABOLISH SPITBALL" SAYS CLARK GRIFFITH

Sponsor of Wet Delivery Calls It Unnatural and Unfair.

"Let's abolish the spit ball," says Clark Griffith. It is one thing which has crept into baseball in fairly modern times which hasn't bettered the game. It ought to be prohibited for all time to come.

In making this severe charge against the wet delivery I realize that I am in a measure responsible for the spit ball. It is true that I never used it myself as it is used today. But I guess I was the first pitcher to employ the principle which makes the spit ball so effective. This principle in brief is that where one side of the ball is smoother than the other the ball can be released from the pitcher's hand in such a way as to completely alter its proper rotation as it shoots through the air. And the altering of this rotation is what gives the ball its peculiar break as it ducks across the plate.

Now the spit ball pitcher accomplishes this end by wetting one side of the ball so that it slips away from under his fingers with the least possible friction. The same result could be accomplished in a general way by roughening one side of the ball. For the principle would be the same. That is, one side of the ball would be smoother than the other.

This is precisely what I used to do. I had a habit as far back as I can remember, of hitting the ball on the spikes of my shoe before I started to pitch. At first I think it was nothing more than a habit, just as some pitchers are always hitching up their belts or shifting their caps. But after a while I noticed that when I had scuffed one side of a new ball with my spikes it would break a good deal better when it crossed the plate. And right here is where I made a big mistake. I had a secret all to myself which would have been worth a good deal to me. What I was doing was really pitching an emery ball. It was the same idea that Russell Ford later used so effectively, an idea which made him a successful pitcher for a good many seasons. Ford, however, made an exact study of the thing and reduced it to a science. He made good use of the idea and it was only when he was about through as a pitcher that the secret leaked out, became common property, and was abolished by all the leagues.

I never used the idea in such a thorough way as Ford did. I would hit the ball on my spikes once in a while to get a sharp break on a curve. But I never put enough thought into the thing to figure out just why the ball would break so well. Why didn't I do this? Simple. I didn't have sense enough.

The idea, if I had made the best use of it, would have made me a more successful pitcher than I was, and no doubt would have added a good deal to my reputation and to the amount of money I got out of the game. I had a gold mine and didn't have intelligence enough to work it.

I don't blame a pitcher for using all the tricks that the law allows. When I was a pitcher I did the same and would do the same over again. But that isn't the point. I can see now that such things as the emery ball which I first used and the spit ball which was a logical outcome of the emery ball, are bad for the game. The emery ball has been abolished and everybody agreed that it was rightly abolished. But why discriminate against the emery ball and allow the spit ball which is worked on the same general principle, to remain?

SAFETY LIMIT CAUSE OF HIGH BILLIARD RUNS

Recent records made by cut artists at three-cushion billiards are due chiefly to perfection in billiard manufacture and the limiting of players to one safety.

The safety shot limit, however, even more than the perfected table, is considered by experts to be the cause for such high marks as 15 recently by Alfredo de Oro in a practice game with Charles Otis in New York.

De Oro is practicing for his championship match with Bob Cannell at St. Louis next fall. The high mark in championship contests is 13, held by De Oro and William Huey.

Others who equalled De Oro at running 18 at three-cushion are Charley Morin and Jess Lean, of Chicago, and Pierre Maupome, of Mexico City.

This high mark of 18 even may be surpassed soon, so fast are the three-cushion experts traveling.

SAWYER AND MARKWELL PLAY HARDEST MATCH

Chicago Still Well Represented in Western Golf Tournament.

Chicago, Ill., July 12.—Four Chicagoans, two Bostonians, one New Yorker, and one South American golfer made up the four matches today in the third match round of 36 holes for the western amateur championship at the Midlothian club, the scene yesterday of the longest championship contest in history. Ned Sawyer, of Chicago, Yale university student, having been 5 up at the start of the last nine holes, and Dornie three. With three pars, Sawyer squared the contest on the home green, and six extra holes, held a large gallery until dark. Then, Markwell by reason of a trapped tee, shot on the 153-yard sixth hole, failed to get a par, and lost, 1 down in 42 holes.

Jesse P. Gullford, champion of Massachusetts, conquered G. Decker French, of Rock Island, 13 up and 23 to play. Donald Edwards, of Midlothian, had almost as easy a match with J. S. Worthington, of Great Britain, the trans-Atlantic player, getting what he termed "a good leathering" 1 down and 3 to play.

Reuben Bush, the only Southern contender in the famous round, was eliminated by Kenneth Edwards, 3 and 2, and the winner played Gullford today. Sawyer today contested John G. Anderson, of New York, who yesterday ousted Robert Bowker, of Chicago, 3 and 7, with par golf.

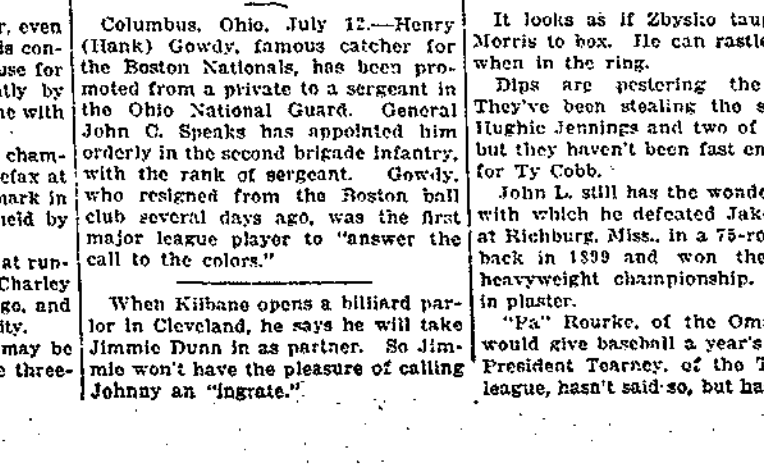

Francis Quimet, after defeating J. T. Henry, of Chicago, today had as an opponent another Chicagoan, Peter Burnett, while Jack May, Argentine champion, as a result of defeating E. H. Dunkard, of Chicago, 6 and 5, met Donald Edwards.

SERGEANT GOWDY.

Hank Has Risen From the Ranks Already and Is a Non-Com.

Columbus, Ohio, July 12.—Henry (Hank) Gowdy, famous catcher for the Boston Nationals, has been promoted from a private to a sergeant in the Ohio National Guard. General John C. Speaks has appointed him orderly in the second brigade infantry, with the rank of sergeant. Gowdy, who resigned from the Boston club several days ago, was the first major league player to "answer the call to the colors."

When Kibane opens a billiard parlor in Cleveland, he says he will take Jimmie Dunn in as partner. So Jimmie won't have the pleasure of calling Johnny an "ingrate."

KENDALLVILLE REDS TO BRING BOOSTERS

Two Hundred Fans Will Accompany Club to This City Sunday.

Two hundred fans will accompany the Kendallville Reds to this city Sunday for the big double bill to be staged at League park. An announcement of this was sent to Manager Mart Cleary of the Lincoln Lifes, this morning, together with a letter which told what a cleaning the Reds expect to make. They expect to wallop the Fort Wayne Colored Giants in the first game, and then repeat the operation on the Insurance men in evening.

There is every possibility that the Reds may be fooled in the first game. The Giants are leading us to the top and will be on their toes to turn every opportunity into the making of a win. However, the Reds are too wise to under estimate them and will use Lefty Bowman, the University of Michigan hurler, against them. They will save Meis for the Lincoln Lifes in case they win the opener.

For the Insurance men in the last game either Oestermeyer and Illner, or Lankensau and Metzger will compose the battery. Whichever pitcher is used, the corresponding man will do the backstopping, since both pitchers work better to their own catchers. The second contest will start ten minutes after the close of the first. Both games will be played for the price of one.

AMERICAN LEAGUE.

Boston Takes the Lead.

Detroit, Mich., July 12.—"Babe" Ruth held Detroit to one hit, an infield single by Bush, with one out in the eighth inning yesterday, and Boston shut out the home club 1 to 0, the victory moving the champions to first place. Bush's single was a sharply batted ball straight at Ruth, who knocked it down but could not field it in time for a play. Daus, though found for four singles and three triples, pitched finely in the pinches.

Boston scored the winning run in the ninth. Walker tripled with one out. Scott fanned and Shorten, batting for Agnew, hit to left for three bases. Ruth was wild, walking four men and hitting two, but was invincible with men on the bases. He struck out eight. Score: R.H.E. Detroit 0 0 0 0 0 0 0 0 0 1 1 1 1 1 1 Batteries—Daus and Stange; Ruth and Agnew and Thomas.

COVELESKIE IS RIGHT.

Cleveland, O., July 12.—The Indians cleaned up the Washington Nationals yesterday in the first game of the series here 3 to 0. Stan Coveleskie pitched gilt edged ball. The visitors nipped him for only four hits and they were scattered. Gallia started the mound toil for the Washington crowd, but retired at the beginning of the fourth in favor of Shaw.

The Indians bunched Gallia for two runs and got the third off Shaw. Evans and O'Neill batted in two of the runs, while Coveleskie stole home in the third. The score: R.H.E. Cleveland 3 1 1 1 0 0 0 0 3 6 2 Washington 0 0 0 0 0 0 0 0 0 4 1 Batteries—Coveleskie and O'Neill; Gallia, Shaw and Almsmith.

BROWNS ARE WALLOPED.

St. Louis, July 12.—The Athletics defeated the Browns yesterday 13 to 5. They knocked five pitchers out of the box. The score: R.H.E. Philadelphia 3 3 0 0 3 0 1 2 13 15 1 St. Louis 0 0 1 0 0 0 0 4 0 5 12 1 Batteries—Myers, Siebold and Schang; Koob, Wright, Molyneux, Martin, Park and Hale, Severid.

MAYBE JESS'LL FIGHT.

Says He Will Enter the Ring When Circus Season Closes.

Chicago, July 12.—Jess Willard is not figuring on quitting the ring. Denying reports of his retirement, the heavyweight champion, in a letter to Chicago friends said that he would be ready to defend his title as soon as the circus season is finished in October.

The champion said he was entirely through with Jack Curley and Tom Jones, his former managers, who have threatened to sue him.

"As long as I was working on a salary, Jones and Curley got their percentage on my earnings," Willard wrote. "But the war and bad weather

King of the Amateur Glove Champs Enlists

Earl Baird, of Seattle, holder of the national and far western amateur boxing titles at 125 pounds, has proved his patriotism by enlisting in the Washington coast artillery corps.

Baird first started to fight in 1913 at 108 pounds, winning his first championship in that year in just 37 seconds at the Pendleton, Ore., roundup. Since then he has traveled 22,000 miles as an amateur, wearing the colors of the Seattle Athletic club.

The national amateur championships at London in April gave Baird his chance of a lifetime, and he took complete advantage of it. Seattle citizens had paid his expenses by popular subscription and he was determined to win.

The first night he defeated Charlie Parker, Boston entry, in one round. The next night he met and vanquished two of the cleverest amateur feasters in the country. Myron Mitchell, of Milwaukee, was conquered in three rounds and Beecher, of New York, was saved from a knockout at the end of three rounds.

Rated as America's most successful amateur champion, Baird says he values the friendships he has made in the amateur game more than the wealth he might win as a professional. That's the reason he has never "turned pro."

This Missourian a fighter for Peace

FRANK W. NORTHERN

FIRST of the civil war veterans in Southern California to offer his services to Uncle Sam, when the break between Germany and the United States came, was Frank W. Northern, who for twenty-six years was an active member of the San Diego Police Department. And scores of enlistments in the city by the Harbor of the Sun are due to his record as a peace officer and his personal popularity with the people with whom he has been intimately associated for more than a quarter of a century.

Northern, a native of Missouri, is essentially of the timber from which heroes are made. He has accomplished many feats which seem impossible of achievement. He has emerged practically unscathed from perils which would have engulfed a less resourceful and quick-witted man. He has battled with criminals who valued no human life or rights save their own. He has raided forbidding underworld dens with indifference to danger that went far toward suppressing lawlessness.

This hero of a hundred battles in behalf of the public weal came to the Pacific Coast from Missouri when San Diego was a reckless border town infested with men who backed up their defiance of law and order with knife and six-shooter.

Courage and moral stamina were the chief requisites of men selected to cope with conditions which prevailed in those wild days, when robberies occurred daily and murder was frequent. These attributes were possessed in a marked degree by Northern, who left Kansas City for Southern California, not to grow up with the country, but to help the country grow up.

The Missourian's introduction into San Diego would have daunted one less courageous. As he stepped from a Santa Fe train, he beheld a Mexican gambler stab a constable to death, then saunter nonchalantly away.

At that time the Santa Fe Railway Company was beginning the construction of a huge wharf on the waterfront, and skill as a bridge carpenter, acquired in the East, enabled Northern to obtain employment at once. Within a short time he was made foreman of a gang.

Criminals among the men engaged in building the wharf were a source of continual trouble to their employers and the authorities. One man, sought all over the West, a pickpocket, was caught by Northern while robbing a fellow-workman and turned over to the police. Shortly after this a thug attempted to murder an employee in Northern's gang. During a desperate duel with knives, the assailed man was forced from the wharf into the bay. A carpenter who attempted to rescue him was seriously wounded. The foreman arrived, struck the knife from the desperado's hand, and, after a long struggle, turned him over to the authorities. It was not long after this that Northern was appointed to the police force.

Shooting Up the Town.

At the time the Missourian became a patrolman it was not unusual for bands of Indians, cowboys or vaqueros to "shoot up" towns, regardless of life or property; reckless sailors from the seven seas were a terror to law-abiding citizens; gambling was rampant, and men from the four quarters of the globe chose San Diego as a gathering place. The plaza, or public square, was the scene of numerous duels over differences which today would be regarded as trivial.

Northern was assigned to the most perilous beat in the town. He engaged in six pitched battles and made seventeen arrests the first night. Patrol wagons were then unknown south of San Francisco, it being necessary for policemen to walk, drag or carry prisoners to jail, frequently attended by a storm of bullets fired by friends of the men under arrest.

During the year in which he was appointed to the police force, San Diego was invaded by a band of safecrackers and thugs from San Francisco. The terrible fifteen, as they were known in police circles, terrorized the town for months, working so systematically as to render capture practically impossible. As many as eight safes were blown in a night.

Northern was detailed to lead a campaign against them. Unflinching courage, quick wit and a thorough knowledge of criminals, their methods and their haunts were required for the successful performance of this task. On the night following the patrolman's detail a store in the heart of the city was entered and merchandise valued at $15,000 stolen.

Northern immediately took the trail of two men he suspected of participation in the robbery. He followed them to a reputable rooming house in the residential quarter. Through his acquaintance with the proprietor, he gained access to their apartment. There, concealed beneath a bed, he found part of the stolen goods and laid in wait for the pair. On the third night they returned, bearing fresh plunder. One of them lighted a lamp which was extinguished the moment he beheld the intruder. Almost simultaneously both men opened fire. Northern, anticipating this, had dropped to the floor.

The officer grappled with the safecrackers, threw them to the floor, and, after a struggle, handcuffed them. They were sentenced to San Quentin. The leader, however, escaped from a deputy sheriff who was taking him to prison.

Safecrackers Play Ruse.

As a result of this capture, Northern was made sergeant of police. But he was a marked man. Members of the band to which he had dealt such a heavy blow were quiet for a time following the downfall of their chief, but the criminal impulse conquered, and a wholesale house was chosen as the scene of fresh depredations. A member of the band sought a secluded spot several blocks from the locality and fired several shots, attracting the attention of the police, a dozen of whom rushed to the scene of the fusillade, leaving the wholesale district, as the crooks thought, practically unguarded.

Cheerfully the safecrackers entered the building and blew the strong box. Northern, who had remained on his beat, watched the wholesale house, was attracted by the blast and rushed to the rear of the building, where he was confronted by two masked men, one of whom thrust the muzzle of a six-shooter into his face. Another struck the revolver from the officer's hand.

Northern's fist shot out, striking the safecracker between the eyes and felling him. Three other men rounded a corner of the building and attacked the policeman. Drawing a knife, the leader wounded Northern in the side. He sprang upon the man and bore him to the earth. The knife was sent spinning several yards away. Releasing the knife-user, Northern placed his back to the door and faced the foe, who made a concerted rush, brandishing knives. Northern beat back his assailants, but another bite of the knife apprised him of how narrow had been his escape.

Northern has but a confused idea of what followed. He was conscious of dealing and receiving heavy blows, of seeing men go down before his flying fists, of feeling the sting of a blade more than once, but his strength told him that the wounds were not serious. He had not been disarmed from the doorway.

No firearms had been used, but Northern was apprehensive that at any moment the struggle might be terminated by a shot. It would have been suicidal to have started through the pressing phalanx. He set up an outcry, and was answered by a police whistle. But in that instant of dawning safety the door behind was jerked open, a blow fell upon the officer's head and consciousness fled.

When Northern regained his senses he attempted to raise his hands to his face, but those useful members were bound together. His feet were made fast in like manner. A piece of cloth had been forced into his mouth, effectually gagging him.

That he was in some underground apartment he knew from the damp, moldy odor that assailed his nostrils. A lamp somewhere without sent a yellow gleam through a grating overhead. By this feeble ray the prisoner was enabled to gain a slight view of his surroundings. He concluded he was in the basement of the warehouse. An array of packing cases and other debris lay about him. The walls were festooned with cobwebs as was the ceiling. Earth comprised the floor.

The officer fought against his bonds, but his efforts served only to tighten them, causing excruciating pain and rendering him faint and dizzy. Exhausted, he abandoned the task and sank into a stupor. How long he lay in this state he never knew. Probably it was not more than ten minutes, but to him it seemed an age.

He was aroused by footfalls and voices on the sidewalks above. The beat of a policeman's night stick sounded. Then the voices and steps passed and diminished in recession.

In seeking means whereby to free himself, his eyes fell upon a cask with one hoop giving it broken, and a portion of the metal extended beyond the rim.

Once free, he believed that he could make his escape from the cellar.

Between the officer and the cask lay numerous bits of debris. Bracing himself against the nearest object, he propelled his body several feet, coming to a stop against a box. After intervals of rest, he moved closer and closer, at last reaching the barrel. The cask lay upon its side, the hoop protruding at an angle. Lying upon his back, the officer hooked his wrists over the bit of metal and drew the ropes back, ward and forward along the jagged edge.

It must have been an hour before the first strand was cut through, but after that the work was easier and the bonds dropped from his bleeding wrists. Gradually he restored circulation to his limbs, and was able to reach the grating and peer out upon the street.

At this moment the door opened, admitting three men, who sprang upon the prisoner. In his weakened state, Northern easily fell victim to their strength and numbers. After a brief struggle he found himself trussed up more tightly than ever.

The trio bore into the cellar an oblong box. Into this suggestive-looking receptacle Northern was dumped. The lid was put in place and nailed. The box was lifted and Northern felt himself being borne up a flight of stairs. Then the box was shoved along an elevated surface and the sound of horses' hoofs told him that he was in a wagon-bed. The next minute the vehicle was driven rapidly away.

The ride seemed interminable. His cramped position and the repeated wounds on his body made each moment a period of increasing torture to Northern.

After a time the pace of the horses was moderated. This, together with sounds which drifted to him, led the prisoner to infer that the outskirts of the town had been reached. At length the wagon stopped. The box was jerked to the ground with a thud which made Northern thankful for the gag which held his teeth apart. His narrow prison was lifted and carried a few paces, after which Northern felt himself being lowered.

Then came the music of wild shouts, the clashing of horses' hoofs, shots, curses and cries of pain and rage. Earth ceased to fall upon the improvised casket, and, after a time, the policeman felt himself drawn from the grave. In another moment the lid was torn from the box and the prisoner beheld the friendly countenances of several cowboys.

The men, riding out of San Diego following a spree, had seen Northern's captors at their task and opened fire. Their anger at hearing the officer's story was intense, and the entire band immediately scattered in pursuit of the thugs who, one by one, were shot down or made prisoner. Among the former was the chief of the Terrible Fifteen. The surviving safecrackers were given long prison sentences.

Northern's next notable adventure was with a band of criminals known as "back-breakers." The rendezvous of this organization was a notorious resort in San Diego's underworld known as the "Tub of Blood." Victims were grasped from behind by one of the "back-breakers," who placed a knee to the small of the back and a hand beneath the chin, holding the subject in check, as to speak, while a confederate secured his valuables. Several men suffered broken backs through their activities. The proprietor of the saloon aided the crooks, and it was well-nigh impossible to fasten crimes upon them.

Northern, however, determined to end their reign of terror.

A favorite plan of the "back-breakers" was to attack intoxicated persons in the rear of one or the other of the resorts which lined streets of the more lawless quarter. Sailors frequented these dives until late hours and often proprietors would suggest that they depart via rear entrances in order to avoid arrest. When the men complied, they were "back-broken" and robbed.

Battle in the Dark.

Aware of this scheme, Northern lay in wait in the rear of the "Tub of Blood," after having seen in the place a big Swede with a roll of money and an excess of whisky.

At midnight the intended victim was steered solicitously through the rear doorway of the place, and as he staggered across the rear two of the "back-breakers" assailed him, taking his money and leaving him groaning and helpless on the ground.

Northern felled one of the assailants with a blow from the butt of his revolver, but the other, having the money in his possession, dashed into the saloon and upstairs. Northern followed, overtaking the fugitive, a huge negro, on the second landing of the stairway, where a desperate struggle took place. It ended in the negro finding himself manacled. He served fifteen years in the state prison.

As a strange sequel to the half-forgotten horrors of the "Tub of Blood," its former proprietor, well-known on the Pacific Coast as "the Poppy King," was arrested recently by federal officers in what appeared to be a respectable hotel. In his apartments were found a complete opium-smoking layout, and almost every conceivable gambling device. Customs inspectors connecting him with smuggling operations, brought about his downfall.

Northern had another narrow escape from death one night when he attempted to arrest a drink-crazed Mexican, who ran amuck in a theater, driving the patrons in terrified flight to the street before a long-bladed knife. The officer was passing the show house when the desperado emerged, slashing madly at every one within reach, and sought to disarm him. The fight that followed was the most desperate single-handed encounter in which Northern ever participated. His uniform was cut to ribbons and he sustained severe wounds. This, however, did not deter him from conquering the Mexican and bearing him in triumph to jail.

A search for three footpads, wanted by the police for robbing a wealthy merchant, led Northern into desperate peril. He trailed the trio to the Santa Fe freight yards, coming upon one of them near the end of a car which stood on a siding. The thug struck him a heavy blow on the shoulder with a sandbag, knocking his revolver from his hand. Ere he could recover, the other, who had been concealed behind the car, sprang upon him. Another was being watched when, by a lucky chance he tripped one of his assailants, who, in falling, upset a companion, leaving Northern for the moment with but one adversary to face. This brief respite enabled the policeman to recover his six-shooter and become master of the situation.

Aided by a fellow-roundsman, Northern captured twenty "bad" men who were engaged in demolishing the interior of a saloon. Battle was raging furiously when the officers appeared. Without hesitation, they plunged into the melee, wielding their heavy night sticks. During the fight that followed, Northern came near losing his life.

While an unerring marksman, many times he has been near death through failure to shoot to kill. He has saved scores of lives through his ability to place a bullet at will. One night, in passing a lot in which a quantity of lumber had been stored, he heard a cry, the sound of a blow and a fall. Dashing into the semigloom of the place, he beheld the outlines of a man heading over the form of a woman, with knife poised. Too far to reach the scene of the impending tragedy, Northern fired, the bullet from his six-shooter breaking the blade.

Subduing "Frenchy."

During the earlier years, when Northern was a peace officer, California, and, in fact, the entire West and Southwest, held men of disconcerting marksmanship and scant regard for human life, known as "sheriff-killers." These individuals were addicted to an irresistible impulse to "shoot up" the particular town they selected as the scene of their orgies. Objection to their particular form of diversion usually took the shape of attempts at arrest by indiscreet sheriffs, who became objects of mortuary expense to relatives or friends. In the back country of San Diego was a notable example of this type known as "Frenchy."

It had for years been a custom of "Frenchy" to tear through the streets of San Diego shooting out lights, snipping heels and buttons off victims, and in other ways deporting himself after accepted traditions of the "Wild West." "Frenchy" had many of the officers on the force intimidated, when Northern became patrolman. Shortly thereafter, however, his pride received a salutary jolt.

Northern had been a member of the police force but three weeks when "Frenchy," astride a tough little bronco, came tearing through town following a trail of .46-caliber bullets emanating from two six-shooters which he was operating on the "double-roll" system. He headed for the worst district in San Diego, dismounted in the center of a court and proceeded to enliven the quarter with expert gunplay and lurid language.

Patrolman Northern was summoned. He arrived in season to find "Frenchy" brandishing a gun in either hand and hurling profane defiance at the majesty of the law as represented by one Frank W. Northern. "Sacre!" he shouted. "I'm thirsty for ze blood of ze new, fresh policeman!"

Northern's reply was neither elegant nor conciliatory. Keeping up a running fire of violent conversation with the desperado, he advanced to the center of the court. Then, before he fully realized what was happening, "Frenchy" found himself gunless and manacled. The cold steel on his wrists speedily brought a comprehension of his plight, and he began to struggle. The half-hour battle that followed is a tradition in San Diego police circles.

Worn out, the baffled man permitted himself to be led jailward. On the way, however, he experienced a change of heart. With a lungs he snapped the nippers and fled. Northern fired one shot that snipped the heel from one of "Frenchy's" rising boots. This display of marksmanship convinced the "sheriff killer" that he had met his master, and he was looked up without further resistance.

Another "bad man" who succeeded "Frenchy" in San Diego was a quarrelsome rancher, who periodically "shot up" the town and drove law-abiding citizens to cover under a fire of lead and profanity. He, too, fled before Northern. The rancher drove into town one day, ran down a Mexican child, horsewhipped its mother for remonstrating, and otherwise made himself obnoxious. Northern interrupted the horse-whipping exhibition and landed the man behind bars after the prized nippers again had been broken.

COLLISION AT THE JUNCTION

G. R. & I. Passenger Train Strikes L. E. & W. Gondola Loaded With Stone.

Southbound passenger train, No. 6, on the G. R. & I., crashed into a gondola which was a part of a string of cars being handled by a Lake Erie and Western switch engine on the crossing just west of the city at 12 o'clock Wednesday night. The gondola, which was loaded with stone, was upset and the engine, No. 5, which was pulling the train, was derailed, but did not turn over, and Engineer J. R. Lewis and Fireman E. R. McClellan, who were in the cab, were not in the least injured. The sudden stop of the passenger train, however, threw J. M. Westveld, of Decatur, a passenger, who at that moment had arisen from his seat, down and cut and bruised his head slightly. He was attended by Dr. C. F. Kaadt, and later continued his journey home, apparently suffering no pain. The wreck was caused by the engineer having a full view of the signals and the track ahead over the top of the gondola car, which was unusually low. He did not, therefore, see any obstruction on the track until too near the crossing to stop. The Pennsylvania wreck crew was sent to the scene and cleared the track in short order.

NEW MEN AT SHOPS.

The various departments of the Pennsylvania shops continue to take on new employees and the labor situation there is not quite as serious as it was a short time ago, though it is not yet altogether satisfactory. This morning the erecting shop employed J. R. Cramer, a machinist's helper, and Harry Brown, J. Robinson and W. Sparks, laborers. A. L. Steinbacher, a machine operator, took employment in the machine shop. He was formerly employed in the building trade and helped Wells Brothers to erect the new General Electric works on Wall street.

BIERBAUM IN NEW QUARTERS.

The department known as the "I-14 meter" room of the General Electric works, Walter Bierbaum, foreman, is in full operation now in its new quarters, the fourth floor of building No. 19, on Wall street. It formerly occupied a part of building No. 5. The move to the new quarters commenced Monday night and was continued day and night without stopping until Wednesday morning, when everything was in readiness for complete operations. Mr. Bierbaum has a force of fifty-nine men at present, but this will soon be increased fully a third.

SPECIAL OVERTIME RATE.

Overtime special rates were announced by General Manager F. S. Hunting, of the General Electric works, yesterday. The bulletin states that hereafter employees asked to work overtime will be given the regular piecework wage and 50 per cent of the hourly schedule for the extra work. The plant is overcrowded with orders and it is probable that overtime will be the rule for some weeks.

MUST TRAIN WOMEN.

N. Y. C. Sends Instructions to Local Officials.

Forecasting the general employment of women in railroad positions as clerks, ticket agents and even as crossing tenders, the superintendent of the local divisions of the New York Central has dispatched the following letter to trainmasters, yardmasters and station agents at all points:

It has been necessary, commencing at once, to begin the education of employment of women for the various branches of the service in which they can perform, beginning first with the office help, gate tenders, or crossing watchmen, ticket clerks, in fact any branch of the service where they might reasonably fit in.

With the conflict now in front of us hundreds of thousands of men will be drafted into the army, and their positions will have to be filled for properly performing transportation service, as it has been demonstrated in Canada and abroad, that women are abundantly capable of performing much of our service as men, and are as heroic and patriotic in their desire to serve their country.

At present we might not possibly be able to do more than work along educational lines where possible to do so, and secure help for vacancies as they occur.

It is felt that we could use women as tally clerks in our freight offices, and they could also fill a great many of our yard clerical positions, especially on the inside of the office.

I would like a memorandum the first of each month outlining what you have been able to accomplish in the matter.

WANT THREE COMPANIES.

Capt. W. Howard Miller, of the General Electric guards, has opened recruiting books with a view of getting another company, making three at the plant. He is confident there will be no difficulty in getting the required number of men for the new company. After working hours last night a mass meeting was held in McCulloch's park, which was attended by a number of prospective members.

COLORED LABORER BEREAVED.

L. Warner, a colored laborer at the Pennsylvania machine shop, was the object of much sympathy from the men in the shop this morning. It was announced there that the grandchild of the old man was dead. The little one was his favorite and his face bore evidence of the anguish within his breast over the loss of his pet. Warner is one of the best of the colored men recently employed at the shops.

COMPANY PAYS PART.

Bulletins were posted at the Wayne Knitting mills this afternoon, giving notice that the company would pay fifty cents on each season ticket taken by employees for the chautauqua meetings next week. Tickets will be sold to employees of the works for 22 each. Director Wright, of the Knitting mills at noon today.

GEORGE SUNLEY AT WORK.

George Sunley, Pennsylvania yard conductor, resumed that duty this morning, after a two weeks' vacation. A portion of the time was spent in Detroit with relatives and friends. Mr. and Mrs. Sunley celebrated the silver anniversary of their wedding last week, notes of which was made in The Sentinel at the time.

DR. SCHULZ ON VACATION.

Dr. F. J. Schulz, surgeon at the General Electric works, entered upon a two weeks' vacation yesterday, when he went to his cottage at Wawasee lake. Dr. Raymond J. Berghoff, interne at St. Joseph hospital, is acting surgeon during the absence of Dr. Schulz.

DUNIFON PROMOTED.

Leo Dunifon has been promoted to sub-foreman of the type H connecting and boxing department at the General Electric works. He succeeds Charles Scherer, transferred to the transformer testing department, under Foreman Loren Klingman. The change is an advance for Mr. Dunifon.

DISPATCHERS ON VACATION.

S. M. Taylor and W. L. Richardson, Pennsylvania train dispatchers, are out on vacations this week. Mr. Richardson, who is an expert with the hook and line, is at the lakes and Mr. Taylor is spending the time quietly at home.

INDUSTRIAL NOTES.

Pennsylvania Machinist John Manrock is out on a vacation. A. J. Smith, of the Pennsylvania erecting shop, is sick and off duty. E. E. Scott, a laborer, quit his position at the Pennsylvania machine shop this morning to take up other work. W. J. Farman, who resigned a position at the Pennsylvania machine shop yesterday, has taken employment at the General Electric works.

After an illness of three weeks, Lewis R. Anderson, a helper, resumed work in the Pennsylvania boiler shop this morning.

J. B. Carothers, receiver of the Cincinnati, Findlay and Fort Wayne Railroad company, was in the city today on business connected with his office.

A new transformer connector at the General Electric works is Arch Schee, who was formerly employed in the foundry department.

The Wayne Knitting mills is also selling chautauqua tickets at reduced prices to its employees. It is expected to dispose of several hundred tickets.

F. Howard, formerly employed in the power plant of the Pennsylvania, is now operating the crane in the machine shop, having been transferred recently.

W. F. Dingman and William Murray, the former a laborer and the latter a fitter, were in the city today on business connected with the Pennsylvania boiler shop this morning.

E. D. Monk, of Cincinnati, a transformer specialist, is in the city conferring with E. A. Wagner and others of the transformer department of the local General Electric works.

J. H. Leonard, formerly employed in Foreman Schleiermacher's department of the General Electric works, is now in the transformer department, under Foreman F. S. Walburn.

L. S. Trachsel, foreman of the cost department clerical work at the Pennsylvania shops, was called to Pittsburgh last night on business connected with the department.

S. Jackson, of the same shop, is off duty to do some work at his home. Herbert Daseler, clerk in the office of the Pennsylvania superintendent, contemplates a visit with friends at Richmond and will go there tomorrow.

C. H. Allen, a finisher in the transformer department of the General Electric works, took employment yesterday. He was formerly a resident of Waterloo, Iowa.

Today the transformer department of the General Electric works commenced shipping out machinery from the new factory building on Wall street. It was recently moved into that building.

L. F. Buehler, agent at Adrian, Mich., for the Wells-Pargo Express company, is taking a vacation, a part of which is being spent in Fort Wayne, where he has relatives and a great number of friends.

Joseph Gruber, formerly of the Bowser shops, and Fred Stauffer, formerly of the Dudio Manufacturing company's shop, took employment at the Wabash shops this morning. They are machinists.

H. F. Reiter, machinist, who had been off duty on account of the death of a relative, reported for work at the Pennsylvania erecting shop this morning. Wilson Lindsey, a laborer, also reported at that shop for work this morning, after a few days' illness.

A. J. Johnson, Pennsylvania boiler-maker, had the middle finger of his left hand badly injured yesterday when a misdirected blow landed a hammer on the digit. A. C. Gehle, of the machine shop, also smashed a finger yesterday. A steel rod fell on the digit.

Earl Gruber, a clerk in the transformer office of the General Electric works, will resume his duties Monday. He was taken with diphtheria three weeks ago and was in the isolation hospital two weeks. His recovery has been complete.

Jules Doriot, a Pennsylvania machinist, has been transferred from the machine shop to the airbrake shop to take the place vacated by Al Baker when he succeeded P. J. Hess July 1. The change is a promotion for Mr. Doriot.

F. S. Walburn, foreman of the transformer department of the General Electric works, will enter upon his annual vacation Monday. He will divide the time between a visit with relatives in several cities and an outing at the lakes.

The G. E. Sunset league games tonight will be between the Ice Makers and the Small Motor department teams at Lawton park and the Apparatus and the Office Cost department teams at Foster park. After the games there will be grand rush by players and spectators for the show grounds.

One of the most recent additions to Uncle Sam's army is Nelson Thompson, who enlisted yesterday and will go to Fort Thomas, Ky., Monday. He had been employed at the Bowser works, but resigned when he enlisted. Nelson is a son of P. A. Thompson and is a graduate of the Fort Wayne high school.

The management of the Dudio Manufacturing company asked Chief of Police Charles Lenz yesterday for police picket at the plant on Wall street, stating that they had been informed that the striking employees contemplated stoning the buildings. One policeman was sent out and remained on duty, but reported that he saw no indications of hostile intentions.

DECATUR NEWS.

Decatur, Ind., July 12.—The body of Dee Edgington was brought here from Fort Wayne for burial. He formerly lived here.

Rev. F. G. Rogers, pastor of the Baptist church here for two years and eight months, has resigned and with his family will leave here July 18 for St. Louis, Mo., where he will be pastor of Calvary Baptist church.

Jacob Schafer, Louis Achille Brunner, Fred C. Hoanisen, Adam Schlagenhauf and Lewis Bohne have applied for final naturalization papers and will have a hearing at the next semi-annual meeting. Eleven have applied for first papers in the past quarter, according to the quarterly report of County Clerk Will Hammel.

Robert Schwartz qualified as administrator of the estate of Christian Gerber, giving $10,000 bond.

M. Flox, who visited with his son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. I. Bernstein, has returned to his home at South Bend.

Miss Helen Kinzie has returned from Marion, where she visited with Miss Zelma Stevens, who is a student in the Normal school there.

Joseph C. Fogle and John W. Kraner have applied for the appointment of a guardian for Hiram Kraner, 31, whom they allege on account of his age and infirmity is incapable of managing his estate. He has an 80-acre farm in Wabash township which, they say, he has needlessly obligated by becoming surety on notes and other obligations, and that he has needlessly incurred a large amount of expense without realizing what he was doing. C. L. Walters is the attorney for the petitioners.

Miss Beryl Bonham, of Warren, O., has arrived for a visit with her uncle, Rev. W. S. Mills, and family. She will also visit at Bryant.

Mrs. Emma McMullen and daughter, Marie, were guests of her brother, Dr. H. F. Costello, and family.

Mrs. Eli Ray, who visited with her son, Tom Kern, and family, returned to her home at Monroe.

Mrs. B. J. Smith and children, Rose Mary and Othmar, are guests of her father, Peter Forbush, and family in Fort Wayne for a few days.

Ocene Schultz is in Fort Wayne visiting with relatives.

Mr. and Mrs. E. C. Annen, of Columbus, O., motored here for a visit with his brother, L. C. Annen and wife.

Miss Marcella Kuobler entertained at a six o'clock dinner and card party last evening in compliment to Miss Ruth Alberta Weber, of Union City, and Miss Matilda Michaels, of Chicago.

Robert Nachtrieb, of Toledo, O., is the guest of his sister, Mrs. Roy Archbold.

NORTH MANCHESTER MAN IS APPOINTED

(Special to The Sentinel.)

Columbia City, Ind., July 12.—The South Whitley school board Wednesday announced that it had obtained Joseph Strickler, of North Manchester, to serve as superintendent of the South Whitley school next year, succeeding Prof. Homer L. Humke, who will be principal next year of the high school at Noblesville, Hamilton county.

Rollo E. Mosher, son of Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Mosher, of Whitley county, has been retained for another year as principal. Mr. Strickler has been taking work in the University of Chicago, from which he graduated a few weeks ago, and he has had several years' experience as an instructor in Wabash county.

Columbia City Short Items.

W. S. Nicky, of Columbia City, has been chosen a member of the federal grand jury to serve in Judge A. E. Anderson's court at Indianapolis, and he was sworn in Wednesday morning.

Prof. Robert E. Birch, of the Redeemer church, of Chicago, gave a splendid pipe organ recital at the M. E. church Tuesday evening.

Beginning next Tuesday evening the registration office in the county assessor's office in the court house will be open, and continue for each following Tuesday to voters who cannot register during the day. The office will remain open from 7 to 8:30.

The annual picnic of the Lutheran Sunday school will be held Wednesday, July 18, at Tri-lake, and B. F. McNear is master of transportation.

Boxes igniting near an overheated stove in the work room of the Whitney & Stickler undertaking establishment, caused a small blaze Wednesday afternoon that was finally extinguished with a garden hose, entailing a damage of $20.

Ralph Fressler, aged 21, son of Emerson Fressler, north of the city, received a badly shattered arm Wednesday noon, when he fell through a hole in the haymow at his home, landing twelve feet below on the barn floor, on his left arm and elbow. The bones of the arm were driven into the elbow bone, splitting and shattering it, and leaving what will be probably a stiff arm.

DEATH CLAIMS A.J. MOYNIHAN

Former Fort Wayne Editor Dies Suddenly in Cali- fornia.

HAD BEEN IN ILL HEALTH FOR YEARS

Deceased Retired from the Newspaper Business Last August.

Andrew J. Moynihan, 61 years old, former Fort Wayne newspaper man and for years owner and editor of the Journal-Gazette, is dead at Long Beach, California, the result of a stroke of apoplexy.

A message telling of his death was received from Elizabeth Hedekin Moynihan by Bernard S. O'Connor. The deceased had been in declining health for five years and had been subject to attacks of apoplexy. Local relatives had not been informed, however, that his condition was any worse than when he left here last August, at which time he disposed of his interest in the Journal-Gazette to Lew G. Ellingham and E. C. Hoffman.

Following the sale of his newspaper interests here he leased his residence at 821 West Berry street and moved his household goods to Long Beach, when he again began to decline, making that his future home and living in quietness and retirement.

In the spring of 1916 the deceased suffered a nervous breakdown and spent several months in Pasadena, Riverside and other points in California. He returned only slightly improved, but had not been here long when he again began to decline, making the sale of his newspaper interests and his retirement imperative.

Mr. Moynihan gave up his newspaper activities reluctantly. He had been engaged in it for years, starting as a printer. He had worked in every department of the newspaper business. At one time he was connected with The Sentinel. Few newspaper men have been more successful.

While owner and editor of the Journal-Gazette, Mr. Moynihan was in close touch and had direct supervision over every department. He was an untiring worker, which, in a large measure, was responsible for his breakdown.

Born in Ireland. The deceased was born in County Kerry, Ireland, twelve miles from Kilmarnock, on April 15, 1856, the son of Martin Moynihan. His mother's maiden name was Johanna Moynihan. He came to the United States at the age of eight, embarking at Liverpool, and arriving at New York in the fall of 1864. Two years were spent in Elizabeth City, New Jersey, after which he came to Fort Wayne and had resided here up to the time he left for the west. He secured his early education in the Brothers' school in this city.

He learned the printing trade while a young man and two years after completing his course attended the Rush Medical college with the view of preparing himself to be a physician. He worked as city editor of The Sentinel during vacation periods. Medicine and surgery, however, were not to his liking and he gave up his studies at the Rush Medical school and decided to make the newspaper business his life's work. After several years in The Sentinel staff, he became associated with H. C. Rockhill and Wright W. Rockhill in the management of the Fort Wayne Journal and Gazette, the two plants being merged, and has continued to be published as the Journal-Gazette. Some years later Mr. and Mrs. Moynihan and brother, Martin H. Moynihan, purchased the interests of the Rockhills and had conducted the business continually up to the time the property was sold last August.

The father of the deceased died here twenty-five years ago and the mother five years ago at the age of ninety. The devotion of the deceased to his mother was most beautiful. Mr. Moynihan was for years prominent in democratic politics and, it is said, he has the distinction of being largely responsible in inducing Thomas R. Marshall to run for governor of Indiana, which, in this instance, was a stepping stone to the vice presidency, making Mr. Marshall a national figure. The deceased was married several years ago to Elizabeth Hedekin, a member of a prominent Fort Wayne family, who survives, together with one daughter, Margaret Cornelia. A brother, Martin H. Moynihan, and a nephew, Andrew J. Moynihan, a member of the Journal-Gazette editorial staff, also survive.

Wayne avenue, and Mrs. Bessie M. Redmon, 1123 Michigan avenue.

Members of the classes in elementary hygiene and home care of the sick, who have taken the work under Miss Frances Ott, authorized Red Cross nurse, No. 302, during the past seven weeks, were given the examination Thursday morning at headquarters by the authorized examiner, Miss Springer. The full examinations were given and Miss Springer reported enthusiastic responses and pronounced thoroughness during the demonstrations.

Delegates Meet Friday.

Representatives from all the chapters of northern Indiana will gather at the Commercial club Friday afternoon to hear an address by Mrs. Belmont Tiffany, one of the most prominent Red Cross workers of New York. It is thought that over a hundred Red Cross workers from the various chapters will be present. The meeting is not open to the public, but is for one representative from each chapter. Mrs. Tiffany is touring the country, talking to chapters in different states about Red Cross work. She will remain in this city only a short time and will be the guest of Mrs. A. E. Faue during her stay.

here. The meeting Friday afternoon will begin at 3 o'clock (eastern time). A large American flag has been presented to the Red Cross girls who took part in the recent membership campaign at Swinney park on July 4. The flag was given by Rev. E. Q. Lauder, pastor of the organization having the largest representation in the parade. A donation of $2.25 was received at the Red Cross headquarters Wednesday afternoon from the Pan Hellenic society of this city. Calls for teachers and instructors are being received at the headquarters from many of the surrounding chapters and auxiliaries and it is probable that representatives will be sent to aid the work of the nearby towns. Mrs. A. E. Faue, chairman of the membership committee, and Miss Winifred Rohan, formerly secretary at the headquarters, went to Monroeville Thursday afternoon to help in the work there.

Another view is that the election is an irreparable disaster for the Irish nationalist party which, many Irish people complain, held the country for years in the dead hand of rigid machine policy.

The Sinn Fein movement is regarded in the same quarter as an expression of discontent and vehement resistance to a long course of administrative folly, indicating rather a lack of confidence with present parliamentary methods than a revolutionary tendency, and in this respect, resembling a state of mind which often leads French electors who themselves are not socialists to support socialist candidates at the polls.

The Chronicle says the Sinn Feiners receive enormous sums of money from the United States, much of it doubtless from German sources, which enables them to conduct extensive propaganda.

MEDICAL MAN HERE FRIDAY

was the only new recruit received by the battery Wednesday.

More Cooks Wanted. "More cooks and bakers," is the cry of the regular army recruiting station. These men are probably as badly needed as those in any branch of the service, and must be enlisted before the national army is called out. It is understood that those who answer the call first will be in direct line for promotion. Recruits are still being taken at the local station in any of the branches still open. General physical requirements call for men 5 feet 1 inch, or taller, and 105 pounds or heavier.

Navy Officer Here. Lieut. F. M. Wilson, of the reserve service, located at the St. Paul recruiting station, spent a part of Thursday at the navy recruiting station. Lieut. Wilson was called to Fort Wayne by the serious illness of his mother, Mrs. M. S. Wilson, 2310 Hoagland avenue. He will return to St. Paul Friday.

The lieutenant is at the head of the navy station which ranks second in the United States in the number of recruits obtained. He took a train load of 107 men from St. Paul to the Great Lakes training station on Monday.

"One of the notable features of this recruiting campaign is the high standard of men offered by the middle west," said Lieut. Wilson Thursday. "New York was able to put but 16 per cent of her offered men in service, the report shows. St. Paul and Fort Wayne are placing at least 50 per cent of their men on ship board."

Close Departments. Chief Petty Officer Wright has been notified that the navy is temporarily closed to electricians, hospital apprentices, landmen for yeoman, ship fitters, printers, painters and boiler makers. The call per cent of their men on ship board."

Only especially qualified men will be taken for machinists and aviators, the Fort Wayne station is notified.

SWEDEN HAS A COMPLAINT

America to replace the surplus exported.

Newspapers Join in Denial. Even newspapers most friendly to America, join the chorus of indignant condemnation of these charges. The papers call attention to America's attitude regarding exports and arraign what they term the government's inconsistency. They declare that America repeatedly protested to England against precisely the same policy which Washington now threatens to adopt against Sweden.

The Associated Press received from an authoritative source the following statement:

"It is no secret that we are exporting iron ore. We have been exporting it for more than twenty years. It is our chief article of export. But we export also to England and other countries and the proportions of our exports remain nearly the same as before the war. We exported wood pulp to Germany, but also to America, France, Italy and other countries. We exported ferrosilicates to Germany and also to England and Russia.

"The statement that we are exporting sulphur and zinc to Germany is a ridiculous error. We must import sulphur for our own use and Ger-

How to Get Rid of Corns

People suffering from tired, swollen, aching feet, or from stinging, burning corns or calluses will be glad to know that there is a new, quick, reliable, and effective remedy that can be used at home. It is a simple home treatment that will not cause one bit of pain or soreness. From your druggist get a small jar of Icc-Mint. Rub a little on any painful corn or callus. Instantly the pain will disappear and in a short time the corn or callus will loosen and can be lifted out easily with the fingers—root and all—leaving the surrounding skin in a healthy, normal condition.

When you stop to consider that the time and money spent in getting a little Icc-Mint on the foot at night will shortly rid one of every painful corn or callus and will keep the feet cool, comfortable and rested on the hottest days, it is easy to understand why it is thought that foot troubles will soon be a thing of the past. Icc-Mint is an entirely new departure from the time-worn use of rubbing a little ice-mint on the foot as it is absolutely harmless, and comes in the form of a snow white creamy preparation, which is dissolved in water and applied to the corns and can be obtained here from any of our local druggists.—Advertisement.

many produces more zinc than she used. Import No Iron Ore. "Another, misstatement concerns our alleged imports of iron ore from America. We import no iron ore from there. Before the war we used to import a low grade of pig iron from England. These imports have dropped to a third of the normal and we have been importing from America to cover the deficit, but the entire imports are insignificant.

"We export pig iron of a higher grade to both England and Germany. Our exports to England are still nearly normal.

"For our industrial life we must have dyes, coal and medicines from Germany and we have nothing to give in return but iron ore and pulp since the embargo on all provisions. We get some coal from England at the risk of sailors' lives and of their ships, but it is only a small portion of what we require.

"Germany brings us coal in her own ships without risk to us. We do not understand how America, which insisted on our letting her cotton through to Germany and protested so vehemently to England against efforts to interfere with her trade, can take such an attitude toward us."

LEADERS OF SENATE FAIL

Gore Substitute May Do. If President Wilson does not object, the leaders were said to believe that the substitute bill drawn by Senator Gore generally embraces ideas for compromise legislation. The Gore bill would limit government control, to food and fuel alone, eliminating steel, iron, copper, cotton and many other products.

The prohibition question, it was agreed, probably will have to be settled in conference without further senate action, because of the unanimous consent agreement under which the senate acted last week.

These decisions were reached at conferences between Senator Martin, democratic leader; Chairman Gore, of the agriculture committee; Senator Chamberlain, who has charge of the legislation in the senate, and Senator Simmons, chairman of the finance committee, whose work on the war tax bill is suspended pending final action on prohibition.

Senators Martin and Simmons then decided to ask the president's advice as to a compromise along the general plan of the Gore substitute.

Conferences Were Held. The conferences were held before the special meeting of the agriculture committee, called to decide whether the committee should take any action on the Gore substitute, which most of them favored as a solution of the deadlock, or to let Senator Gore or someone else offer the substitute without formal committee recommendation.

While the leaders were meeting, senate debate on the pending bill was halted until later in the day. The committee amendment designed to prevent members of the advisory commission of the council of national defense from selling their own products to the government was subjected for the day's consideration.

Waiting on Local Boards. As soon as the local organizations are complete, appointment of the district exemption boards will be announced. These boards, one or more in each federal judicial district, will pass upon appeals from the local bodies and will have original jurisdiction over claims for exemption on account of employment in industrial and agricultural or other necessary enterprise. Nominations for the boards proposed from forty-five states already have been sent to the president by the provost marshal general's office.

and constitutional reforms demanded by the reichstag are such that they concern not merely himself but his successor, inasmuch as they would be permanent. For this reason the emperor summoned the crown prince to attend one or more crown councils at which final decisions regarding the extent to which the crown and the government will make concessions to the reichstag will be reached.

RUSSIANS IN BIG VICTORY

Kalusz is a city of about 5,000 population, 23 miles southeast of Strzy. Yesterday the Russians had reached the Posiecz-Lesuka-Karmacz line, southward west of Stanislaw.

The central point of this line is Lectukva, four miles west of the diver Bystrzyca. It is about seven miles east of Kalusz, the nearest large town west of Stanislaw and which is situated in a bend of the Stok river.

GERMANS ARE REPULSED.

Paris, July 12.—After a violent bombardment, the Germans tried several surprise attacks during the night on both banks of the Meuse but were repulsed, according to a statement issued by the war office today.

FRENCH MINE SWEEPER SUNK.

Paris, July 12.—The French mine sweeper Jupiter struck a mine in the British channel Tuesday and sank. Eleven lives were lost.

BRITISH CHECK ENEMY.

London, July 12.—"A raid attempted by the enemy last night south of Lombardtzy was successfully driven off," says today's official communication. "There is nothing further to report."

BRITISH LOSSES AT NIEUPORT.

London, July 12.—The total British casualties resulting from the German success near Nieuport, Belgium, on Tuesday, were about 1,800, including prisoners. These figures were given by Major General F. B. Maurice, chief director of military operations at the war office today.

The section captured by the Germans, said General Maurice, who made his statement in his weekly talk to the Associated Press, was defended by only two battalions of British. The German claim of 1,250 prisoners he considered probably accurate.

NORWEGIAN SHIP SUNK.

London, July 13.—A Central News dispatch from Christiania reports the sinking near Iceland by a German submarine of the Norwegian bark Florella, 1,168 tons gross. The crew was rescued.

PLYMOUTH YOUNG MEN

Hold Annual Reunion at Lake James All Day Saturday.

A group of live fellows known as Plymouth Young Men, a class in the Plymouth Congregational Sunday school, will hold its annual reunion at Lake James on Saturday of this week. The boys will take the Lake Shore train at 6 o'clock in the morning (eastern time) and make the cottage of Clarence Baughman, their headquarters, to which place those who make the trip later in the day will come. The occasion is especially significant this year, as it will serve as a send-off to the members who are soon to leave for the front in the signal corps.

Church Notes. The Woman's Home Missionary society of Wayne Street M. E. church will hold its annual picnic Friday afternoon and evening at Swinney park. In case of bad weather it will be held in the church parlors.

The Woman's Missionary society of Bethany Presbyterian church will meet Friday afternoon with Mrs. Charles Marshall, of Watkins street. The meeting will be in charge of the young people of the church.

Crystal branch of the W. C. T. U. will meet Friday afternoon with Mrs. H. J. Nease, 2127 Smith street. The discussion of the day on the topic, "National Independence Day," will be led by Mrs. Laura Likens.

Women of the community of the Crescent Avenue Evangelical church will meet in the church parlors Friday afternoon at 1 o'clock to sew for the Red Cross.

The south side division of the Ladies Aid society of the First M. E. church will meet with Mrs. Thurman Sparkman, 729 West Creighton avenue, Friday afternoon.

for the draft, it is explained, is not to be taken as a genuine indication of the actual population of cities and communities. In some communities industrial conditions have given a city a population much greater than it normally has and in other cities where industrial activities are at low ebb the registration failed to show actually present the number which the census bureau had given. Moreover, as the object of the estimates is to fix a fair basis for establishing local quotas, industrial centers, with disproportionately large numbers of young men subject to draft have been given figures probably considerably in excess of the number of people actually within their borders.

Waiting on Local Boards. As soon as the local organizations are complete, appointment of the district exemption boards will be announced. These boards, one or more in each federal judicial district, will pass upon appeals from the local bodies and will have original jurisdiction over claims for exemption on account of employment in industrial and agricultural or other necessary enterprise. Nominations for the boards proposed from forty-five states already have been sent to the president by the provost marshal general's office.

up the bars against them. The train, it is understood, will be routed from Elsiebe direct to Tucson and will arrive here late this afternoon.

Sheriff Meyers and home guard and counsel of defense officials at once took steps to keep the I. W. W. members moving and it is reported they will be shipped over to the Southern Pacific or Mexican railroad to Nogales, on the border, where there is a detachment of United States troops.

APPEAL TO GOVERNOR.

Globe, Ariz., July 12.—Former Governor Hunt, personal representative of President Wilson on the federal strike mediation board, was appealed to today by Bisbee to stop the train upon which miners were being deported. "Two thousand miners being deported this morning by corporation gun men from Warren district, stop that train," said the message, which was signed by Attorney W. D. Cleary, of Bisbee.

Nearly on a siding were cattle and box cars where the men were taken. There other guards said to it that they remained. The train, it was stated, will be sent out of town later. Leaders of the Citizens' Protective league refused to give its destination.

The work was begun at night, a number of citizens from Douglas and other points coming to assist.

Business men and miners who wanted to work had determined that the industry of the camp should no longer be tied up. Therefore, all business was suspended today for the "clean up."

MEXICO ONLY ASYLUM.

Tucson, Ariz., July 12.—A telephone message from Douglas said 300 citizens of Douglas, heavily armed with three machine guns, left for Bisbee early today in automobiles to assist in the I. W. W. roundup there.

CANADA WELCOMES TOURISTS.

Boston, July 12.—James M. Stahl, Canadian immigration inspector at this port, had obtained from the immigration officials at Ottawa assurances that summer visitors from the United States to Canada are in no danger of annoyance from the Canadian military regulations. Men between the ages of 18 to 45 years will be required to satisfy the inspector at the border that they are bona fide residents of the United States, whereupon they will be passed without inconvenience.

CASTOFF CALLED BACK.

Passaic, N. J., July 12.—Jack Murray, the outfielder, who has been playing semi-professional ball here, has been signed by the New York National league club with which team he formed.

THE MARKETS

RECEIPTS FALL FLAT ON THE LOCAL MARKS

Prices Remain the Same But Business is Almost Suspended.

Thursday was about the smallest day which has been seen on the local markets for some weeks. Receipts fell to almost nothing and there was no change in prices made which might serve to keep away monotony. Dealers and millers reported that they had received practically nothing. Wheat remained at $1.90 to $2.02 during the day, and no change was made in flour prices.

The city weighmaster had as lonely a day as any of them. Seven loads were all that he weighed during the day, the rest of the day being spent, according to his report, in "annual office cleaning." Two loads were hay, which sold at $14.00, two more of corn at $1.71 and $1.74, and the remaining three of oats at 67 and 70 cents. The retail market was more lively than the wholesale.

CORN TAKES A DROP ON THE FIXED PRICE

Market Collapses With the Chicago Board's Establishing Maximum.

Chicago, July 12.—Big breaks in the value of corn resulted today from the action of board of trade directors last night in establishing a maximum price for new crop deliveries. General selling took place as soon as the market opened and quotations in some cases made a sheer descent of as much as 5 1/2 cents. Opening figures, which varied from 5 1/2 down to 5 1/4 advance, with September at 159 to 160 1/2 and December at 116 to 119, were followed by many rapid fluctuations within the initial range, but then comparative steadiness at 1 to 4 cents under yesterday's finish.

Wheat and oats showed firmness notwithstanding the downward swing of corn. The wheat market opened 1/4 cent higher at 152 for September with July nominal, and continued steady at that level.

A broad trade was witnessed in oats with much new buying noticeable at prices only a trifle below yesterday's close. Provisions reflected the downturn of the corn market.

ITALY'S FIRST WOMAN AMBULANCE DRIVER IS HERE IN SEARCH OF AID

Mme. Daisy Mazzuchi and Her War Ambulance.

New York, July 11.—The only woman ambulance driver ever commissioned by the Italian government is in New York after a strenuous service at the front both in France and Italy. She is the beautiful Mme. Daisy Mazzuchi, wife of the former Italian consul, stationed at Rheims at the outbreak of the war. For the past year she has been driving her own ambulance with the Italian army at the front.

"We were living at Rheims when the Germans swept across Belgium and into France," said Mme. Mazzuchi to me at the Netherlands hotel, telling the thrilling story of her work at the front. "Every thing in my home was destroyed during the bombardment, but I was not in the house. I and my daughter, just 12, were busily engaged near the front line trenches helping to care for the wounded. Fortunately, I had had some training in nursing and first aid work, and I did what I could, with my daughter's help. I still carry a German bullet received while working on this front.

"I worked on, helping to care for the refugees at the French front, until Italy declared war. As the wife of an Italian consul, I believed I should work for my husband's government. So I went to the Italian front.

"I worked fifteen hours a day in my hospital and every twenty-four hours I drove from thirty-five to forty miles in my ambulance to bring in the wounded.

"Women can be just as useful at the front as men. No woman with courage, initiative, and intelligence need fear to drive an ambulance or do any other work behind the front line of the battle front.

"Women are no less courageous than men, and in many situations they are more useful."

Mme. Mazzuchi is in this country seeking aid for the work of the Italian ambulance service.

EGG SNITCHER LOST HIS PANTS-POCKETS

Station Master, However, Recovered Torn and Colored Shreds.

The mystery of the missing pants pockets was solved in police court Thursday morning when Stationmaster Degitz brought out two poke-like cloth which were colored yellow and which held bits of egg shells. James Monroe, 34, colored, owned the pocketless trousers. The court discovered the fact when he asked Monroe to show that he had not been stealing eggs. Monroe started to turn out his pockets but the trousers appendages were not present.

Officer Degitz had found the remnants, holding bits of broken eggs, in the cell where Monroe had been lodged. It is believed that the colored man tore out the pockets as a way of destroying evidence.

Patrolman Lenninger testified that he was called to a grocery store at the corner of Gay and Wallace streets, early Wednesday evening. A crowd of men and women surged before the building. Inside the store the officer found Monroe and two foreigners rolling on the floor in a pool of broken eggs.

Monroe held a table knife, which had been sharpened to a razor edge on one side. A. B. Lazoff and Mike Cusoff, owners of the store at 1802 Wallace street, said that the negro had tried to stab them with the home-made weapon when they accused him of stealing eggs.

Lazoff had seen Monroe put three eggs in his pockets while Lazoff was waiting on a customer, the foreigner said. When Monroe was accused of the theft he attempted to fight. He drew the knife from his hip pocket, Lazoff explained in rapid fire sentences in court, Wednesday. The colored man was battling with the storekeepers when the police arrived.

Monroe was convicted on the charge of assault and battery. He was fined $20 and sentenced to thirty days in jail.

Siole Hen Pockbook. Russell McKee was more interested in the $20 rent money, which lay on a stand in the parlor than he was in expressing his affections for Gladys Leazer, 1410 West Third street. When Gladys was attempting to find the family album Russell took the purse.

On rent day, which was Monday, the money was missed. Detective Sergeant W. F. Pappert was called. The girl refused to think that McKee might have taken the money, but the detective worked on his own hook. He found that McKee was "broke" on Sunday and that he had money for several purposes on Monday and Tuesday.

McKee was arrested by Pappert. At the police station, under the strain of a thorough swabbing by the officer McKee admitted taking the purse. He pleaded guilty to a petit larceny.

charge, Thursday morning. He was fined $10 and sentenced to 120 days at the state farm.

"That All?" He Asked. Harry Henninger, 21, the youth ordered held by army officers and who twice attempted to escape from the city court room Wednesday, was thoroughly questioned about his conscription status Thursday morning. Sergeant Phiney, of the regular army, told that Henninger had tried to enter the army at South Bend and that he did not seem to be registered.

Henninger said he was registered in South Bend and that he lost his card when working as a plumber. After the grueling examination Henninger arose from his chair and inquired, "That all?"

"Not yet," said Judge Kerr. He bound Henninger over to the federal authorities. The youth will be taken before Commissioner Logan Thursday afternoon.

Other Police Court Cases. Dan Huner, who told police that it was up to them to find out who he was, when he was arrested Wednesday, has a past. The young man had given his name as Watkins. Detective Sergeant Immel who made the "catch" of Huner had the berillium record examined. Huner has served three years in the penitentiary for a hold up in a St. Louis jewelry store. It is thought he may be wanted at present.

William Wright and Frank Donigan, arrested with Huner, are also held until Friday while investigation is carried on.

WANT THEME CHOSEN CONVENTION DELEGATE

A hearty endorsement was given to Theodore F. Thieme as delegate to the Indiana Constitutional convention by forty business men meeting at the Commercial club Wednesday night.

The two-score men, leaders in many different lines of business, announced that they would start a campaign for Mr. Thieme at once, and make every effort to have him chosen. Mr. Thieme made a brief talk to those present, assuring them that if he went as a delegate to the convention he would fight for constitution along new and practical lines.
